WILLKIE RIPS 'CORRUPT' FOES

France Seizes Daladier for 'War Guilt' Inquiry

PETAIN ORDERS PUNISHMENT OF AIDS WHO FLED

Property Will Be Confiscated.

VICHY, France, July 23 (AP).—Marshal Henri Petain's government, launching a full investigation of Frenchmen allegedly responsible for France's entry into the war—and her defeat—tonight ordered former Premier Edouard Daladier and others confined to Marseilles.

Edouard Daladier.

Daladier and several other parliamentarians who left France when former Premier Paul Reynaud's government fell to Petain's "armistice régime," arrived at Marseilles today from French Morocco.

"Punishment for those responsible for the war will come," it was said.

Property to Be Seized.

Those who left France without sufficient reason between May 10, when Germany's invasion of the Low Countries began, and June 30, will lose their citizenship and property. Some may be accused of deserting the army.

Besides Daladier, under whose helm France entered the war, action was expected against Cesar Campinchi, ex-minister of marine; Georges Mandel, ex-colonial minister, and Yvon Delbos, ex-education minister and former minister of foreign affairs.

It was understood 14 parliamentarians still were in Morocco. They, along with Daladier, sailed from France June 20 and went to Casablanca, while Petain's cabinet was suing for an armistice.

Minister of Justice Alibert said withdrawal of citizenship and property confiscation were aimed mainly at those who left France to live abroad. The decree thus would affect Gen. Charles de Gaulle, head of the French national committee in London which is operating with the British in pursuing the war against Germany, those who went with him to England, and others who went to the United States. De Gaulle and his aids in London have refused to recognize the Petain government.

Officers to Be Demobilized.

Frenchmen who were in the armed forces when they quit France will be considered deserters, the minister of justice said.

The demobilization of French noncommissioned officers between the ages of 35 and 41 will be started at once, it also was announced.

Farmers and farm workers who fled to unoccupied France from areas occupied by the Germans must return home immediately, the national defense ministry announced.

CLOSE MASONIC LODGES

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 23.—Drastic measures against French freemasonry have been taken in Paris, the newspaper La France au Travail revealed today. The famous "Jeune Courienne of France"—mother lodge of French freemasonry—and other Paris lodges have been closed.

This action evidently has been taken because French freemasonry, which is distinctly political and has little or nothing in common with freemasonry in the United States, is accused of having been largely instrumental in plunging France into war.

According to La France au Travail, the secret archives of the "Grand Orient" are being minutely examined. It is expected they "will reveal the price paid to French statesmen before the sale of the French army to Britain."

Struggle "Will Be Resumed."

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of French forces continuing the war, declared in a broadcast to all Frenchmen tonight that the French struggle against Germany and Italy "will be resumed shortly on sea and on land."

French airmen rejoined the battle in a raid on Germany Sunday night, he said.

He invited all Frenchmen who are able to join him.

WPA MATERIALS, GOOD AS NEW, GO TO A CITY DUMP!

Reveal Wide Waste in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 23 [Special].—Wholesale destruction of clothing and equipment bearing labels of the WPA has been discovered at a west side dump here.

Most of the material was in good condition, except for apparently intentional slashing of clothing and the puncturing of metal objects. Some of the items were so new and had seen so little service the manufacturer's paper label had not been worn off.

Among the objects brought to the dump by trucks were hundreds of slashed rubber boots and rubber raincoats, chopped sections of nearly new rubber hose, and many heavy garbage cans and buckets. On the back of each raincoat were the large blocked letters "WPA," while the punctured cans carried the agency's metal identifying tag.

Admit Taking Easy Way.

When the private investigators who made the disclosures questioned WPA officials they received startlingly frank answers concerning the seemingly wanton disposal of government property.

These officials contended it is easier to buy new material than to make repairs and that the dump heap is the only place for such equipment, however slightly used, since federal regulations prohibit WPA workmen from taking it home for private use.

"When buckets are used to carry paste or powdery scenery paint," explained Herbert C. Legg, WPA administrator for southern California, "their usefulness immediately is nullified and they are discarded. We don't wash them out so they can be used again.

"We feel it is easier and even more economical to buy new raincoats than to attempt to make repairs on those found to have a rent," said H. P. Franck, state property custodian of the WPA.

No Wet Feet Is Rule.

If a workman's high hip boots are found to have a crack, a new pair for him is immediately requisitioned, for it is the policy of the WPA, it was said, never to let its workmen get wet feet.

Most of the discarded garbage cans of heavy galvanized iron were used on WPA jobs as latrines. Regardless of the length of time cans are in service, all those used on one job are classified as junk when that project ends.

"They are disposed of as soon as possible because some one might put drinking water in them," said T. W. Aungst, Legg's assistant.

Legg and Aungst sought to put the blame for the destruction of any good material on politicians or on the California state relief administration. Legg said he had examined dumped equipment bearing the WPA stamp and convinced himself that no junk dealer would bid anything for it.

Dump Owner Cashes In.

However, E. P. Shoemaker, owner of the dump, said he had salvaged much of the goods the WPA had consigned to his place as junk and had found that vast quantities of the discarded material appeared to be virtually new.

Two years ago, he related, two barrels of WPA stamped pick handles, some of which never had been used, were delivered to his dump by a government truck. He was ordered by the driver to burn the handles immediately, but instead, he said, he saved them. He sold most of them and gave others away, he said.

"We don't know anything about the pick handles," said Aungst. "They must have been taken to the dump by the state relief administration."

Shoemaker has been keeping two men busy soldering the large pick-driven holes in discarded WPA buckets. Custodian Franck said the containers were given the mark of the pick to emphasize their official WPA classification as junk.

Legg said he had made a visit to the dump and was satisfied with the explanations brought to him by half a dozen assistants. He commented that if sections of new rubber hose were discovered at the dump that "some politician must have planted them there."

Ex-Gov. Long Is Indicted in Pay Roll Fraud

New Orleans, La., July 23 (AP).—Former Gov. Earl K. Long was indicted late today by the parish [county] grand jury on embezzlement charges involving pay roll "dead heads" in the hotly fought February gubernatorial campaign.

Earl K. Long.

Indicted with him were three former members of the dock board and the former assistant to the board's general manager.

The jury returned three indictments charging embezzlement and extortion to the five men, some of them among the most prominent in the city. The jury's investigation of a "special" board pay roll began after Gov. Sam Jones took office May 14, succeeding Long.

Others in Indictment.

Named in the indictment with the former governor were:

I. B. Rennyson, real estate broker and board member from 1929 until this year.

L. J. Vaccaro, vice president of the Standard Fruit and Steamship company, board member from 1932 until this year.

Herbert J. Schwartz, president of the Maison Blanche company, New Orleans department store, and a board member from 1937 until early this year.

John M. Fush, former assistant to the board's general manager and admitted co-custodian of money contributed by the state employés during the régime of the late Huey Long and his political heirs.

Sixteen persons were named as "deadheads" in the three indictments, but they were not charged.

Pay Roll Padding Alleged.

The embezzlement indictments contained specific charges covering alleged diversion of public funds thru pay roll padding for the week of Feb. 14 to 21, the crucial seven days before the gubernatorial runoff primary in which Jones crushed the machine led by Long.

This was the first indictment returned against Earl Long, brother of Senator Huey P. Long, who built a political empire in the state before he was shot to death in the capitol building in Baton Rouge in 1935.

The empire crumbled under a barrage of indictments, federal and state, that sent high figures of the state toppling into disgrace after Gov. Richard W. Leche quit in June, 1939.

But as the scandals widened, dragging more and more members of the state machine into the grip of the law, Earl Long had remained untouched.

Leche himself recently was sentenced to 10 years in federal prison for mail fraud and now is appealing the verdict.

BELIEVE BRITISH DROP BOMBS ON PARIS OR AT LEAST ITS AIR FIELDS

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 23.—While the German forces of occupation have issued no statement verifying the information, it appears that the British air force is bombing Paris, the capital of England's former ally, or at least the air fields near it. This belief is based upon what I saw and heard shortly after 11 o'clock last night.

First I heard the characteristic explosions which mark an air raid. The blasts were so distant it was impossible to distinguish which were bombs or which were antiaircraft shells. Looking from my window I say the sky near Le Bourget airfield alight with tracer bullets and searchlight beams. The performance lasted 15 minutes. Later I was awakened by the sound of explosions from the same direction.

Tie Up Assets of Carrozzo with Tax Lien

A lien on all the properties of Mike Carrozzo, union boss of the city's street sweepers and construction laborers, was filed yesterday with Hoyt King, clerk of the federal District court, by Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue.

Mike Carrozzo.

The sum named in the lien is $241,088 for income taxes unpaid for 1937 and 1938. It includes interest and penalties. Harrison's action confirmed rumors that Carrozzo had been under investigation for income tax evasion for some time.

No Tax Paid from 1923 to 1933.

It has been reported that Carrozzo has paid the government $500,000 in an effort to avoid prosecution as a tax evader. The half million is believed to represent taxes for the last seven years.

Authoritative sources have disclosed that the union czar paid no income taxes from 1923 to 1933, claiming that his $8,000 annual salary was exempt because it came from union workers employed by the city. During those years city employés were not required to pay income taxes.

Other Items Reported Found.

Altho the government did not bring action against Carrozzo in this instance it is said that he paid $50,000 in taxes and penalties for the 10 year period. Since 1933 he has filed returns, but agents investigating his income are said to have found items he did not report.

In 1937 it is believed that the government demanded and received $200,000 from Carrozzo. Further investigations led to further demands sufficient to account for the half million he is reported to have paid.

On June 25 a federal grand jury returned an indictment charging Carrozzo and nine other union officials with violations of the Sherman antitrust act in conspiring to prevent the use of ready mixed concrete in the Chicago area.

G. O. P. NOMINEE OPENS UP; HITS ROOSEVELT MACHINE

EDITH WILLKIE WINS WEST BY DOING NOTHING!

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

She is doing it by doing nothing. She doesn't even do this intentionally. She just goes along, gay and wide eyed, wherever her husband goes. Not for the campaign, she says, but "just to see the United States."

She is still abashed that people recognize her as the wife of the Republican Presidential nominee and crowd around. She doesn't know what to say when women gush, as they will gush, "O, Mrs. Willkie, you're just so sweet." But she beamed with pleasure this morning when, as her plane paused at Denver in flight between Colorado Springs and Cheyenne, three women hurried up to say, "O, Mrs. Willkie, we just think your husband is the finest man."

"She'll Never Be President."

It delighted her as much as the tiny boy she saw in Omaha, Neb., two weeks ago, tears dripping down his cheeks in chagrin that the men had shunted him aside in the crush when he tried to shake Willkie's hand.

"But here's Mrs. Willkie," his mother said. "Shake her hand. Won't she do?"

"I adored him," Mrs. Willkie recalls. "He was quite right."

She is being deluged with letters at the rate of 300 a day. Some are from old friends. One wrote in such awe that Mrs. Willkie is upset. "I know her so well," she said. "Imagine being awed! About me!"

Dislikes 'Teeth' Photos.

Another wrote protesting that she looks too solemn in her pictures. "But I don't like pictures showing teeth in action," she says. "Why must I smile all the time?"

Another woman wrote from Chicago, furious because Mrs. Willkie did not make a speech there when she flew through two weeks ago. For the record, let it be known that Mrs. Willkie never has made a speech. She doesn't intend to.

"She said I was letting my husband down terribly," Mrs. Willkie confided. "But I can't make one. Really, I'm not saying that just to be opposite. Frankly, it would petrify me. I'm no mouse, but—

"Anyway," with a smile, "Wendell is perfectly adequate to make the speeches for this family."

This is in line with her comment last week as she and Mr. Willkie listened by radio to the Democratic convention. When Mrs. Roosevelt spoke, preceding the President's address, Mr. Willkie looked up with a wry grin: "They're two timing on us," he told her.

"That's all right," she soothed him, "we'll let them. You're quite able to handle both of them for us."

She's Casual and Candid.

All sorts of women are casually dropping in to see her. Some are important women who have come a long way. Some are housewives from the hills and the great plains. She has a wonderful time with them, and each departs thinking she has known Edith Willkie all her life. Mrs. Willkie has that knack. It seems to spring from a natural well of friendliness. She is so casual and so candid in her speech, as well as inordinately unassuming, that the women go away open mouthed.

Her secret may lie in her simplicity and complete lack of affectation. Again, it may be in her eager intelligence and her warmth. Or her quiet independence. She says what she likes and goes where she pleases. She roams around the countryside a wide eyed, delighted tourist.

India Establishes System for Air Raid Precautions

SIMLA, India, July 23 (AP).—India has established a system of observers and warnings modeled after Britain's air raid defense setup. The network of lookout posts, covering all potentially vulnerable areas, is in addition to passive defense measures established when Italy entered the war.

Wyoming Throngs Hail Attack on Third Term.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 23 [Special.]—Wendell Willkie broke loose tonight from the shackles of pre-campaign silence, discarded the rôle of vacationer, and in a shirt sleeve attack on the New Deal castigated its political machine support in Chicago and other cities and called on the new leadership of the Republican party to save liberty in this country. He spoke at a banquet in Consistory temple, attended by 1,000 cheering admirers.

Willkie journeyed here this morning from his vacation headquarters in Colorado Springs to attend the annual Cheyenne Frontier Days celebration, a wild west show of cattlemen in which he became the center of attraction.

Addressing 30,000 persons who jammed the center of the city to hear him shortly after his arrival, Willkie ripped at the third term backers of President Roosevelt who have set up a cry of "indispensability."

"No man is indispensable," he concluded, as the crowd roared its approval.

Lauds New Leadership.

"The proudest thing in my life," he told his banquet audience later, "is that my nomination for President came from the new leadership of the Republican party—men like Nels Smith, governor of Wyoming; Ralph Carr, governor of Colorado; Frank Horton of Wyoming, Ray Baldwin of Connecticut, and Joe Martin of Massachusetts.

"This leadership is resolved that this country shall not be controlled by corporate wealth or public wealth in the hands of political machines.

"In my youth I followed the great Progressive leaders, who insisted that the stranglehold of big business be removed from our government and courts. I am insistent that the throttle hold of big government be removed from courts, legislation, and administrative bodies.

Lashes at Political Machines.

"Every corrupt machine in the nation is in opposition to us. Hague of New Jersey, who sought to deprive the people of civil liberties; Pendergast, who is in prison; the Kelly-Nash machine in Chicago, the Crump machine in Tennessee.

"All these machines are built and supported by taxpayers' money, fed out from Washington. We are resolved that this shall end and when we come into power no other element of our society will take possession of our political processes. It will remain in the hands of the people.

"This is not a campaign, but a crusade against government maintained by corrupt political processes. No high sounding words pointed by brain trusters in back rooms and delivered in a melodious voice will deter me.

"This government belongs to all the people and we are going to take it back.

Leaders Who Believe in America.

"We will give it the leadership of men who believe in the future of America, who know the dynamics of our America undefeated, who will build a system subject to reasonable social controls and one that will function.

"I call all the people of this great dynamic west to this crusade. We must preserve this liberty. The lights of liberty are going out one by one in Europe. The light must burn more brightly here in the democratic process under a leadership that believes in America."

A great crowd waited outside the temple to catch a glimpse of Willkie as he left for the airport to take a plane for Salt Lake City, where tomorrow he will attend a celebration in honor of the anniversary of statehood. In this celebration, the Mormon church has been given a conspicuous part.

Cheers Change His Mind.

Induced to jump the gun or his campaign plans by the cheering crowds at Brighton and Greeley, Colo., where he stopped en route to Cheyenne this morning, the Republican nominee struck scornfully at the New Deal thesis that the country's welfare demands the reëlection of President Roosevelt for a third term.

At Greeley, where he was introduced by Gov. Carr, Willkie expressed his deep desire to keep this a free country.

"There are few places in the world today," he told a welcoming crowd of 5,000, a third of the town's population, "where free, liberty-loving people can gather like this. We can keep this privilege so long as we keep a free, untrammeled press, uncontroled and unafraid; so long as we keep a free political system like this.

"Gov. Carr stands on his own feet and fears no man. This will continue as long as we maintain this way of life. If we ever permit the Kelly-Nash machine, the Hague machine, the remnants of the Pendergast machine and the Guffeys of Pennsylvania to control our political life, we will go down the same road as the totalitarian states of Europe.

Glad Machines Oppose Him.

"I am proud that these machines are doing what they can to defeat me this fall. I want your support. I want you people who live in a town named after one of the great Democrats of all time [Horace Greeley] to help me. I want you to send me to Washington as your uncontroled representative, who understands you and your every day problems."

At both Greeley and Brighton, Willkie recalled the days when he was a young laborer, wandering from job to job.

"Twenty-seven years ago," he said, "I worked in a sugar mill in Puerto Rico as a chemist. Thirty years ago I worked on a sugar farm near Fort Collins as a field hand. The fact that I am here today as a Presidential candidate illustrates the opportunities in a democracy.

Raps "Indispensable" Myth.

"It is the very essence of democracy to develop the initiative and energies of men, so that thousands are qualified for any position of trust—public or private. I know that it is by a series of circumstances that I represent your great cause. There are many, many men just as qualified to be President of the United States. There is no such thing in this country as the indispensable man."

Willkie then told how he nearly became a farmer because of a pretty face.

"It was out in western Iowa," he went on. "I blew in on a freight train, broke and hungry. I went out to a farm to get a job. I asked for breakfast and was shown a stack of wood. After breakfast I was hired as a farm hand.

Dreams of Farmer's Life.

"The only thing to read on that farm was a copy of the Sears-Roebuck catalog. But there was a very attractive daughter. We attended Evangelistic services together and on the way home, along a moonlit road, I had sweet thoughts of a home in the country.

"But I decided to quit. One evening the daughter heard of it and lectured me on the evils of bumming around. 'Stay here,' she said, 'father has 320 acres and some day you and I will own it.'

"If I had accepted that opportunity I would be a retired farmer in California today instead of a candidate for President of the United States."

Willkie today announced the appointment of Raymond Leslie Buell, one of the editors of Fortune magazine, to assist Russell Davenport in coördinating the independent groups of Willkie supporters thruout the country. He also appointed Lem Jones as press secretary. Jones held a similar position with Thomas E. Dewey's preconvention campaign.

WILLKIE BUTTONS BLOSSOM

If a demand for campaign buttons means anything, Wendell L. Willkie is off to a fast start in his race for the Presidency.

National Republican headquarters in the 120 South La Salle street building has passed out 250,000 of the lapel decorations to Willkie supporters since its offices were opened last Saturday, it was disclosed yesterday.

Claimed by Letter and Visit.

Arthur W. Curtis, executive assistant to John D. M. Hamilton, who heads the headquarters staff, said the campaign buttons have been claimed by letter and personal visit. The first shipment of 25,000 was gone within 30 minutes after a skeleton force opened the headquarters offices Saturday.

One hundred thousand buttons were given away Monday, Curtis said, and Willkie supporters claimed 125,000 more yesterday. On another floor of the building, the Republican Volunteers were besieged with calls for buttons. They reported 30,000 given away since Saturday.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Clyde Backus, chairman of the Volunteers. "We've given buttons to people who never before wore political emblems."

Many Styles Are Noted.

Vari-colored decorations were noted on the campaign emblems that blossomed in the loop. Predominant were the standard red, white, and blue party buttons, with "Willkie and McNary" printed on a white center background. Other Republican organizations issued various types of buttons.

New to the campaign were buttons which graced some lapels. They read: "I'm a Democrat—I will vote for Willkie."

The Republican Volunteers, formed last fall, are working with the regular G. O. P. groups. They are setting up neighborhood committees of 16 members each thruout the county.

THIRD TERM BOLT EVOKES GUFFAWS FROM ROOSEVELT

Willkie Hits Back

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 23 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie, commenting on remarks by President Roosevelt concerning Democrats who have announced support for the Republican Presidential nominee, said today:

"The President is going to have to make remarks about a lot of Democrats before this campaign is over. This shows the President is thinking of something besides the affairs of state."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 23.—President Roosevelt jeered today at antithird term Democrats who have bolted the party to join forces with Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee.

Holding his first press conference since his renomination, Mr. Roosevelt laughed heartily over his own wise cracks as he handed out his estimates of the bolters—Senator Edward R. Burke of Nebraska, former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, Lewis W. Douglas, former director of the budget, and John W. Hanes, former assistant secretary of the treasury.

Asked whether the word "bolt" properly described Burke's offer of support to Willkie, the President said he understood the Democratic party had bolted from Burke. He referred to Burke's defeat for renomination for the senate in the recent Nebraska primary.

Calls Reed Qualified.

Mr. Roosevelt was told that Reed had called a meeting of antithird term Jeffersonian Democrats in Chicago Thursday to plan campaign strategy.

Again? he retorted. Reed did that in 1932 and 1936, and maybe in 1928, the President recalled. That makes Reed well qualified from experience, he laughed.

The President also suggested that Reed might have an ax to grind because the National Labor Relations board charged the Donnelly Garment company of Kansas City, owned by Reed and his wife, with a labor act violation, and because the NRA had previously also been at issue with the firm.

Hanes and Douglas? Honorable and amiable young men, the President felt, but Douglas did not vote Democratic four years ago, and he doubted if Hanes did, either. Then, too, said Mr. Roosevelt, the administration felt that their minds ran more to dollars than to humanity.

Plans to See Wallace.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he will return to the White House Thursday to confer with Henry A. Wallace, his handpicked running mate. He said he assumed Wallace would continue as secretary of agriculture while campaigning.

The President termed it "just another Chicago story" when asked whether James A. Farley would resign Friday as postmaster general and that Mayor Edward J. Kelly would succeed him. He said that he would see Farley within a few days to discuss his successor as chairman of the Democratic national committee.

William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France, who is home to report, sat with the President during the press conference. Asked when Bullitt would return to his post, Mr. Roosevelt observed that he had only just arrived in this country.

Broker William B. Averell Found Dead; Held Suicide

New York, July 23 (AP).—A bell hop entering the Ritz-Carlton hotel apartment tonight in which William Bishop Averell, 65 years old, had lived for 30 years, found the socially prominent cotton broker in a chair, a bullet in his temple, a revolver in his hand.

CRANE ANSWERS FORMER WIFE'S SUIT FOR $200,000

Herbert P. Crane, 79 years old, of the Crane plumbing family, yesterday filed an answer in Superior court asking that a suit filed last October by Mrs. Elida Piza, his former wife, be dismissed. Mrs. Piza, who lives in a near north side hotel, had asked her former husband and the Crane company for $200,000 worth of Crane company stock.

Her suit alleged that Crane gave her the shares three days after their marriage in 1916, but kept them for her. Crane's reply, drawn up by Attorney Paul J. Kuhn of Aurora, said her property rights were taken care of by a lump sum settlement of $100,000 at the time of the divorce in 1920. After Crane's answer was filed yesterday it was learned that Mrs. Piza has an amended suit pending which asserts that she is in want.

Crane, who lives at Wild Rose farm, near St. Charles, wed the Costa Rican beauty by proxy when business forced his return to the United States after a whirlwind courtship. During their divorce litigation he accused her of taking all the Wild Rose farm furniture except an iron cannon, a stone chair weighing 1,000 pounds, and a hot stove.

Gov. Carr Helps Quartet Sing 'We Want Willkie'

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 23 (AP).—Gov. Ralph L. Carr of Colorado led a quartet today in singing a new Republican campaign song: "We Want Willkie." During a train journey from Denver to Cheyenne the governor and his singers moved from car to car of a special train which carried Wendell L. Willkie to the Cheyenne frontier days rodeo. In each car they sang.

GARNER BACKERS LEAVE DOOR AJAR TO BOLT PARTY

Wait to See What Vice President Will Do.

The door was left open yesterday for a bolt from the Democratic party by members of the Illinois Garner for President committee. The group met in the office of Co-Chairman Julius F. Smietanka, who was collector of internal revenue under Woodrow Wilson.

Altho no action was taken to support Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican nominee for President, members were told that another meeting would be held "should a contingency arise." This was understood to mean that the committee is waiting to see what Vice President John N. Garner will do.

"Naturally, the thought that we do not want to embarrass the Vice President was uppermost during our discussion of continuing opposition to a third term," Mr. Smietanka said. "Committee members may decide for themselves, of course, which Presidential candidate they will support."

Veterans Out for Willkie.

Already some of the veteran Democrats on the committee have announced their support of Willkie. Among them were Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, former Democratic national committeewoman from Illinois; W. A. Compton of Macomb, who for 20 years was party chairman in McDonough county, and Raymond B. Siepker of Barry.

Added to this list yesterday was Earle B. Tilton, a Chicago banker whose hobby is political science and economics.

"The implication of a third term and the basic principles of our American system of government are diametrically opposed," Mr. Tilton said. "A third term will lead to the concentration of power in an executive surrounded by a burocracy of sycophants.

It Can Happen Here.

"It will lead to the regimentation of industry, of agriculture, and even to the regimentation of our individual lives. It will cause the destruction of the individual initiative which has made the success of America the envy of the world, and in its stead will substitute in the individual a spirit of defeatism in which he will be forced to exist on a mere subsistence imposed upon him under the guise of 'security.'

"These things can and will happen here if we disregard the handwriting which is on the wall today."

What the American people want is economic security based on individual effort and freedom, not political slavery, he said.

Tomorrow Chicago will be the scene of a meeting of the Jeffersonian Democrats at the call of Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri. Among the prominent Democrats at this conference will be Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], who will come here from Washington, D. C.

BOY RIDES BIKE 1,025 MILES JUST TO HEAR WILLKIE

Elwood, Ind., July 23 [Special].—John Stout, 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stout of Handley, Tex., arrived here by bicycle from his home, 1,025 miles away. He came to Elwood to attend the notification ceremonies, Aug. 17, for Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee.

He left home July 15 and rode 150 miles that day and also the next. When he reached Indianapolis his arms were so sunburned he required medical treatment.

A husky 6 foot 2 inch, 180 pound honor graduate from Handley High school this year, Stout goes in for wholesale bicycling as a conditioner for football playing at Texas A. and M. university this fall.

John's father was born in Elwood and went to school with Willkie. The Stouts and two other sons are enroute to Elwood.

TIN PAN ALLEY IN AN UPROAR OVER LATEST HIT, 'WPA'

Records Withdrawn; Pressure Denied.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 23.—Tin Pan alley, in the Broadway theatrical sector, rocked in violent controversy today over the latest swing song hit, "WPA," a ditty dealing with the joys of leisure in a government job.

Officials of the Decca Records, Inc., disclosed they had withdrawn recordings of the song after deciding it was "controversial." There were numerous complaints, they admited, but denied any government agency had forced removal of the offending discs.

The three major radio broadcasting networks, with their stations subject to government licensing, banned playing of the song three weeks ago on the ground it was in "bad taste." Where the pressure came from—if any—has not been revealed.

Written by Jesse Stone.

"WPA" is the opus of Jesse Stone, a Negro songwriter. The tune is catchy and the words set forth the ease of WPA labor as the kind of work which can be accomplished with sleep and shovel-leaning.

Listeners are admonished not to be dopes and labor because work is out of style. In the WPA, the song runs along, the participant does not even have to stand on his feet—he can sit down, smoke, and tell jokes.

E. F. Stevens Jr., vice president of Decca Records, said the company did not see anything troublesome in the song when it was first heard.

"But then, after it was out, complaints started to come in," he explained, "and we jerked it out of the catalog. We take the attitude we are completely nonpartisan or nonpolitical and try to keep out any material that starts a controversy over politics or religion. That saves a lot of debate."

Publising to Continue.

A different view of the song was taken by Elliott Shapiro, vice president of Shapiro-Bernstein, publishers of the number.

"I don't see anything wrong with it," asserted Shapiro. "It's funny, it's clean, it's American comedy, it's no slap at the WPA. No WPA worker—if he has a sense of humor—would be sore about this song."

Shapiro permitted quotation of the last line of the song to show how innocuous it was. The line runs as follows:

"Three little letters that make life okay—WPA!"

Shapiro vowed his company will go right on publishing the song in sheet form—the radio networks, the recording company, and the WPA to the contrary, notwithstanding.

ANTITHIRD TERM DEMOCRATS MAP WILLKIE SUPPORT

New York, July 23 (AP).—The Associated Willkie Clubs of America announced tonight that a national committee of Democrats—dissidents from the New Deal—will be organized within two weeks to seek the election of Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for the Presidency.

After a two hour conference with John W. Hanes, former under-secretary of the Treasury in the Roosevelt administration, Oren Root Jr., chairman of the clubs, announced that earlier action was decided against in order for Hanes to confer with three others who announced they will bolt the Democratic ticket and work for Willkie. They are Lewis W. Douglas, former budget director under President Roosevelt; Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, Tulsa, Okla., club woman; and Dr. Alan Valentine, president of the University of Rochester.

The four will meet in either New York or Chicago in about 10 days to evolve formal committee plans, Root said.

FARMER GROUP OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR ROOSEVELT

A committee of 40 farmers from 12 central western states met in the Morrison hotel yesterday to start a campaign for the reëlection of President Roosevelt. Chairman William Settle of Petroleum, Ind., said the Vice Presidential nominee, Henry A. Wallace, had been invited to address the group this morning, but had not definitely accepted. Mr. Wallace is expected in the city this morning on his way back to Washington, D. C., from Des Moines.

NO THIRD TERM DICTATORSHIP, G. O. P. WAR CRY

9,000 Hear Republican Candidates at Salem.

BY FRANK CIPRIANI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Salem, Ill., July 23.—Sounding a campaign cry that there shall be no third term dictatorship in America, the Republican party of Illinois today opened a confident and militant drive toward expected state and national victories in the November election.

Before 9,000 enthusiastic men and women from 30 southern Illinois counties Republican leaders, headed by Dwight H. Green, candidate for governor, challenged the state and national Democratic administrations as menaces to the American way of life. They warned that the country's future safety depends upon the sanity of Republican guidance.

The Republican rally was held as part of the 57th annual Marion county soldiers' and sailors' reunion.

Earnestness Is Evidence.

Other speakers, besides Green, included Speaker Hugh W. Cross, candidate for lieutenant governor; Justus L. Johnson of Aurora, who is running for secretary of state; Arthur C. Lueder, former Chicago postmaster and now candidate for state auditor, and George F. Barrett, candidate for attorney general.

There was something about today's meeting remarkably reminiscent of that crisis of the '60s. That something was an almost religious atmosphere, reflected in the earnestness of both speakers and audience, and the conviction that there remains for the Republican party another historic task to accomplish, a task to uphold cherished American tradition, and to insure it for all time against the unrestrained ambitions of men and political parties.

Green and other speakers touched upon the traditional issues involved in the present campaign.

No Dictator in America!

"There shall be no dictator springing up in America," cried the gubernatorial candidate at one point. "In the traditions of our republic lie the foundations of Americanism, and those traditions must and shall be preserved."

Green was warmly cheered, as was Speaker Cross, for his declaration: "The people of Illinois, as well as of the nation, will rise up in arms this fall and blast all attempts at dictatorship out of our national and state governments."

Green particularly attacked the belligerent attitude of President Roosevelt as a wrongful attitude compounded by the country's inadequate war preparations.

Recalls Words of T. R.

"At the turn of the century," said Green, "a great Republican President, Theodore Roosevelt, set a foreign policy for America when he said: 'Speak softly, but carry a big stick.' Twice since then the United States has found itself unprepared when a crisis developed, and twice these crises developed under Democratic Presidents.

"With nations rearming at a furious rate, and with wars springing up in all parts of the world, our President has taken a more and more belligerent attitude, until suddenly we are told that the war is at our doorstep, and that our army and navy and air forces are pitifully inadequate, even for our own defense.

"The present administration, instead of being prepared for the worst, has openly invited trouble."

The reaction to Green's speech was spontaneous and enthusiastic, convincing downstate leaders that in one brief appearance he had made a fine impression. This, they added, was important because southern Illinois has been essentially Democratic since 1933. Later, as other speakers mentioned the name of Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for President, and evoked waves of applause, the same leaders openly predicted that this section of the state may go Republican.

Convention Called a Mockery.

Speaker Cross in his address charged that the recent Democratic national convention in Chicago was a mockery.

"Boss tactics prevailed in that convention," said Cross. "The New Dealers took away Democracy from the people. And so we say to all Jeffersonian and constitutional Democrats: If your party has deserted you, then come to us. We will keep our pledges. We will undo the evil done by the New Deal during the last seven futile years.

"The choice of the Democratic state candidates was no different. That ticket was picked in a back room in Springfield by the Nudleman-Horner-Schwartz-Arvey combine, which has been running the state for seven years.

"This campaign in Illinois will be a clean cut issue of whether or not the people represented by the Republican party will stand for the dictatorial policies of men like Nudleman and Arvey and their kind from the river wards in Chicago."

Johnson Warns of Rulers.

"President Roosevelt," he said, "is the all time world champion in the creation of national emergencies."

"This is not a four year periodic campaign," he said. "It is a breakdown of American traditions, and Democrats will join with Republicans in seeing that so-called emergencies will not make lifetime rulers in free America.

Beware of Alliances: Lueder.

"What a contrast between that great commoner born in Salem, William Jennings Bryan, and the present day autocrat who has so little regard for American traditions."

Johnson said that as a result of Roosevelt emergencies, "the job now is to arm—to prepare."

More charges were hurled at Roosevelt by Lueder in his speech.

"President Roosevelt, who is again sacrificing himself to keep the internationalists in power altho professing to be a friend of peace, has by his acts and utterances and every influence of his high office served notice on the world that we are taking sides in the European war, and thereby jeopardizing American neutrality and peace," said Lueder.

"There is only one way of keeping out of entangling alliances and that is by not getting into them, and there is only one instrument to that end, and that is the Republican party under the leadership of Wendell L. Willkie."

Lashes Chicago Machine.

In his address Barrett lashed especially at the Kelly-Nash machine in Chicago. He also cracked down on President Roosevelt.

Reviewing the Democratic convention, Barrett pictured Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago as the "President's Charley McCarthy."

"While Secretary Hopkins corralled the candidates, Kelly packed his pay rollers in the gallery and on the floor. They shouted 'Roosevelt and humanity!' but, like all other third termers, they really were shouting 'take care of Roosevelt—he takes care of Kelly, and Kelly takes care of us.'

"Never in the history of our nation was there a more brazen display of bossism than at the convention. It was a sickening sight to see the whip of the Kelly-Nash machine lash out with the White House's approval, if not applause."

Describing the tactics "engineered from the White House" to win the nomination for Roosevelt, Barrett said: "There was no doubt in the minds of any one that Roosevelt was drafting Roosevelt. Thus his statement to the delegates as to why he was accepting the nomination will be a stench in the nostrils of the decent people of the state."

Among other speakers were Warren Wright of Jacksonville, candidate for state treasurer; William G. Stratton, a candidate for congressman at large, and Ben O. Sumner, candidate for congressman from the 23d district. A wire was received from Wayland Brooks, candidate for United States senator, who was unable to attend.

C. L. Edwards, Marion county Republican chairman, presided.

HEACOCK QUITS IERC; CHARGES POLITICAL RULE

Pressure Dictates Use of Funds, He Asserts.

B. C. Heacock of Peoria, president of the Caterpillar Tractor company, resigned yesterday from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, charging that the body was animated by politics when it voted more state relief funds to keep Chicago's WPA projects operating.

"Political considerations and political pressure are dictating what is done with vast sums of relief money, and that's a hell of a note," Heacock said in Peoria. "When this state of affairs exists, my usefulness on the IERC is destroyed."

In his letter of resignation to Gov. Horner, who is ill and secluded in Winnetka, Heacock said in part: "It is now obvious to me a majority of the commission responds to political considerations and pressure as evidenced by recent commission action in diverting [state] relief funds to Chicago sponsorship of WPA projects."

Recalls Fund History.

Heacock, who also had been at odds with IERC members on other matters, recalled in an interview the history of the use of state funds for WPA projects. A law permitting the governor to authorize such diversion was passed in 1939.

"Gov. Horner sanctioned the diversion of more than $500,000 for this purpose," Heacock said. "After observing from experience that this did not result in a net saving to the state, and threatened to deprive disabled relief clients of their already small budgets in aid, the IERC voted May 10 to discontinue the WPA grants.

"All who voted were unanimous on this action. On June 6, however, Mayor Kelly appeared before the IERC in a plea that we reverse ourselves, and two members did so. They were State Treasurer Louie Lewis and Samuel Nudelman, state director of finance. This resulted in a tie vote, 4 to 4.

Reinstated by 5 to 2 Vote.

"On June 19 State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, who hadn't attended a meeting in months, appeared. This time the vote was 5 to 2 to reinstate the giving of funds. That's why I'm quitting."

Heacock's charge met a prompt rebuttal from Mayor Kelly and members of the IERC, which was established under a Republican governor and claims to be aloof from politics. Mayor Kelly said he never spoke to IERC members about relief matters. He said Democratic organization nominees were among the members who had first voted to cut off the funds.

"Mr. Heacock is playing a little bit of politics himself," the mayor said. "He's for Willkie for President and he's out of sympathy with relief. That's the only politics in the matter."

Denies Reversing Vote.

State Treasurer Lewis, reached in Springfield, denied that he and Nudelman had reversed their votes. Nor did Mayor Kelly ever approach them on this question, he said.

"We voted against continuing giving about $24 per man for sponsorship of relief clients transferred to WPA in Chicago," Lewis said. "Later, when a different arrangement was worked out by which the amount was only $16 per man for a month, we voted for that, and would gladly do it again."

William H. Sexton, special traction counsel for the city and a member of the IERC under both G. O. P. and Democratic state administrations, said Heacock's statement was unfair. He said the commission's record of avoiding politics is still intact.

Federal Funds at Stake.

"When Mayor Kelly came before the commission he simply stated the facts of the matter frankly and openly," Sexton said. "If we did not cooperate with the city and WPA the federal money allotted to Illinois would be transferred to other states.

"Mr. Heacock has been out of line with a majority of the commission members since he was appointed to the IERC last November. It's a pity."

Heacock, a prominent Republican, also is a member of the state sanitary water board and the advisory council of the state employment service. He was a member of the business men's council which made a study of relief problems in 1937.

3 Dogs Guarding Master's Body Removed from Flat

Three famished dogs, guarding their master in death, yesterday blocked police who were attempting to reach the body of Robert L. Howland, 80 years old, who had died, apparently of natural causes, in his flat at 1748 Van Buren street. Herbert Carens of the Anti-Cruelty society, protected by padded clothing, entered the rooms and took the dogs out one by one. Howland, who operated a small printing shop, had been dead a day and a half.

Get Job to Become Citizen, Judge Orders an Applicant

Rochester, N. Y., July 23 (AP).—A Supreme court justice refused citizenship to all applicants on public relief rolls until they obtain employment. "There are plenty of jobs opening up in industry now and I am going to continue your case until you get a job," Justice Nathan D. Lapham told each applicant who is on relief.

AMERICANS LAUD AMERICAN DRESS DESIGN CONTEST

Letters Pour into Tribune Fashions Office.

A well known New York fashion designer commented for the press this week that "The fall of 1940 will go down in history as the year in which the whole structure of the fashion business had to be rebuilt."

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE realized this even sooner, and last Sunday announced a nation-wide contest for amateur and professional fashion designers to encourage and develop American fashions for American women. The only stipulation is that the designer submitting sketches in the contest reside in this country.

The announcement met with enthusiastic response from men and women ranging between the ages of 16 and 60. Answers and requests for further details of the contest arrived from many states Monday and yesterday in the American Fashions office at the Tribune Tower.

Fashion Capital Falls.

Paris was unrivalled for centuries as the world's fashion capital. This leadership was undermined in France's recent defeat. It may rise again. It may not. Unfortuante as is the cause of its decline, Paris no longer can dictate what American women will wear. It is America's opportunity to take first place in one of the most lucrative of industries, the constantly changing world of fashion.

Announcement of the contest revealed that American designers, young and old, have felt keenly the dictatorship of a few dressmakers across the ocean. A letter from one of the contestants, Henrietta J. Pritchard, 5519 Blackstone avenue, emphasizes this point. "You are to be congratulated," she writes, "on this step, as the United States has many talented designers. This Paris complex needs showing up, tho one would prefer that it was not brought about by the war in Europe."

Another from E. L. Crim, 8106 Justine street, states: "Hurrah! American fashions at last! Why not? We have creative minds. Best of luck for the American fashions contest, for beloved America and the rest of the world."

A Youth of 16 Enters.

Even youngsters did not hesitate to enter their names in the contest yesterday. Warren E. Gilchrist, 16 years old, of St. Charles, declared in his entry, "I am planning to be one of the many needed American designers."

And the contest hopes to reveal that there are many excellent, as well as needed, American designers. The deadline for sketches has been set for Aug. 15. Twenty-five of the models made from 40 selected designs will receive cash prizes, the first of $3,000, the second $2,000, three of $500, and 20 of $50 each, totaling $7,500.

The winning creations will be presented to the W-G-N studio audience and to the great radio audience thruout the nation in two fashion shows on Oct. 2.

FIRM SUES UNION FOR LOSS OF TWO PROFITABLE JOBS

Asks $381,000 for Ruined Business.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 23 [Special].—Charging that their business was being ruined by acts of the union, operators of Hunt's Motor Freight and Fruit Products Company today filed suit in Federal court asking $381,000 damages from local No. 107 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

The suit, claiming triple damages under terms of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts, is directed against officers of the union local, and includes the entire membership as defendants.

Edward A. and Robert A. Hunt, the plaintiffs, charge that the union and its officers "destroyed" their hauling contracts with the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company and the Sterling Supply Company.

Weapon Is Closed Shop.

This was done, they allege, thru refusal of the union to admit the Hunt employès to membership after the union had organized the plants of the two customers and obtained closed shop agreements with both firms.

Actual damages of $127,000 are claimed. Included in this sum is $15,000 estimated as the value of the Hunt firm's seven trucks and trailers, which they said are "out of commission" because of lack of business. The remaining figure, $112,000, was arrived at, according to the complaint, on the basis of the concern's past profits while doing business with the two former customers named in the complaint. During a 14 year relationship with the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company, it stated, the trucking concern averaged profits of $8,000 a year.

Conspiracy Is Charged.

The court was requested to treble the actual damage claim under terms of the Clayton act on the charge that the union forced the A. & P. and the Sterling company to discontinue their business with the trucking company. This, it was charged, constituted a "conspiracy" to restrain trade.

The union's alleged refual to admit the 20 employès of the Hunt concern to membership, according to the complaint, followed a truck strike here three years ago, during which the Hunt employès were nonunion. The A. & P. and the Sterling company yielded to the demands of the union for closed shop contracts under which the two companies were prohibited from giving the Hunts any transportation business, it was charged.

ANTI-WAR RALLY TO HEAR CLARK AND LINDBERGH

Mass Peace Meeting to Be Held Aug. 4.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.] will be the principal speakers Sunday, Aug. 4, at a huge anti-war rally to be held in Soldiers' field under auspices of Chicago churches and patriotic organizations.

Avery Brundage, chairman of the Citizens' Keep America Out of War committee, announced yesterday that every organization in Chicago which reveres the American flag will be invited to march into the field in a giant massed-flag demonstration prior to the rally.

V. F. W. Posts Co-operate.

Drum and bugle corps from many posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will take part in the peace meeting, according to Capt. William J. Grace, executive secretary of the committee and former commander of the state department of the V.F.W.

Veterans of the civil, Spanish-American, and world wars will be guests of honor.

The idea for the peace rally first began with the V. F. W., Capt. Grace said yesterday, and was crystallized by a resolution passed by the Cook county groups. When the plans grew larger in scope and acceptances of the invitations sent to Col. Lindbergh and Sen. Clark were received, other groups were invited to participate and Brundage was invited to serve as chairman.

Protest Pepper Speech.

Capt. Grace and other leaders of veterans were among those protesting the appearance here in June of Sen. Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] who spoke at a Flag Day celebration in Grant park. Pepper is one of the most outspoken champions of American intervention in the European war.

The Aug. 4 rally was first thought of, Grace said, after the Pepper speech here.

REVOLT AGAINST REDS IN WORKERS' ALLIANCE BARED

A nationwide revolt by local groups of the Workers' Alliance of America against alleged communist control is under way, and a call is being issued for formation of a new organization at a conference next month in Chicago or Washington, D. C., David Lasser, former president of the Alliance, said yesterday.

Lasser, who resigned June 18 protesting communist domination of the alliance, was in Chicago on a tour in which he is sounding out local branches. Fred Rohrbacker, a WPA worker and former president of the Illinois alliance, will assist in building a new state movement, Lasser said.

The alliance once was recognized by the Roosevelt administration as the collective bargaining agent for WPA workers.

Frank W. McCulloch, who broke with the Illinois alliance because of alleged communist control, announced that substandard relief budgets and the food stamp plan to be put in operation in Chicago in August are among the subjects to be discussed at a meeting tonight of the Illinois Workers' Security federation. McCulloch is secretary-treasurer and a founder of the federation. The meeting will be held at 8 p. m. in Christopher house, 2507 Greenview avenue.

TERM NEAR END, CONVICT CLIMBS TOWER IN 'STRIKE'

Atlanta, Ga., July 23 (AP).—A 20 year old convict, with an uncompleted sentence facing him on his release from Atlanta federal penitentiary, today climbed to a precarious perch on top a high water tower inside the prison walls and refused to budge.

Warden J. W. Sanford, who identified the prisoner as Andrew Jackson Wynne of Savannah, said the convict's two year term for interstate automobile theft will expire tomorrow.

The warden said a detainer had been filed against Wynne from the Chatham county [Georgia] work camp from which he escaped in September, 1937, while serving a robbery sentence.

"Efforts are being made to remove him without involving loss of life," the Warden said in a statement. "He was found to be armed with a heavy machinist hammer and refused to leave the position held by him."

ANNENBERG SLIPS INTO U. S. PRISON BY BACK DOOR

Lewisburg, Pa., July 23 (AP).—M. L. Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher, entered the Northeastern federal penitentiary late tonight by a back door to begin serving a three year term for violating federal income tax laws.

Penitentiary authorities made elaborate preparations indicating they planned to receive their prisoner at the front entrance, and reporters waited there 12 hours when Guard Captain L. J. Watson advised: "I wouldn't wait any longer."

Warden William H. Hiatt finally confirmed by telephone that Annenberg had been brought in about 11 p. m. by a back road.

CHICAGOAN BREAKS HIP IN FALL.

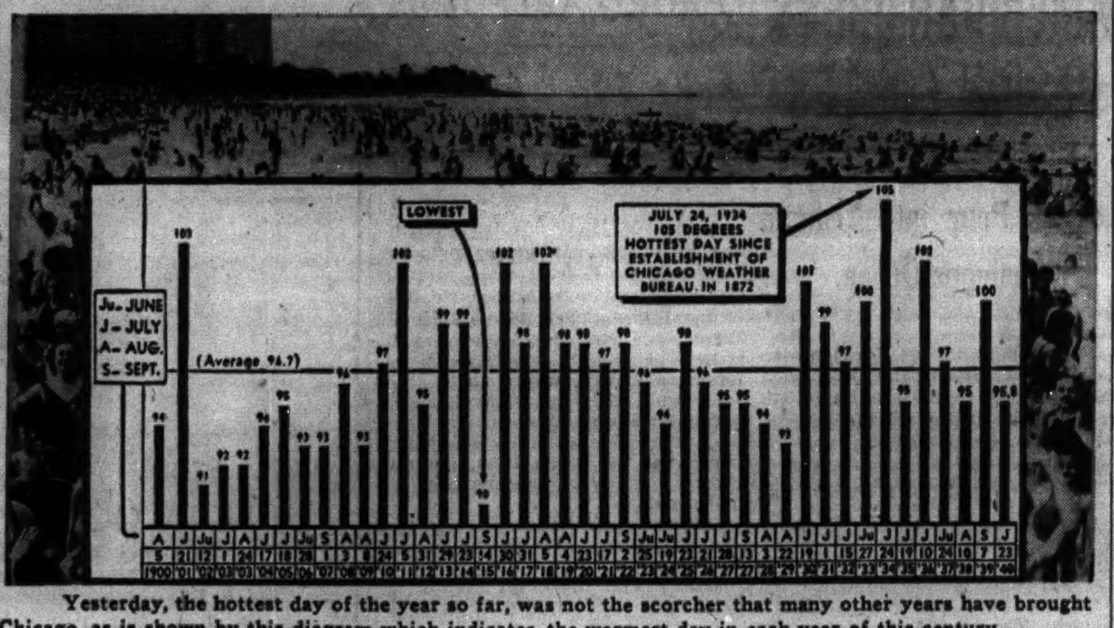
How Yesterday Compared with Hottest Days of Other Years



Yesterday, the hottest day of the year so far, was not the scorcher that many other years have brought Chicago, as is shown by this diagram which indicates the warmest day in each year of this century.

MERCURY CLIMBS TO 95.8 AND SETS RECORD FOR 1940

No Immediate Relief in Prospect.

Yesterday, with its maximum temperature of 95.8 degrees, was Chicago's warmest day of 1940. It also was the fifth consecutive day in which the mercury went above 90. Forecaster A. J. Knarr indicated that at least two more days of the same kind are ahead.

"There is no relief in prospect," he said.

A stagnant mass of torrid air lay over virtually the whole area between the Rockies and the Appalachians and maximum readings of over 100 degrees were general in the plains states.

115 in Pierre, S. D.

Pierre, S. D., reported 115 and was the hottest place in the country. Even Canada had readings near the 100 mark.

Weather bureau records show that Chicago's longest spell of extreme hot weather was in 1934. For eight days that year, beginning July 18, the maximum was 90 or more.

An Illinois crop report said heat and the lack of rain had damaged pastures and gardens and that continued drouth might cause serious losses in the corn crop.

Low Pressure Hampers Firemen.

The heat has put an unusual burden on the city's water system. Some industrial concerns have had to curtail operations because of low pressure, and Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, asked strict enforcement of the law against opening fire hydrants. The city pumped more than one billion 604 million gallons of water into its mains Monday and about as much yesterday.

Firemen found the low pressure a detriment in fighting a $200,000 fire in the afternoon in lumber yards of the Harris Brothers company, 1349 35th street. Nearly 50 pieces of fire fighting equipment were employed in bringing the flames under control.

The company's millwork shop and three sheds of lumber were destroyed. Fifty-five automobiles belonging to employés, which had been parked along the sheds, also were destroyed. Lieut. George Cordes of engine company 109 was overcome by heat and smoke and was taken to a hospital for treatment.

Million at Parks and Beaches.

Otto K. Jelinek, chief traffic engineer for the park district, estimated that attendance at the parks and beaches since Friday had averaged 1,000,000 a day.

Earl Brown, 16 years old, 2931 North Narragansett avenue, drowned in Loon lake, near Antioch in Lake county. He sank while swimming with his sister, Pearl.

Th boy's father, Francis Brown, suffered a heart attack when told of his death and was revived by the Antioch fire department.

PRESS HUNT FOR MEN WHO SHOT TRIBUNE GUARD

Police yesterday continued their search for the bandits who shot and seriously wounded Harry P. Walsh, chief of THE TRIBUNE's guards, in a holdup last Friday. Walsh, who was wounded six times, continued to improve in the Henrotin hospital.

THE TRIBUNE has offered a reward of $10,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the men involved. The information will be held confidential and may be turned over to either the police or THE TRIBUNE. If two or more persons supply information leading to the arrest and conviction of the bandits the reward will be divided in accordance with the worth of the information. In such a case THE TRIBUNE will be sole judge.

Capt. Thomas Harrison of the Chicago avenue station and Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan are investigating the records of ex-convicts in the belief that desperate criminals were involved.

SUES TO RECOVER $3,860 GAMBLING LOSSES OF WIFE

Suit to recover $3,860 which he charged had been lost by his wife, Nellie, in the Big House gambling casino of East Chicago was filed yesterday by Curtiss L. Espy, 6221 Rhodes avenue, in the federal District court at Hammond.

The suit names W. J. [Sonny] Sheetz, as proprietor of the casino, and three associates, William [Peck] Gardner, Clyde Bobitt, and W. J. White. The Calumet Tobacco company, which Espy charges is a blind for the casino, and several other concerns which allegedly are now or have been owners of the property, also are named.

Espy, a salesman, charged that his wife, who is 40 years old, was solicited to visit the gambling house and that free taxi service was supplied. The suit asserts further that the casino is operated with the knowledge of East Chicago officials who refuse to proceed against it.

FRETTED STRING BAND FORMS FOR MUSIC FESTIVAL

75 Players Appear at First Tryout.

There were old time musicians and newfangled ones. There were fresh faced amateurs and polished professionals. There were men and women and boys and girls.

And they made music for three hours last night at the first rehearsal for members of the fretted instrument band that will be one of the features of the 11th annual Chicagoland Music Festival to be held in Soldiers' field on the night of Saturday, Aug. 17.

By that time the ranks of the band is expected to include 750 musicians. More than 75 appeared for the first tryout on the 7th floor of the Lyon & Healy building, 64 East Jackson boulevard. There will be three more, on July 30, Aug. 6, and Aug. 13.

Welcome Sign Is Out.

The welcome sign is out for all those who play fretted instruments: the mandolin, tenor banjo, the Spanish, Hawaiian, or electric guitar. As last night's rehearsal proceeded under the direction of Jack Lundin, teacher of these instruments, several of the band's charter members drew attention to themselves.

For example, there was Calvin Weiss, 13 years old, of 3714 Roosevelt road. Capt. Howard Stube, bandmaster of Tilden Technical High school, who will lead the fretted band in Soldiers' field, declared Calvin's performance on the electric guitar has polish some professionals lack.

William H. Domke, 65 years old, a retired Chicago police sergeant, was the oldest charter member of the band. He played a mandolin that is 53 years old. Raymond Perina of 2619 South Pulaski road is proficient on both the electric and Hawaiian guitars.

Attorney Among Players.

Another of last night's stars is Attorney I. K. Goodman, 3318 Lake Shore drive, who plays bass in the Chicago Business Men's symphony. His wide experience includes tours with circuses and minstrel shows. Finally there were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pulley, 550 Deming place, and their Spanish guitars.

When the rehearsal was over many of the musicians stayed to play for the love of it. Meanwhile, in other cities and states, additional sections of the fretted instrument band are being whipped into shape, preparatory to joining the Chicagoans in Soldiers' field.

YOUNG COUPLE'S QUARREL ENDS IN SUICIDE OF BOTH

Newport, R. I., July 23 (AP).—A young couple's quarrel ended today in a double suicide when Edward J. McCann, 26 years old, stricken over the death of his dancing companion, raced his automobile down fashionable Bellevue avenue and crashed with terrific force against a stone wall.

The body of Bernice Hinds, 19—still clad in an evening dress—was found in an automobile in her garage this morning. An hour later, after McCann had called at her home and gazed at the body, he embarked on his dash to death.

The two had attended a dance last night and quarreled, Police Inspector Henry Madden said. Medical Examiner Samuel Adelson gave a verdict of double suicide.

RISE IN DISEASE RATE TRACED TO CANAL POLLUTION

Doctors Testify in Diversion Hearing at Joliet.

William N. Deneau, a diver who works on the locks of the drainage canal at Joliet and Lockport, brought his evidence to the drainage canal hearing in Joliet yesterday. It was in quart bottles.

Deneau had been subpenaed by the state to testify as to pollution of the canal water. The hearing 's one of a series presided over by Monte M. Lemann, a special master for the United States Supreme court, in connection with Illinois' plea for an increase of lake water diversion thru the Illinois waterway from 1,500 cubic feet per second to 5,000.

He Removes the Lids.

Deneau sat down in the witness stand and held two bottles of canal water in his lap. He removed the lids.

"Smell this, your honor," he said, and he passed it over to Lemann.

Lemann took a dignified and impartial sniff, and said, "It has a perceptible odor."

Ray Wallenstein, assistant to Attorney General John E. Cassidy, who is questioning the witnesses, leaped to the opportunity.

"Let me smell!" he cried, and grabbed the other bottle.

"Your honor—this smells awful," Wallenstein said, and he made a face.

Others Pass Up Opportunity.

James W. Williams, assistant attorney general for Michigan, one of the opposition states, took a smell. He made a wry face and satdown. The rest of the opposition lawyers did not avail themselves of the opportunity to sniff.

The diver then enlarged on his subject.

"When the diversion was about 5,000 feet, before it was reduced last year, I used to be able to see under water," Deneau said. "Now it's like being in a clothes closet. I have to feel my way."

Earlier in the day several Joliet physicians testified that skin diseases and eye, ear, nose, and throat infections are increasing at Joliet and Lockport because of microörganisms which thrive in the d ainage canal.

Dr. Charles R. Curtiss said impetigo, a serious skin infection, is increasing and must be fought constantly in the local hospitals.

Miss Mary S. Wurtz, principal of the McKinley Park elementary school and Miss Clarice Blatchley, teacher at the same school, were directed to bring in a list of pupils they said had been sent home ill because of canal odors.

MARRIAGE VOID, HE SAYS, BUT SHE GETS ALIMONY

Mrs. Beatrice L. Klein of 838 Windsor avenue won temporary alimony from Ben S. Klein yesterday, despite his protest that their marriage was illegal. Klein, a food products company manager, 57 years old, asserted that he was already married when he married her.

Mrs. Klein, 38 years old, is asking a divorce on the ground of cruelty. Her attorney, Bnejamin B. Morris, told Judge Oscar F. Nelson that she married Klein in 1925 and reared to adulthood his four children by his first wife, whom Mrs. Klein believed dead.

Morris said Klein deserted his second wife two months ago and told her then that his first wife had been his niece, and that they never had been divorced. The attorney said Klein contended that the second marriage was therefore illegal, according to Morris, altho Klein said he had obtained an annulment of the first marriage after marrying the second Mrs. Klein. Judge Nelson held the first marriage illegal because of the first wife's close relationship to Klein, and ordered him to pay the second Mrs. Klein $25 a week until her divorce suit is heard.

OBSERVE GOLDEN WEDDING TODAY.

BLASTS TAVERN BEER PARTIES AT 6-DEATH INQUEST

One hundred solemn faced residents of the west side and western suburbs heard a stern lecture yesterday on young people's tavern parties.

It was delivered at Maywood by Coroner A. L. Brodie at the closing session of the inquest into the deaths of three girls and three boys whose car was crushed by a Soo Line train north of Melrose Park the night of July 2 after they had attended a free beer tavern party. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

The victims were Lorraine O'Leary, 19 years old, 839 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park; Lorraine Norris, 17, of 906 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park; Catherine Clark, 19, of 1204 North Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park; Francis Frehe, 19, of 140C North Luna avenue; Joseph Santo, 19, of 1251 North Mason avenue, and John Brennan, 18, of 5411 Hirsch street.

JAPAN MUST ACT IN SOUTH SEAS, PREMIER CLAIMS

Says Tokio Should Help Set Up 'New Order.'

TOKIO, Japan, July 23 (AP).—Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe, indicating closer coöperation with Germany and Italy, tonight said Japan should take a guiding rôle in establishing a "new world order."

In a nation-wide broadcast he said, "It is necessary for Japan to push on from an independent stand. This is not passive diplomacy. Japan must be determined to coöperate in the establishment of a new world order." Altho he did not name the axis powers, the implication was clear.

Aims at Gains in South Seas.

Economic advances in the South seas and complete coöperation in China and Manchukuo were "urgent" necessities to Japan, he said.

Earlier, one of his ministers said Japan hoped to "share the world with Germany and Italy."

As the cabinet's first task he foresaw a strengthening of totalitarianism at home with far-reaching sacrifices demanded of all, and a "reformed" diplomacy largely shouldered by Japanese militarists.

Shanghai Action Threatened.

SHANGHAI, China, July 23 (AP).—"Definite action to maintain order in the International Settlement of Shanghai" was threatened today by the Central China Daily News, mouthpiece of Wang Ching-wei's Japanese supported government for China.

ELGIN AVIATOR RESCUED FROM ALASKAN WILDS

Fairbanks, Alaska, July 23 (AP).—John Hood of Elgin, Ill., and Clyde Stevens of Los Angeles, were rescued today by fellow pilots after wandering in the wilderness two days after their plane was forced down.

Hood and Stevens, flying a private plane from Fairbanks to McKinley, were forced down by engine trouble 35 miles south of here. They abandoned the plane, built a raft and started down the treacherous Wood river. The raft capsized, forcing them to strike out across country.

They became separated; neither had food, matches or other supplies. Fairbanks pilots found them, hungry and in tatters, following different trails.

FEAR BRITISH AIR BUYING MAY CLOG DEFENSE OUTPUT

Parley Called After Request by Army Aviation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 23.—Shortly after air corps officials reportedly began to express their fears that the filling of current British airplane orders would interfere with the American defense program, high government officials met today in the office of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau with officials of the British purchasing commission to begin "synchronizing" the aircraft purchases of the two countries.

Henry Morgenthau.

Secretary Morgenthau has been designated by President Roosevelt as the liaison man between the White House and a special coördinating committee for domestic and foreign purchases created several months ago.

Order Placed 6 Weeks Ago.

The call for the meeting followed by a few hours appeals made by army air corps officials to William S. Knudsen, production chief of the national defense advisory commission, to initiate steps which would insure that new British orders for about 1,200 planes will not choke production channels and retard the preparations of the United States to defend this hemisphere.

The new British order was issued about six weeks ago by Arthur B. Purvis, head of the British purchasing commission, who attended today's meeting in Secretary Morgenthau's office. Previously, records show, Britain and France have purchased 7,000 planes, paying a total of 1 billion 200 million dollars for them.

Diplomatic circles interpreted the latest order, which includes both bombing and pursuit planes, as indicating that Great Britain is preparing for an extended campaign.

Ask Coördination of Orders.

An air corps official, it was said, reminded Knudsen that the army has 2,500 planes on order and that the navy has ordered 2,100. These are in addition to the 5,100 planes which both services now have on hand.

Further, the air corps representatives asserted, there are authorized, or soon to be authorized, 20,500 more planes for the army and 5,800 for the navy. Funds for the bulk of these aircraft are included in the pending 4 billion 848 million dollar supplemental defense appropriation soon to be reported on the floor of the house.

It was said that the army officials requested that fulfillment of orders for Britain and the United States at least be coördinated, saying that arrangements beforehand are necessary to insure that this country will not be left on the short end of airplane procurement.

Knudsen Sees Stettinius.

Knudsen's associates said he expressed his willingness to undertake coördination of the orders, and prophesied that no serious difficulties along this line will be encountered.

He conferred first with Edward R. Stettinius, chief of raw materials for the national defense commission, and Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war. They discussed methods for spreading the British order so that it will not conflict with the army and navy purchases, but at the same time will assure a flow of sorely needed war planes to the British Isles.

Then came the meeting in Secretary Morgenthau's office which was attended by Knudsen, the secretary of war, and the secretary of the navy. Details of what transpired were not disclosed.

Decision Up to Knudsen.

Secretary Morgenthau said that Knudsen got ample opportunity to hear from both sides, the American officials and the British purchasing commission. Whatever solution Knudsen decides upon will be announced later, it was indicated.

Others who were present at the meeting were Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the air corps; Brig. Gen. George H. Brett, assistant chief of the air corps; Admiral John Towers, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics; M. W. Wilson, representing Lord Beaverbrook, head of the British aircraft production ministry; William E. McReynolds, assistant to the President; Donald Nelson, coördinator of national defense purchases; Edward H. Goley Jr., general counsel of the treasury department, and Philip Young, member of the President's coördinating committee for military purchases.

Sight Big Mystery U-Boat in Strait of Magellan

DRINKING PARTY TOLD AT TRIAL IN CAR DEATHS

An evening of drinking and joy riding that was turned to sudden tragedy was described yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge John P. McGoorty at the manslaughter trial of Frank Hansen, a former Hazel Crest policeman.

Hansen is accused of driving a squad car thru a red light at Halsted and 95th streets and crashing into an automobile driven by William Knapp, 9963 Edbrooke avenue. Knapp was killed and Evan Flora of Hazelcrest, a friend of Hansen, was injured fatally. The crash occurred Feb. 21.

Miss Gertrude Nord, 33 years old, 225 West 123d street, a waitress, told of going to taverns with Eleana Ketola, 1217 East 55th street, another waitress and Hansen, Flora, and two others before the accident. Another witness, Peter Westra, 9458 State street, a member of the party, said he was riding with Hansen at the time of the crash. He said the traffic light was red as the car approached the intersection.

PRESIDENT TELLS OF GERMAN FOOD RAID ON DENMARK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 23.—President Roosevelt disclosed today that unofficial reports have reached him that perhaps as much as half of Denmark's cattle, pigs, and poultry are being slaughtered for German use.

If the reports are true, the President said at his press conference, it naturally is a serious matter for the Danish people. As for prospects of mass starvation in Europe this fall and winter, Mr. Roosevelt said there was general talk about it but definite and reliable information was lacking.

The President also said that he had received reports of fifth column efforts to sabotage the American Red Cross' drive for war relief funds. He said the Red Cross had advised him that rumors were being spread in this country that war relief supplies are falling into German and Italian military hands. The rumors are completely unfounded, said Mr. Roosevelt.

ARMY DRAFT BILL WINS APPROVAL OF SENATE GROUP

Ready for Floor Debate by Tomorrow.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 23.—All major points of a bill incorporating the Roosevelt administration's recommendations for training a mass conscript army were approved today by the senate military affairs committee. Chairman Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.] said the committee expects to complete the bill tomorrow and report it to the senate on Thursday.

Senator Sheppard.

As explained to the committee by Brig. Gen. William E. Shedd Jr., assistant chief of staff in charge of personnel, the program contemplates the drafting of approximately 400,000 men by Oct. 1 and a total of 1,500,000 by Oct. 1, 1941.

By next April 1 the war department expects to have in training the 1,200,000 men contemplated by its protective mobilization plan; by April 1, 1943, it expects to have such a force fully trained and equipped, ready to take the field, plus a trained reserve of 800,000 men; and by June 1, 1945, the proposed termination date of the conscription program, it expects to have a standing army of 1,200,000 plus 3,000,000 trained reserves.

Guard Mobilization Envisioned.

The war department's program contemplates mobilization of the National Guard of about 240,000 officers and men for at least a year of intensive training in the federal service. Some of the conscripts are to be trained with the guard units, while others are to be trained with the regular army.

The pending compulsory service bill contains no provision for mobilizing the National Guard, but President Roosevelt has requested such authority and a bill granting his request is pending on the house calendar.

Altho the war department's recommendations were approved overwhelmingly by the senate military affairs committee—the bill may be reported with only one adverse vote—it faces strong opposition from senate noninterventionists, both Republicans and Democrats.

Administration forces on the resolutions committee of the Democratic national convention abandoned a plan to incorporate a conscription plank in the party platform when Senators Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri threatened to carry to the convention floor a fight for an anticonscription plank. The Democratic platform is silent on the conscription issue.

Army Drops Its Opposition.

Noninterventionists contend that with an adequate navy and air force, the United States needs only a relatively small, highly trained and well equipped army to meet any possible attack in the western hemisphere, and that peacetime conscription is not necessary.

Until a few weeks ago the army also opposed the adoption of compulsory military service. Voluntary enlistments exceeded the quotas for the month of June and the general staff took the position that conscription was not necessary to recruit the army up to its authorized and appropriated strength of 375,000 men. But the army was thinking then in terms of an army of 375,000 men, with nine triangular infantry divisions, two armored divisions, one cavalry division, and 40,000 men in the air force.

But President Roosevelt's message to congress on July 10, requesting additional armament expenditures of 4 billion 848 million dollars, completely upset the army's plans. It called for complete equipment for an army of 2,000,000 and a protective mobilization force of 1,200,000 men. The army had to begin thinking in terms of 45 infantry and 10 armored divisions, and the general staff came out promptly for conscription.

Marshall Asks Men "Quickly."

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, told the senate military affairs committee on July 12: "I do not think we can obtain the necessary men on a voluntary basis, beyond those provided under the present appropriations or authorizations, and I feel we must have more men, and quickly."

The Burke-Wadsworth compulsory selective service bill, sponsored by the Citizens' Military Training Camps association, was used as the framework for the conscription measure recommended by the war department, and approved except for minor details still to be considered by the military affairs committee.

However, drastic changes were made in the original bill. The provision for compulsory training in vocational and educational subjects, which was contained in the Burke-Wadsworth bill and approved by President Roosevelt, was eliminated by the military affairs committee on recommendation of the war department.

Drop "Home Defense" Units.

The war department bill is a strictly military measure, according to Chairman Sheppard and Gen. Shedd. The Burke-Wadsworth bill required the registration of all males between the ages of 18 and 65 and subjected those in two age groups—18 to 21 and 45 to 65—to service in so-called home defense units.

The bill as changed by the war department requires all males over 18 and under 64 to register at such times and places "and by such age groups" as they may be called, in the discretion of the President. But only men between the ages of 21 and 45 will be subject to military service. The others will be subject to service in home defense units when, as and if such units are authorized by congress. The war department, not being interested in home defense compulsory service, made this provision conditional upon future congressional authorization.

21 to 31 Group Comes First.

Altho the President has authority under the revised bill to require all the 42,000,000 men between the ages of 18 and 64 to register, Gen. Shedd indicated—and Maj. Lewis B. Hershey, representing the joint army and navy selective service committee, indicated at today's committee session—that only the 11½ million men between the ages of 21 and 31 will be required to register initially.

In any event, they explained, the first men inducted into service will come from the 21 to 31 age group. By next year, the officers declared, some men may be taken from the 31 to 45 group.

The bill provides that "the selection of men subject to training and service shall be made in an impartial manner [by lot] from all the men between the ages of 21 and 45 who are liable for training and service: Provided, that until the completion of the registration and classification of men between the ages of 31 and 45, the selection of men for training and service shall be made. . . . from all the men between the ages of 21 and 31."

Exemptions Are Set Up.

The bill authorizes deferment of the training of men with dependents and those engaged in industry, agriculture, or other occupations whose employment is deemed necessary to the national health, safety, or interest. Gen. Shedd and Maj. Hershey indicated that men with dependents and skilled artisans holding essential jobs in industry will not be drafted.

he bill also puts on the deferred list [meaning they will not be called] the Vice President, members of congress, all executive officers and judges of the United States, and the governors, legislators, executive officers, and judges [except of inferior courts] of the states and territories.

Officers and men of the regular army, the navy, the marine corps, the coast guard, the National Guard, and all reserve organizations are exempt. Voluntary enlistments will be permitted as under existing law, and any person subject to the draft may enlist voluntarily.

Year's Training Provided.

The bill provides for a training period of one year. The Burke-Wadsworth bill called for a training period of only eight months. Gen. Marshall favored 15 to 18 months. The war department's final recommendation, however, was for one year, Chairman Sheppard said.

While the Burke-Wadsworth bill provided pay of only $5 a month to the conscript trainees, the war department bill gives them the same pay as enlisted men, which begins at $21 a month. The highest enlisted pay is $135 a month for a master sergeant.

Upon conclusion of the one year training period the conscripts will have their choice of enlisting for further service or being transferred to a reserve component of the land or naval forces for a period of 10 years. Two years of service, in addition to the one year training period, will relieve any man from further reserve service.

RED CROSS OFFICIAL CALLS EUROPE'S FOOD SITUATION 'CHAOTIC'

Jersey City, N. J., July 23 (AP).—John W. Maloney, an American Red Cross representative, returned from Europe today with a declaration that "Europe faces one of the greatest shortages of foodstuffs in modern times."

Maloney, who toured 19 European countries since February, arrived on the American Export liner Exeter from Lisbon. The vessel carried 156 passengers and $1,000,000 in gold consigned to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York from the Bank of Portugal.

"The situation in Europe gets more appalling by the week, as far as food is concerned," Maloney said. "Conditions are chaotic. France looks as tho a bunch of locusts had gone over the land."

Maloney said he would report his findings to national headquarters at Washington. Red Cross plans have been disrupted, he said, by the rapid progress of the war and by the fact the French did not ration supplies.

EXPECT WINDSOR WILL TRAVEL TO U.S. NEXT MONTH

LISBON, Portugal, July 23 (AP).—The duke of Windsor and his American born duchess probably will leave early in August for America en route to his new post as governor and commander in chief of the Bahamas, it was reported today.

One reason for the delay of the Windsors to take up the post assigned the duke by his brother, King George VI. of England, was said to have been the delay of their luggage and silver coming from France.

After lunch at the automobile club today, the duke called at the American legation and conferred with the first secretary, Warden Wilson. It was not made clear just how the duke would travel.

U. S. DENOUNCES SOVIET GRAB OF BALKAN NATIONS

Will Not Recognize Their Absorption by Russia.

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP).—The United States, roundly criticizing soviet Russia for "annihilating" the political independence of three Baltic republics, made known today it would not recognize their absorption into the soviet system.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state in the absence of Secretary Cordell Hull, spoke out at a press conference against "the devious processes" by which he said Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania were to be deprived of their freedom by "one of their more powerful neighbors."

Voices People's Opposition.

The acting secretary did not mention Russia by name, but he left no doubt in any one's mind as to his meaning. Newly elected parliaments in the Baltic republics had voted in recent days, following Red army occupation of their countries and an intensive propaganda campaign, to seek union with the soviet.

"The people of the United States are opposed to predatory activities no matter whether they are carried on by the use of force or by the threat of force," Welles declared in the prepared statement he read to newspaper men. "They are likewise opposed to any form of intervention on the part of one state, however powerful, in the domestic concerns of any other sovereign states, however weak."

Warns of Consequences.

Serving notice that this government would continue to stand by these principles, he said that unless the doctrine underlying them once again governed the relations between nations, the basis of modern civilization itself could not be preserved.

Welles added, in response to a question, that the United States would continue to recognize the ministers of sovereign governments now under duress.

Dr. Alfred Bilmanis, Latvian minister, declared in a formal statement yesterday that his country, thru the request of her "puppet parliament" for incorporation in the soviet union, had become a victim of unprovoked Russian aggression. He visited Welles this morning but told reporters afterward he had discussed a personal matter with the secretary.

Piano Teacher Reports He Was Kidnaped, Robbed

Isadore Buchhalter, 50 years old, piano teacher with studios in the Fine Arts building, 410 South Michigan avenue, reported to the police last night that three men had kidnaped him on Michigan avenue, near Adams street, robbing him of $157. Buchhalter stated he was forced into an automobile and released at Bellevue place and State street.

BALKANS TO DROP COMPLAINTS INTO LAP OF GERMANY

Nazis Try to Calm States Before Drive on Britain.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 23 (AP).—Rumania, Bulgaria, and Hungary will take their interrelated fears and complaints to Salzburg, Germany, Friday and lay them before Germany's foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Joachim von Ribbentrop.

The conference was Germany's idea and is regarded here as a move to stabilize the Balkans before any attack on Great Britain.

Rumania, according to German sources here, will be asked to give Hungary a strip of Transylvania, which Hungary lost after the world war, and in return would get a signed guarantee of Germany's peaceful attitude.

Seeks Peaceful Solution.

A German spokesman said his country was interested "in promoting peaceful relations between Rumania and Russia," and desires to find peaceful solutions to all of Rumania's problems. The Russian radio on Saturday expressed support for Rumania in the matter of Transylvania.

Premier Ion Gigurtu and Foreign Minister Mihail Manoilescu will represent Rumania; Bulgaria will send Premier Bogdan Philoff and Foreign Minister Ivan Popoff. Hungary's delegates have not been announced.

Bulgars to Air Demands.

Bulgaria, it was reported in Sofia, will ask for the return of southern Dobruja from Rumania, as well as an outlet to the Aegean sea thru Greece.

Among other things, the conference is expected to discuss a reported Russian note expressing interest in a "popular government" for King Carol's monarchy.

BRITISH RESTORE RIGHT TO SPEAK ABOUT THE WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 23.—Amid laughter and cheers, Prime Minister Winston Churchill informed the house of commons today that the "silent column" which the minister of information recently attempted to organize has been adanboned. He said all sentences for careless and defeatist talk would be reviewed.

Churchill said the phrase "silent column" was well meant, but did not look attractive when put on paper because it seemed to suggest that "reasonable and intelligent discussion about the war between reasonable and well disposed people should not take place." He assured parliament the government had "no desire to make a crime out of silly vaporings which could best be dealt with by verbal response from the more robust elements of the community."

At the same time Sir John Anderson, the home secretary, restricted the activities of a number of Britons with Fascist sympathies in the London area. The restrictions require these persons to be indoors between midnight and 6 a. m. They are forbidden to travel more than five miles from home without special permission and are not allowed to have a car or possess maps. In some cases they are forbidden to have wireless sets.

CITY WEIGHMASTER DIES.

Keokuk, Ia., July 23 [Special].—George Markle, city weighmaster for the last 30 years, died here yesterday after an illness of only two days. He was 79 years old.

Await Hitler's "Zero Hour"

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—Britain, barricaded behind a growing wall of preparedness, waited watchfully but confidently tonight for Adolf Hitler to start his blitzkrieg.

Reports in neutral sources of "greatly increased activities" in Dutch and Belgian dockyards and railways indicated that Britain's great test may not be long in coming.

These reports, unconfirmed in British quarters, said the Germans apparently were concentrating military supplies in the western Lowlands—A logical jumping off place for a mass invasion.

Prime Minister Churchill, answering a question in the house of commons, declined to commit Britain on whether she would make reprisal raids on Rome and Berlin if London were bombed.

Churchill said nothing about Hitler's "last chance" peace gesture made last Friday before the reichstag. Thus, the last word was regarded as that spoken yesterday by Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax who flatly rejected any Hitler peace.

Strong to Resist Attack.

Taking stock of her position against efforts of German warplanes and commerce raiders to create a starvation blockade, Britain found herself strong in ships, food, men, and wealth.

Naval experts declared the island kingdom had more destroyers now than when the war started, despite the loss of 26.

Even if the Germans intensify their submarine campaign, Food Minister Lord Woolton declared, Britain will not starve because "we have stocks to stand a long siege."

Lord Woolton asked American newspaper men tonight to tell the United States there is no food shortage in Britain, "because people over there still want to send us parcels of food."

Harvest 70 Per Cent of Normal.

He estimated that the harvest in continental Europe would not be more than 70 per cent of normal this year.

War Minister Anthony Eden declared Britain had 1,300,000 home guard troops ready and reported that reorganization and reëquipment of French, Belgian, Czecho-Slovak, Norwegian, and Polish soldiers now in Britain was making "good progress."

Warplanes roared both ways across the English channel.

Nazi planes, apparently picking British harbors as their principal targets, bombed ports from Scotland to the Thames estuary and British fighter planes repeatedly raced out to sea, apparently to intercept aerial squadrons attacking convoys. The Germans struck at northwest England and southeast Scotland thru the night.

Announce Shipping Losses.

An admiralty tabulation for the week ending July 14 acknowledged that "enemy action" had sunk nine British ships totaling 23,963 tons, four allied ships totaling 7,335 tons and six neutral ships totaling 20,734 tons.

An authoratative source denied German claims to having sunk 4,324,-13 tons of "enemy shipping or shipping useful to the enemy" up to July 12. The British source said the figure was more than 2 million tons in error for Britain and neutrals and 3 million tons in error for Britain alone.

The admiralty disclosed tonight that the trawler Campina had been sunk by an enemy mine. Three survivors reached shore, but it was feared the commanding officer and 10 sailors were lost.

Trawlers Stand Off Bomber.

Three fishing trawlers armed with machine guns were reported to have stood off a German bomber until British chaser planes drove tthe Nazi plane away.

"He missed us with eight bombs," one fisherman said. "We kept at him with machine guns and we hit him. That's certain. Then Spitfires came in like the wind. The German bolted. They were right on his tail and we heard machine guns going until they got out of sight."

In their own raids, the air ministry said, British flyers on Monday sank a German antiaircraft ship in a raid on the Norwegian port of Bergen, hit German airfields, factories, barge concentrations, and docks.

BERLIN, July 23 (AP).—Britain must brace herself now against a made-in-Germany tornado of terror, high Nazi sources indicated tonight, adding that defiant rejection of Adolf Hitler's peace or destruction offer had "torn the lid off."

Henceforth, they emphasized, "weapons will speak." Emphasizing this threat, the German air force again raided Scotland and England.

With one accord the German press, radio and semiofficial spokesmen hammered home the thought that Foreign Minister Lord Halifax's refusal to talk peace and the latest British air raids on Germany had definitely killed any prospect of settlement.

Good Flying Weather Waning.

Exactly when the long threatened furious wholesale air pounding of England would begin remained a mystery. It was pointed out, however, that Germany as well as England is aware that only a few weeks more of good summer flying weather remain; therefore Britons will not have to wait long to learn whether Hitler can deliver the full measure of terror he has threatened.

Observing that the English, in their refusal to talk peace, apparently are "speculating upon time as well as the United States being their allies," the Dienst aus Deutschland warned that German; is taking full account of "these British calculations."

For the first time since the end of the French campaign, DNB, official German news agency, came out with a "front report" such as it issued daily during the struggle in the west to summarize military progress.

Planes Raid Britain.

Every semiofficial and informative agency began reiterating that the time for talk had ended.

Supplementing these warnings was the continuation of nightly air raids over England. The high command announced that last night and early today German bombers had raided the length and breadth of England and Scotland.

A communique said planes attacked the forts of Pembroke, with its oil stores, Chatham, Sheerness, Edinburgh, and Aberdeen as well as airports in the vicinity of Portsmouth and Bristol channel.

"In the channel and on the British east coast, three merchant ships were damaged by bomb hits," the statement added.

Reports Church Hit by Bomb.

"Enemy planes attacked nonmilitary objectives in northern and western Germany. In one village, a church and several houses were damaged. One German plane is missing."

The high command also said a U-boat sank 18,000 registered tons of enemy shipping space "from a strongly protected convoy."

While preparing full-speed for the grand assault against Britain, Germany turned afresh toward the Balkans with the double aim of preventing inopportune disturbances there and of arranging the basis for a new European economy.

Balkans to Air Problems.

In line with this program Rumania's premier and foreign minister will confer with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop at Salzburg on Friday, while a week-end conference in Berlin will give Bulgaria's premier and foreign minister a chance to present their country's view of Balkan problems. Bulgaria desires return of the southern Dobruja from Rumania.

Some 110,000 Germans living in areas recently ceded to Russia by Rumania soon will be settled in Germany. A German commission for regulating this question arrived in Moscow yesterday.

Germans in Lithuania, which has requested inclusion in the soviet union, also will be returned to Germany, as were Germans of sister Baltic states—Estonia and Latvia—to be taken over by Russia.

BRITAIN BOOSTS INCOME TAX RATE TO 42½ PER CENT

Will Collect Sums Owed from Weekly Pay.

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—The British people received summary notice today that the pounds, shillings, and pence for the battle of Britain will be taken from their salaries, by compulsion, thru a 42½ per cent income tax and the institution of a sales tax which will cost them one-third of the wholesale value of such "luxuries" as furniture and lipsticks.

These are the salient points in an emergency wartime budget presented to parliament by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood under the dictatorial wartime powers of Winston Churchill's government.

Runs Into Billions.

The budget totals £3,467,000,000—$13,868,000,000—for the current financial year, and of this $956,000,000 is to be raised by new taxes. Direct military expenditures, going upward daily, are estimated for the year at $11,200,000,000. The government now is spending $228,000,000 weekly on the war.

The whole tenor of today's budget is continuation of Britain's basic wartime financial policy of restricting public spending and thinning down home consumption of goods so as to build up individual savings which can be loaned to the state; also, to divert raw materials to the export trade and the production of armaments.

The Principal Points.

These are the principal points in the budget:

FIRST—Income tax: Increased 1 shilling to 8 shillings 6 pence in the pound [42½ per cent], with adjustments in computation of the tax so that smaller wage earners will pay more than now. The surtax on all incomes exceeding £2,000 [$8,000] also was increased from 1 shilling 3 pence in the pound to 2 shillings, and the peak surtax rate of 9 shillings 6 pence in the pound was applied to all incomes over £20,000 [$80,000] instead of £30,000 [$120,000]. This means that persons in this top bracket will pay combined income and surtax at the rate of 90 per cent. The income tax is the highest England ever has known; after the world war it was 30 per cent. Collection of the new tax will be simple—it will be taken arbitrarily from salaries, "month by month or week by week."

[The British fixed rate for the pound is $4.02 to $4.04. The open rate in New York yesterday was $3.81. There are 20 shillings to the pound and 12 pence to the shilling. Thus 1 shilling per pound would be a 5 per cen tax.]

Sales Tax Provisions.

SECOND—Sales tax: A new "purchase tax," replacing a proposed levy now withdrawn, will operate in two grades—on so-called luxuries and on necessities. The rate on "luxuries" such as furs, silks, haberdashery, jewelry, cosmetics, and furniture will be 33 1-3 per cent of wholesale value or 24 per cent of retail value. On necessities like clothing, boots, shoes, drugs, newspapers, and books, the rate will be 16 2-3 per cent of wholesale value or 12 per cent of retail value. There are numerous exemptions to the tax: Food, electricity, fuel, farm machinery, such drugs as insulin, and children's clothing and shoes. Collection of the tax will be made when the goods pass from wholesalers to retailers.

THIRD—The taxes on beer and tobacco, those old reliable revenue getters, went up a penny [almost 2 cents] a pint on beer and 2 shillings [40 cents] a pound on tobacco. This makes a package of 20 cigarets of the popular domestic variety cost about 30 cents. Taxes on wine and entertainments and estate levies also were raised.

9 Billion Dollar Deficit.

Sir Kingsley estimated the increase to 42½ per cent in the standard rate of the income tax would produce £84,000,000 [$336,000,000] in a full year and that the new sales tax would yield £110,000,000 [$440,000,000].

Not counting the £239,000,000 in new taxes, he estimated the deficit at £2,233,000,000 [$8,932,000,000] for the present year.

On the basis of the new income tax a married man with two children, making $1,600 a year, would pay over $63. The man making $4,000 would pay about $844.

The 42½ per cent rate is a straight standard rate applying to all taxable net incomes. Surtaxes are applied in the higher brackets. Personal exemptions and deductions are more varied than in the United States—for instance, insurance premiums—and there is a lower rate on the first £165—$660—of taxable income, less personal allowances. The lower rate on this part of the income was increased to 5 shillings in the pound, or 25 per cent. The tax begins at £100—$400—for single persons and at £170—$680—for married persons. The allowance for each child is £50—$200.

Status of French Pacific Isle Called 'Undefinable'

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—A Reuters [British] news agency dispatch today from Sydney, Australia, quoted Paul Vois, a special envoy from the French Pacific colony of New Caledonia, as saying that the island's position was "clearly undefinable" since the French-German armistice. Vois arrived in Sydney, the dispatch said, to discuss with the Australian government the economic future of New Caledonia.

GIBRALTAR CAN BE TAKEN, PRESS IN MADRID SAYS

BY MAURICE ENGLISH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, July 23.—Much attention is being paid here to the fact that the evacuation of the civil population of Gibraltar is due to be completed by Aug. 1, leaving only a British garrison on the rock fortress.

Operations in the Mediterranean and Africa are being presented by the local press as a succession of Italian victories and British disasters, encouraging the belief that a full scale attack on Gibraltar is feasible. Military commentators in Madrid newspapers assert Britain is no longer able to act successfully in the Mediterranean.

Aerial Operations Anticipated.

The belief that Gibraltar cannot be defended against a major attack has been encouraged by quotations attributed to the British military commentator, Liddell Hart, as well as German army strategists. However, such an attack presumably would involve aerial as well as naval operations. There is no indication from official sources that any army except the Italian would take part in operations against the British fortress.

Havana Parley Held Doomed.

MADRID, July 23 (AP).—The newspaper El Alcazar today declared the Pan-American conference at Havana is "doomed to failure."

"Washington has forgotten or pretends to forget that Hispano-American peoples already have reached a mature age and therefore have the necessary intelligence to see thru the mischievous purposes of Yankee politicians," the paper said. "This time as on other recent occasions the Yankee mask will not serve to hide the abortionist aims of Washington."

The weekly paper "La Semana," charged the "continental unity preached by the United States is an instrument of servvitude." It reasserted Spain's right to make "her great, her enormous historic voice heard" in Latin America.

The Famous Recipe in Rhyme:

A LITTLE SOUR, (Juice of half a lime)

A LITTLE SWEET, (½ teaspoonful of sugar)

THE TROPIC SUN, (A jigger of BACARDI RUM) (White or Silver)

WITHOUT THE HEAT! (Ice and shake well)

(When grenadine is used instead of sugar it's a BACARDI Grenadine Cocktail and it comes out pink!)

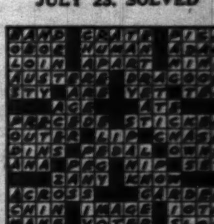
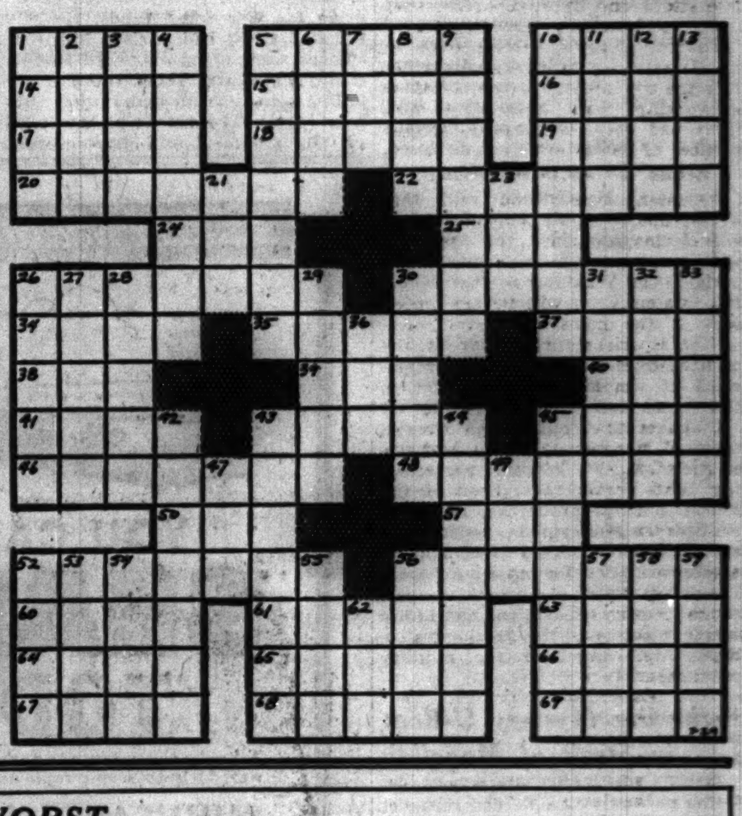
PUZZLE OF TUESDAY, JULY 23, SOLVED





SMITTY—VERSE AT ITS WORST

LATINS DIVIDED OVER SCHEME TO RULE COLONIES

3 States Balk; Germans Fight Proposal.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 23.—The first task of importance before the Pan-American conference today was consideration of a plan for occupation in time of emergency of French, Dutch, and possibly Danish possessions in the western hemisphere.

A detailed plan for their "collective trusteeship" in the name of the American republics was put before the committee on preservation of peace, of which Secretary of State Cordell Hull is chairman. Representing the views of a number of the 21 republics including the United States, the plan calls for the rule of non-American territories by commissions of three. The commissions are to be appointed by a committee set up by the republics which ratify the program.

Plan May Fall Thru.

Representatives of Argentina, Brazil, and Chile, however, were reported in a noncoöperative mood in regard to the proposal. Unless the consent of these three large South American countries is won, the plan may fall thru. Nazi representatives on the scene are using their utmost influence to defeat the proposal which is designed to prevent the transfer of territory of the conquered nations to the control of Germany or Italy. In his address to the conferees yesterday, Secretary Hull declared such changes in ownership would be a threat to the peace and security of this hemisphere.

Linked with the trusteeship plan is the hope of the United States for permission to construct naval and air bases in South and Central America. Such defensive measures are considered vital to military preparedness by Hull, but again the "ABC" states of South America have shown a reluctant attitude.

Brazil "Undecided."

Mauricio Nabuco, secretary general to the minister of foreign affairs for Brazil—Argentina, Brazil, and Chile did not send their chief foreign ministers on the pretext that the domestic situation did not permit—told reporters his delegation was "undecided" on allowing the United States to build air and naval bases in Latin America.

Leopoldo Melo, chairman of the Argentine delegation, asserted that his country regarded all nations as "equal in the political order" and that Germany and Italy were included in that category. He left the implication that Argentina would give weight to the opposition of totalitarian states to Hull's proposals.

4 Nazi Agents Present.

In this connection it was noted that four Nazi representatives have been identified on the Havana scene. They are George Leisewitz, secretary of the German embassy in Santiago, Chile, noted ace propagandist of the German government in South America; Kurt Sell, DNB, official German news agency, representative in Washington, D. C.; Dr. Manfred Zapp, manager of the Transocean German agency in New York, and Stephan Tachnitz, German chargé d'affaires in Havana, acting as an unofficial observer.

The attitude of the totalitarian states toward the conference was displayed in significant form yesterday. All diplomatic representatives here were extended the courtesy of an invitation to attend the opening session. Representatives of Germany, Italy, Japan, and Spain ignored the invitations and their absence caused much gossip among the delegates.

The collective trusteeship plan for non-American possessions placed before the conference was described as a working draft formulated after ideas had been exchanged among a number of delegates.

Refuse to Recognize Transfer.

Representatives of these countries agreed upon a set of principles which should inspire American republics with respect to the transfer of sovereignty of possessions. The tentative statement reaffirmed as necessary to the preservation and security of American republics the policy of nonrecognition of and nonacquiescence in acquisition of territory in this hemisphere by force.

It states that any transfer or attempted transfer of the sovereignty of jurisdiction to another non-American state would be regarded as inimical to the peace, safety, and political independence of the Americas. No such transfer would be recognized or acquiesced in by the republics.

An important reservation by the republics involved the right to judge whether any war developments after Sept. 1, 1939, had impaired the political independence or freedom of action of the possessions even tho their status appeared unchanged. This was believed a reference to the status of French possessions.

Berlin announced yesterday that Camille Chautemps, former vice premier in the Petain government, will visit South America to make secure the position of French possessions in South and Central America. A reservation in the trusteeship agreement would permit the Americas to decide if Chautemps is entitled to represent France or is actually the agent of Germany.

Pledge to Restore Colonies.

The republics bind themselves under the pact not to take action with any intention of territorial aggrandizement, but on the contrary declared their intention either to restore the territory to the original sovereign whenever the security of the Americas renders such a step possible, or to recognize the independence of the territory if it appears it is capable of undertaking the task of self-government.

Measures of control over the possessions were outlined as follows:

1. A collective trusteeship shall be exercised by a committee of one representative from each ratifying country. The committee is to take action by a two-thirds vote.

2. Should the committee decide it necessary to establish a collective trusteeship over any region it shall, taking into account the economic, geographical and strategic considerations, request the governments of three of the American republics each to designate from among its nationals a commissioner. This commission of three will rule the possession, functioning by a majority vote.

3. The commission shall set up administrative rules of procedure. It shall take such steps as may be required for the establishment of authority of trusteeship over the region in question. It shall administer the region in accord with its economic, educational, social, and police needs.

4. The commission shall recommend to the committee such military or naval assistance as may be necessary for the proper protection of the region.

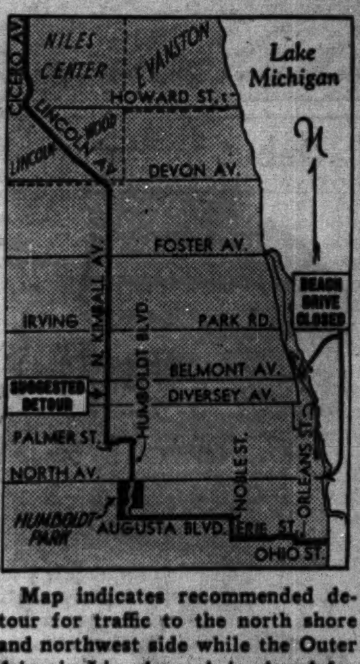
Colonies to Get Revenue.

The agreement states that the trusteeship generally contemplates as large a control of domestic affairs by the inhabitants of the region as may be consistent with the security of the American republics and with the fullest practicable measure of stable, representative government.

Revenues derived from the region under trusteeship shall be devoted solely to the needs of the region, including the expenses of administering the trusteeship.

Any deficit incurred by the commission shall be borne first by the governments whose nationals constitute the commission. The deficit is to be made up by the countries on the basis of population.

Suggest Detour



Map indicates recommended detour for traffic to the north shore and northwest side while the Outer drive in Lincoln park is closed for building of the Beach drive link.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, suggested a time saving detour yesterday for motorists bound for north shore communities and the northwest side during the period the outer drive in Lincoln park is closed to traffic for construction of the new 10 lane Beach drive link. Work on the link began yesterday.

The recommended detour is west in Ohio street to Orleans street, then two blocks north to Erie street, and west again to Noble street. Follow Noble street north to Augusta boulevard, and Augusta west to Sacramento boulevard. Take Sacramento north to Palmer square and follow the short one way system west on Palmer street to Kimball avenue.

Use Kimball avenue north to Lincoln avenue. Follow Lincoln avenue northwest to Cicero avenue, and thence north onto Skokie highway. The motor club states that this route makes the largest possible use of boulevards and thru streets and avoids as many street car lines and expected traffic tieups as possible.

PARIS TO BERLIN TRIP BARES FEW TRACES OF A WAR

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY.

BERLIN, July 23 (AP).—Nazi troopers fully confident that "England soon will be smashed" are receiving a conqueror's welcome home from the western front campaign which cracked France.

I just traveled with some of them on an army train from Paris to Berlin thru France, Belgium, and the Netherlands.

After a two day ride thru a deserted countryside they were greeted at the border by bands, hot food and cheers. Girls tucked flowers in their tunics, handkerchiefs fluttered from windows, and the swastika flew over public buildings.

Talk of Conquests.

The troops talked triumphantly of their conquests.

"Discipline and organization did it," a young cavalryman said.

"It was material and troop elation," another said.

"In one month the war will be finished," the cavalryman declared. "We will send over 2,000 planes and England will be smashed."

Judging from scenes along our route there won't be many battlefield tours after this war—so swiftly did the blitzkrieg pass.

Whole fields and forests were left intact, most towns were standing, and even in those where the allies offered resistance, only a few quarters were smashed.

Everywhere there were signs of quick reconstruction, and compared to the devastation of the world war trench fighting this war generally left only slight traces.

Paris to Brussels in 12 Hours.

We left Paris at 6 a. m. Sunday. The curfew kept people off the streets until daylight and I rode a bicycle to the station.

Trundling over rebuilt tracks, the train took 12 hours to reach Brussels—a 4 hour trip by automobile.

Not until we reached Flanders was there any real evidence of war. Cambrai was partly leveled and nearby fields were pitted by bomb craters. Doors to the pill boxes gaped. Gun openings were wired over.

Inside Belgium, border towns were more heavily hit. The Albert canal's bed was still dry but laborers were working there and refugees were returning to fields and towns.

The station at Brussels was crowded with people searching for homecoming refugees, but they turned away disappointed, for only four civilians were on that train—myself, two Japanese newspapermen and a Jugo-Slav naval officer.

A permit from the commander of Brussels was necessary before I could get hotel accommodations for the night, and the curfew was in effect at 11 p. m.

Our train left Brussels at 1 p. m., Monday, rumbled thru Louvain where factories were in ruins, and turned north thru the Netherlands. There rich fields were being harvested and barges dotted the canals.

A new bridge over the Maas carried us thru Roermond to the German border and Dalheim.

Children Cheer Troops.

Children, some wearing paper soldiers' caps and brandishing toy guns, cheered the arrival of the troops. Red Cross nurses distributed food. The exuberance everywhere made a sharp contrast to the despondency in occupied regions.

The train picked up speed as it raced over German tracks and the troops stepped out this morning into the familiar bustle of sunlit Berlin streets.

SAVE 17 MORE FROM FREIGHTERS SUNK IN WESTERN ATLANTIC

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados, British West Indies, July 23 (AP).—Seventeen survivors from freighters sunk in the western Atlantic by a German raider were landed here today. Forty-one others had reached Bridgetown on Saturday. The men said a portion of the crews had been taken aboard the raider.

Large arrow indicates port to which survivors were taken.

[Last week 41 survivors from the British freighters King John and Davisian reached the French island of St. Bartholomew reporting their vessels were sunk 400 miles to the east. The British admiralty followed this news with the announcement that a converted German merchant vessel was the raider. The Caribbean lies entirely within the Pan-American neutrality zone.]

AUSTRALIA HALTS RECRUITING; ITS GOAL IS REACHED

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 23 (AP)—Defense Minister G. A. Street announced today temporary suspension of recruiting for the Australian imperial force because the initial objective of 80,000 had been reached. Another factor, it was stated, was the need for building a home defense force of 250,000 men. Prime Minister R. G. Menzies explained the suspension also resulted from the need for consolidating present enlistments and for concentrating on munitions production.

RED GUARD CHIEF NAMED HEAD OF ESTONIA Y. M. C. A.

Unit Will Be Transformed by Communists.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TALLINN, Estonia, July 23.—Victor Fagin, commander of the newly formed Red guard which has taken over the police authority in Estonia, today was appointed president of the Estonian Y. M. C. A. organization. The appointment of this clothing store dealer, who during the last eight years has been bankrupt twice in Tartu, has incensed the Estonians further against the absorption of their state by Russia.

Under the leadership of Herbert Gott, an American Y. M. C. A. organizer, the Estonian Y. M. C. A. became an important movement in this country. It developed a highly successful school for training chauffeurs and auto mechanics. It helped develop sports and had departments in all the larger Estonian factories.

Latvian "Y" Has Same Fate.

Fagin has been delegated to eliminate the word "Christian" from the organization's name and supplant it with "communist." The Y. M. C. A. property, some of which was purchased with funds from America, now is in possession of the communists.

The Latvian Y. M. C. A. suffered a fate similar to that of the Estonian organization.

The Estonian minister of the interior has published a decree warning the population against patriotic demonstrations. He referred to those who wore small Estonian flags as national hooligans and said the Red guard had been ordered to fire upon patriotic demonstrations.

This decree also brought to light another incident, which involved Herman Gudkin, 25 years old, son of an Estonian senator. Gudkin was educated in England and was serving as a noncommissioned officer in the Tallinn artillery regiment.

Demands Are Rejected.

When the Red army seized Estonia he obtained sick leave. The following day he presented himself at his regimental headquarters in the Estonian uniform with a red band around his arm. He demanded that the officers haul down their flag and surrender their arms.

His demands were rejected and he returned a short time later with soviet tanks and armored cars and forced the surrender of the regiment, which was confined to barracks. Its officers were arrested. Later the arrest order was lifted and the officers were released. They immediately demanded Gudkin be arrested and court martialed. He was transferred to another regiment, however.

On Wednesday, after this adventure, Gudkin tore the Estonian flag from the old stone tower, Pikk Herman, which rises from the ancient castle housing the Estonian parliament on the Dom river in Tallinn. This flag was carried the same afternoon in a procession organized by the communist party, and before the doors of the soviet legation it was torn to pieces.

Rioting developed. Several persons were wounded before the streets were cleared by tanks.

RECLUSE FIGHTS TO HIS DEATH TO BAR SEIZURE OF FARM BY BRITAIN

BASINGSTOKE, Hampshire, England, July 23 (AP).—A hard bitten English farmer fought to his finish today against police seeking to evict him for failure to comply with wartime emergency food production orders.

The 66 year old bachelor recluse, Raymond Warden, turned his house into a fortress and resisted for 18 hours before he was fatally wounded.

Constable P. C. Draper attempted yesterday to serve the eviction order based on a government measure to take over fields not in maximum production.

Warden shot the unarmed constable in both legs.

Draper called reinforcements. At dawn tear gas bombs were flung into the house, but to no avail. Warden just donned his gas mask—issued by the government to all persons.

Next police smashed in two doors. Five shots put two more police out of action. Again the police withdrew for reënforcements. Warden fired three more shots before collapsing.

CHICAGO'S LITHS PLAN TO PROTEST RED BALTIC GRAB

A committee of 50 Chicago Lithuanian leaders will meet tomorrow night in the Lithuanian Legion Memorial hall, Western avenue and 44th street, to prepare a memorandum commending the American state department's refusal to recognize soviet Russia's absorption of Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania. The committee also will plan a protest meeting.

Lithuanians thruout America are preparing such meetings, Dr. Petras Dauzvardis, Lithuanian consul in Chicago, said yesterday. Leonard Simutis, editor of Draugas [Chicago Lithuanian Daily Friend] and national president of the Lithuanian Alliance of America, called for a national conference of his organization on Aug. 9 in Pittsburgh, Pa., to discuss plans for refugee relief.

Thrilling Adventure Spun From Columbus' Voyage

"To the Indies," by C. S. Forester. (Little-Brown, $2.50.) Published today.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

The author of one of the most famous sea trilogies of our time, "Captain Horatio Hornblower," chooses a lawyer as hero for his latest adventure thriller. But his hero's adventures are on the same salt waves that rocked Capt. Hornblower to fame. And the sea trip which Don Narcisco Rich takes in 1498-'99 is one of the most famous in the history of the world. It is as a legal representative of their majesties, King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella of Spain, that Don Narcisco accompanies Admiral Christopher Columbus on his third trip to the west, this time certainly, the admiral felt, the dominions of the great khan.

Don Narcisco was surprised at himself when, asked by the king to suggest a young lawyer to insure the legality of the conquests of the armada of discovery, he said, "in a hot wave of recklessness," the words which meant long months of grueling hardship to a man nearing 50, "I could go myself, highness."

Thru all those hardships, of unbearable heat in a becalmed, evil smelling boat, of threatened violence from the crew, of savage skirmishes with hostile Indians, of a menacing, well nigh fatal uprising of the natives who had watched their fellows burned at the stake by Columbus' brother, of kidnaping by a group of gold seekers, of a hurricane and the long push in a canoe thru the sea to "Española" [Haiti] from Cuba, the reader lives with Don Narcisco.

Columbus is no shadowy influence, but a real character in these pages—sore with age and with rheumatism, suspicious of those about him [and rightly], a supreme navigator of the seas, a sadly ineffective navigator of the ship of the small state established in the new world. The book ends with Columbus' journey back to Spain, in chains, and passionately refusing to be relieved of them.

There are thrills galore in these pages, not only for those who like tales of the sea but for any one who has a vicarious thrill from great adventure, whether it is flavored with salt or not.

If You're Planning That Vacation, Try These 101 Varieties

"101 American Vacations from $25 to $250" is the intriguing title of a new book on the subject by Horace Coon [Doubleday-Doran, $1.98].

A wide variety of plans is offered, from a one week cycling trip in New England from New York, and a seven days' holiday from Chicago to Boulder Dam, to a cruise of 17 days to the Dominican republic and Puerto Rico. Each is outlined in day by day fashion, briefly but with all necessary information.

A Delightful Woman

"Mrs. Miniver," by Jan Struther. [Harcourt-Brace, $2.] To be published tomorrow. Dual choice of the Book of the Month club for August.

Just the sort of pleasant, happy, amusing person whom one would choose to be with is "Mrs. Miniver." Jan Struther has done the unusual literary feat of creating a character out of little pieces. There are 36 of them, each about eight pages long, chronicling unimportant events in the Miniver family, a group with which spectacular drama has little contact, and in which each of its members is an individual but no one a rampaging individualist.

Most of these fragile pieces contain either the words or the chronicled thoughts of Mrs. Miniver about everyday events that might, and do, happen to every family. But the author has that most delightful of literary gifts, the power to see everyday things as freshly as if eye or mind were encountering them for the first time, and she makes out of Mrs. Miniver's simple adventure of life something rich and glowing and amusing, somehow fine and permanent and cheering.

For Mrs. Miniver is English and the little family is shadowed by "the crisis," and finally, in the last chapter, by war itself. But she manages to get zest out of life and to give zest to life, not only for her family but for her readers. You'll read many a book before you'll be as cheered as this one will make you, and there is, I hasten to assure you, not even a faint shadow of the gooey or the synthetic courageous about it.

Once Mrs. Miniver, discussing two guests who were at the antipodes of belligerent left and tenacious right politically, in reply to an observation that "I very much doubt whether people like Neish and Agnes ever think at all; they just feel," very wisely observes: "O, no. They do both, I'm certain. But the trouble is, they keep the two processes entirely separate. They've never learnt to think with their hearts or feel with their minds."

The Minivers have a house in the country where they work at play and play at work [unbrambling apple trees and gathering hops, for instance], and a well staffed house in London where they entertain their friends [Mrs. Miniver justly complaining that the convention is all wrong that both husband and wife must be invited to the same party when one is a charmer and the other a "boak"]. Mrs. Miniver drives the family car, does the family shopping, and savors the pleasure of "something that she had never consciously seen before, the last leaf being blown from a tree," as much as a country house visit when she realizes "that a day without a chunk or two of solitude in it is like a cocktail without ice."

Book to Present Willkie Speeches and Writings

"This Is Wendell Willkie" will be the title of a book to be published by Dodd, Mead & Co. in August. The work, containing 60,000 words, will comprise speeches and writings of the Republican Presidential nominee. The opening chapter will be Willkie's short address to the Republican national convention on June 28, after his nomination. Stanley Walker, popular historian, contributes a biographical introduction.

Blue Book Gives Official Record of Case for Finland

"Finnish Blue Book." [Lippincott, $1.50.]

Published by the ministry for foreign affairs of Finland, this book presents the official documents dealing with Finnish-soviet relations from 1932 thru the Finnish war of last winter. It has an official copy of the peace treaty of March 12, 1940, and maps on which are indicated Finland's compromise proposals.

The introduction tells of 19 years of peaceful relations between Finland and the soviet which ended on Oct. 5, 1939, when Finland was invited to a conference similar to those in which Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania lost their independent status.

The book then tells in an unembellished official language the course of negotiations in Helsingfors, Moscow, and Geneva. It is the documentary record which the student needs to parallel the reports of the negotiations which the Russians have published. G. T.

Calls Roosevelt 'Country Squire in White House'

"Country Squire in the White House," by John T. Flynn [Doubleday-Doran, $1].

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

Speaking as a disillusioned liberal, who expected no miracles but hoped for some improvement, John T. Flynn, magazine writer and economist, sets down in 131 brief pages his reasons for believing that Franklin D. Roosevelt has been not only ineffectual but a disaster as President.

Flynn's argument covers much ground, from the President's early life before he became governor of New York thru the seven and one-half years of the New Deal. Except for his personal charm, Mr. Roosevelt, in the author's opinion, has lacked every quality demanded by the job.

As President, Flynn writes, Mr. Roosevelt airily tackled serious and complicated economic, financial, and social problems without any of the intellectual ability needed for their study and understanding.

Flynn sees the President as the most ardent of the White House "yes men," preferring to agree outwardly with almost any one rather than incur an enmity. He is, in the words of the author, the wealthy country squire, preferring to sit in the midst of his villagers bestowing munificence in a vague but princely manner. Like H. G. Wells, who observed that the President's mind was "appallingly open," Flynn finds the Roosevelt mind "open indeed at both ends."

"Politics, vacillation, the eternal straining after cleverness, love of the spectacular, preoccupation with war problems and the affairs of Europe, and only a dim perception of the profound problems of economics and finance that dominate our scene, good intentions mixed with confused ethical concepts—these have brought the President to the tragic point where the only thing that can save his régime is to take the country off into a war hysteria," writes Flynn.

Authors and Their Work

Abbe Ernest Dimnet, author of "What We Live By" [Simon & Schuster, $2.50], is still in Paris but hopes to come to the United States in October for his annual lecture tour.

Rumer Godden, whose novel, "Black Narcissus" [Little-Brown, $2.50], was a best seller last year, has left England for her home in Calcutta, India. Her new novel, "Gypsy, Gypsy," will be published Aug. 7.

Despite war tenseness, the writing Du Mauriers continue to produce books. Daphne, author of "Rebecca," is halfway thru a new novel and her sister, Angela, has done "Weep No More," which will be published Friday.

Herbert C. Lanks, who took the photographs which illustrate Harry A. Franck's new book, "The Pan-American Highway" [Appleton-Century, $5], is now going by horseback thru the jungles of Nicaragua and Costa Rica and writes: "The trees are so full of wild orchids that we view them like dandelions."

Novel, Like Its Heroine, Has Color and Zest

"Intrude No More," by Virginia Creed. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $2.50.] Published last Friday.

A first novel of unusual quality is this story of a twig of a deeply rooted Boston family tree which burgeoned so vividly that it gave the old stemma new life and vigor and color. The twig is Valerie, the youngest of the four children of Dr. Richmond Hunt of Louisburg square, affectionately but accurately known as "the Old Brahmin," who is an old man as the book opens and dead before it has been open long.

At the age of 16, Valerie had run away from home to join a troupe of Russian ballet dancers. In the years between she had become one of the great dancers of the world. Most of the book is concerned with her return to Louisburg square and the interplay of influences between her and the Boston tradition. She almost ceases to be her innate self, and she manages effectively to change [in some ways] her family, but the stern and rock-bound shores of Boston society do withstand the breaking waves of Valerie, and the red blood of a famous ballerina in her veins wins the fight against the Boston blue blood.

Miss Creed's story is not especially original—the conflict of radical creative artist and conservative tradition—but her artist's verve is real, and her heroine alive, and the social tradition is realized with benevolent satire. The Boston background, spiritually and physically, is done with immense dexterity and an almost tender realization of its charm and solidity, even when its weak spots are being most mercilessly jabbed for the reader.

Virginia Creed has written a much better than good novel. For a first effort, it is a remarkable one, whose technical tempo is perfectly keyed to its subject matter. Miss Creed was born in Boston herself, altho most readers who are familiar with her name associate her with articles on music and art and travel and customs of places much farther away. F. B.

This Autobiography of Michael Strange Is Full of Anecdote

"Who Tells Me True," the autobiography of Michael Strange. [Scribners, $3.75.]

Michael Strange [entrancing name for a handsome, brilliant lady] has seen much of the glittering world. And she has seen poverty and injustice, too.

The first mention of her name recalls that she was one of the wives of John Barrymore. She tells many anecdotes of "The Great Profile," paying tribute to his talent and versatility.

Her distinction, of course, goes far beyond her marriage to Barrymore. She was reared against a background of the old Austrian aristocracy, and later Newport in the days of coaching parties and great balls. Her writing genius asserted itself early. She set much of her poetry to music. She was the author of the play "Clair de Lune" in which John and Ethel Barrymore appeared. Her story is interspersed with the poetry she composed to mark epochs in her life. S. M. K.

Strangely Variant Characters Come Together in Novel

"By the Waters of Babylon," by Robert Neumann. [Simon & Schuster, $2.50.]

Robert Neumann, exiled Austrian novelist, has now conceived an entirely Jewish novel with such variant characters as the mistress of a prince, an American prize fighter, a Mayfair lord, a purveyor of armaments, and a pious Yiddish student from the ghettos of Poland. Their lives do not cross until the final chapters when, jointly seeking the haven of Jerusalem, they meet on a bus fleeing toward the Palestine border.

Thus, the greater part of "By the Waters of Babylon" is a series of biographical sketches, carrying these oddly assorted lives from birth to the present, and presenting them as nakedly as the novelist can. It is a record of a diverse group, bound only by race.

"By the Waters of Babylon" appears to be Robert Neumann's way of stating the Jewish problem. He raises great pity but he offers no solution, unless it be that there can be no solution until it is recognized that there is no problem. P. W.

Mr. Wendell L. Willkie,

MURDER IS NOT MUTE ...... By Audrey Newell

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Detective Patrick Doyle, of New York City, is on his vacation in a small town resort. He goes walking in the woods of a large estate and stumbles upon a skeleton. Going up to the main house he reports his findings to a young man who advises him to keep quiet about the matter.

INSTALMENT III.
POLICE NOTIFIED.

Truman put his hand into his pocket, drew out his wallet and took out all the bills it contained. He held them toward Doyle.

"What's that for?" the detective wanted to know.

"There's a lot of money there," Briault told him. "And here's some advice to go with it. Don't come back for more. If you do you'll get yourself into trouble. Serious trouble."

"Put that away, Buddy," Doyle said shortly.

Briault stared as if he could not believe his ears.

"Put it away, you fool," Doyle said more harshly.

Searching the detective's dirty, knowing face, meeting his hard, enigmatical stare, Briault cried out in bewilderment, "Who are you?"

"It doesn't matter," Doyle said, "who I am. The question is, who is that?" He pointed into the thicket.

But Briault did not answer. Routed and dismayed, he wheeled and fled down the path, stumbling and lurching in his anxiety to be gone.

Doyle went around his boulder and waited. There was a lot of money in that roll, he reflected. Maybe it would pay better to give up detecting and turn hobo. He grinned. If Ellen knew he'd been mistaken for a tramp she'd carry out her constant threat to part him and his derby.

When he became convinced the young man was not coming back, Doyle paid the skeleton another visit to see if he could find a bullet embedded in the tree nearest the skull. He examined the bark carefully but without success. It might be that after a certain length of time the bark would grow over a foreign body. Or the bullet might have struck in another direction—the victim pinwheeling about after being shot.

What most puzzled Doyle was why the body had been left so close to the path. This hiding place had been, apparently, effective, but why would a murderer deliberately chance its proximity to a trail which had certainly been at one time much traveled? Could it be that the murderer and his victim had come thru the woods toward the path without knowing or suspecting its existence? What would Doyle find if he struck off into the woods at right angles to the path?

But it was too late for exploration. The sun was sending long arrows of gold thru the trees, and soon it would be dusk in the woods. Still the detective lingered, held enthralled by his conjectures.

How long ago since two people had come to this lonely spot, one of them to remain forever? How long would it take, in this climate, for clothing to rot and flesh to decompose? Who was the handsome young man who had tried to bribe Doyle? Was he the murderer?

"Not likely," the detective decided. "That guy wouldn't have the guts for murder."

Still, you never could tell. After all, the victim had been shot from behind. And it was significant that the young man had leaped to immediate conclusion that the victim was a woman. Certainly he had the setup that invites woman trouble. There was a faint foreign flavor to his appearance and intonation. His dress and the cast of his features marked him right out of the top drawer. He'd go over big with women. But not so big with men. Men would get wise right off to something shifty in his character.

Doyle consulted his bulky pocket watch. Ellen would be having fits.

With a last wistful look at the bones, he turned away. And instantly wheeled about again. His trained, observant eyes had caught sight of something, but scarcely registered it in that moment of preoccupation. Where? What? He frowned and repeated the movement he had made—but this time slowly, alert for impression. There it was. A faint glitter close to what had been the left hand.

He stepped around the bones, searching the leaves. Probably a shred of cellophane from his cigaret pack. He'd smoked when he was here the first time. Then he saw it again and swooped upon it.

It was a curious little gadget, rectangular in shape, about one-half by three-quarters of an inch in size of the thickness of heavy paper, and made of some white metal, with a border of delicate engraving. Doyle's big hands with their surprisingly sensitive conical fingers, discovered that the gadget separated into two parts—an undecorated prong like affair which clamped on to the engraved piece.

He wrapped it up carefully and stowed it in his wallet.

"But damned if I know what it is," he told himself ruefully.

During the thunderstorm Officer Madden had found the traffic conditions particularly trying on the five highways which converged in the center of the town of Beachville. When the storm was over, he retired to the peace and safety of the bank steps to catch his breath. But before this could be accomplished to his satisfaction, a stranger rounded the corner and drew up at the officer's elbow. Madden viewed the unknown one with an asperity which was not dispelled by the man's first words.

"I want to report a murder."

The officer's Adam's Apple rode up and down on a gulp of astonishment.

"Is there a police court here?"

At that Madden rallied sufficiently to inquire in hushed tones. "Who did you kill?"

"Get this straight," Doyle urged. "I didn't kill any one. But I found a skeleton. This afternoon. In the woods. There's been a murder, and the proper authorities should be notified. You'd better come and take a look."

"How far is it?"

"Yah!" the officer said derisively. "There aren't any woods on that road."

"There are if you strike out across the fields."

Madden pondered. Then he whistled one long drawn out note, and looked at Doyle with startled attention. But all he said was, "That's private property. You have no business——"

"O. K.," Doyle interrupted. "I was trespassing."

Madden surveyed him darkly. "We'd better talk this over with Judge Blain," the officer decided.

Judge Blain lived in a medium sized frame house, set close to the street and weathered a dingy mustard color. Over the driveway was a wooden arch on which was largely lettered:

BLAIN'S BLAMELESS BUILDING BLOCKS.

The judge was in the back yard. He was wearing denim overalls.

Madden led the judge out of earshot. Doyle could see the judge inclining his long, narrow head to Madden's report. The judge's mouth made a tight thin line beneath his long nose.

He came over to Doyle, mopping his gray hair curled damply on his perspiring brow. "I'm a busy man," he said tersely. "This isn't a joke? A wild goose chase?"

"There's been a murder," Doyle said patiently. "There's a skeleton in the woods with a bullet hole thru its skull."

Blain peered at him from eyes which were deepset under bushy brows.

Doyle said in level tones, "A human skeleton."

Judge Blain spoke abruptly "You come back here in the morning. No point traipsin' thru the woods in the dark." He nodded curtly and returned to the barn, followed by the officer.

There being nothing else to do, Doyle went back to the Seaview, where he found himself late for dinner, and markedly unpopular with both Ellen and the management . . .

Early the next morning Doyle was sitting on some of the Blameless Blocks when the judge emerged from his back door. The judge looked at Doyle and grunted. Then he went into the barn where the mixer was churning the makings for another batch. Blain turned the machine off and poured the mix into molds. His shabby car was in the yard. He yanked open a rear door and addressed Doyle for the first time. "Get in."

EASTLAND SHIP DISASTER EPIC OF EFFICIENT RELIEF

Today Is 25th Anniversary of Steamship Tragedy.

By 7:10 25 years ago this morning—the date was July 24, 1915—a total of 2,500 picnickers had boarded the S. S. Eastland. She lay at the dock just west of the south end of the Clark street bridge. The passengers were employés of the Western Electric company and their families. They were bound for a holiday cruise and picnic in Michigan City, Ind.

Men in white shirts and duck trousers chatted with their women companions and waved to friends on the dock. Children played on crowded decks. A mandolin and fiddle orchestra played ragtime, but there was no room for dancing.

A Last, Violent Lurch.

Then the boat listed to port. It leaned toward the north side of the river, righted itself, and began to tip again. The passengers looked anxiously toward the bridge.

Captain Pederson continued to shout orders for departure and the passengers were reassured. Then there was a violent lurch to port. The music stopped. The musicians and their instruments tumbled across the deck. The water rose over the port rail and there was a chorus of screams.

The ship's grand staircase below gave way in the panic-stricken rush for life. Those below deck were trapped—many to be crushed to death or drowned. The ship rolled over slowly and lay on its side in 18 feet of water.

Death Toll 812.

This ship tragedy, which took a toll of 812 lives—451 of whom were women and girls and 361 of whom were men and boys—was no battle with the elements in midocean. It happened on a mild summer day with the steamer's bow still fastened to the dock. Street cars and elevated trains rumbled by a few hundred feet away. The disaster was shadowed by metropolitan skyscrapers, and thousands of persons looked on.

On the 25th anniversary of the tragedy, the city remembers the manner in which Chicagoans sprang to the aid of the victims and their bereaved.

The job of directing the relief work fell to John Jay O'Connor, then 27 years old and head of the central division of the Red Cross. O'Connor now is manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington, D. C.

The tragedy was an hour old when he began the relief work. He hastily charted his plan of action on the wall paper of his hotel room. Later the paper was ripped from the wall and taken to his office for study by his aids.

Victims Placed in Rows.

At the scene the victims were being brought up by firemen, police, and volunteer rescue workers. On the sidewalks coatless physicians were trying to resuscitate victims, who were placed in rows faster than they could be treated.

The telephone company rushed emergency workers to the scene and installed rows of telephones for free use by the public. The wholesale grocery firm of Reid, Murdock & Co., located on the river's north bank, threw open its building for use as headquarters and hospital. The dead were placed in trucks and taken to the Second Regiment armory at Washington and Curtiss streets.

A line of people, many blocks long, waited for the armory doors to be opened. Before midnight the signal was given, and the mournful procession began identifying the aisles of dead on the armory floor.

Nurses Quickly Organized.

State street stores drew on their personnel, goods, and equipment for workers, stretchers, blankets, and trucks. A crew of nurses was hastily organized.

Acting Mayor Moorehouse called a meeting of Red Cross, Western Electric officials, and city leaders. It was at this meeting that it was decided Chicago could take care of its own. Director O'Connor ruled that no funds could be accepted from ousiders or from governmental agencies.

The day after the disaster unidentified contributions totaling $1,200 were slipped under the door of the relief headquarters or thrown over the transom. Offers of financial aid came from thruout the country and from abroad.

All except one were rejected. That, a contribution of $1,000 by Sir Thomas Lipton, was accepted. Lipton recalled that he had been made an honorary citizen of Chicago and was eligible to contribute.

Tribune Fund Subscribed.

The morning after the disaster THE TRIBUNE said: "THE TRIBUNE announces the opening of a public fund for the aid of bereaved families of the Eastland victims. THE TRIBUNE hereby subscribes $1,000 as a start for this fund. Further gifts will be received at The Tribune office."

This fund was swelled to more than $21,000 in a few days and turned over to O'Connor.

O'Connor said THE TRIBUNE, represented by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher, was among the first to agree that the funds raised should be turned over to a central committee. This prevented overlapping of functions and provided an efficient administration.

A total of $562,370.49 was paid out by the relief committee. Of this sum, $385,979.78 was contributed by Chicagoans. The balance was provided by the Western Electric company.

Operative Expense Little.

Cost of administering this fund might well be studied with awe by present day relief workers. The operative expense was $3,899.87, about eight-tenths of 1 per cent of the fund. The total salary cost was $1,431.95, and the bulk of administrative money went for supplies, carfare, and expenses of workers.

There was no red tape in the business of Eastland relief. O'Connor's orders were "to give relief and ask questions next week." With the immediate suffering eased, O'Connor went to work on the investigation for permanent payments.

Facts concerning payments were obtained from original sources—insurance companies and benefit societies. Ownership of property was certified. Ages of children were established.

Basis of Permanent Payments.

In seeking a basis for permanent payments, O'Connor worked out the "Eastland Disaster Method of Equalizing Relief Grants." Among its main points were the following:

1. For each adult person drowned the family was given $200; for each child under 18 years of age who was drowned the family was given $150.

2. Each child orphaned by the disaster was allowed $12 a month until he or she had reached the working age of 16 years.

3. Each widow with surviving children was given $150 for each minor dead person and $200 for each adult dead. She was given $500 for her widowhood and the following scale for surviving children: 1 to 7 years old, $500; 8 to 9, $400; 10 to 11, $300; 12 to 13, $200; 14, $150, and 15, $100.

A series of deductions based on property, life insurance, and savings then was worked out. The Red Cross and Western Electric company still were aiding the victims three years after the disaster.

They called upon attorneys to assist families in litigation, obtained employment for children, and provided advice on investments.

O'Connor did not complete his work without opposition from politicians and papers other than THE TRIBUNE. One paper, now defunct, which derided the work of the relief committee, later printed a retraction dictated by O'Connor.

Here too, THE TRIBUNE aided him, O'Connor said. Richard Henry Little, then a reporter and later conductor of the column, A Line o' Type or Two, under the initials R. H. L., gave him valuable advice and forestalled political efforts to blacken the committee work.

Captain a Tragic Figure.

One tragic figure in the investigation was Capt. Pederson. He remained aboard the overturned ship directing rescue work until members of the hysterical crowd on the dock threatened to mob him. None of the investigations held him responsible for the tragedy, but at the time he bore the brunt of unfavorable comment and publicity.

Following the disaster he gave up active lake service and led a life of semi-retirement in Chicago. He and six officials of the steamship line were indicted by a federal grand jury. The cases were dropped when a district judge held he had no jurisdiction because the boat was tied to a dock in the Chicago river at the time of the tragedy.

At this hearing the defense offered evidence purported to show that wooden pilings left in the river following construction of a street car tunnel had caused the ship to capsize.

The Eastland was salvaged, rebuilt as a naval training vessel, and christened the U. S. S. Wilmette. It is berthed at the naval armory dock at the foot of Randolph street and is used each summer for training cruises of the naval reserve.

FIRST 6 MONTHS' TRAFFIC TOLL IS 3 ABOVE 1939 MARK

Traffic deaths in Chicago in the first six months of this year totaled 308, an increase of three over the corresponding period last year, George W. Fleming, secretary of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe Committee, reported yesterday.

Fleming said that during the six months there were more trafic fatalities in 27 of Chicago's 50 wards than in the first half of 1939.

The 19th ward on the far southwest side and the 27th ward on the near west side had the largest death totals, each with 13½. [Fractions are counted when a death occurs on a boundary line between the wards.] The 4th ward [south side] had the lowest death rate, with only ½ death, resulting from an accident on the boundary with the 2d ward.

ONE MAN KILLED, THREE RESCUED IN W. SIDE BLAZE

One man was suffocated and three others were rescued early today when flames swept thru three floors of a building at 23 North Halsted street. The fire started on the first floor, occupied by a locksmith, and climbed swiftly to bedrooms on the second and third.

Firemen led two men downstairs and carried two unconscious victims down ladders. Inhalator squads revived Frank McLaughlin, 60 years old, who was taken to the county hospital. The other man, who was not identified, died without regaining consciousness.

Chief John Fenn of the 1st battalion estimated property damage at $200 and said he would ask an investigation by the fire attorney's office.

INQUEST IN FOUR AUTO DEATHS SET FOR TOMORROW

Dr. Londus B. Brannon, Will county coroner, will conduct an inquest tomorrow into the deaths of two women and two men killed Monday in a two car collision at the intersection of routes 53 and 56, eight miles north of Lockport.

Those killed were Mrs. Edith Cole Harris, 36 years old, of Downers Grove; her sister, Mrs. H. E. Thompson, 42, of Norfolk, Va.; C. G. Pratt, 49, night jailer at the Du Page county jail in Wheaton, and John Brantley, 30, of 115 South boulevard, Oak Park, a salesman. Pratt's car collided with Brantley's as Pratt was driving the women home from a family reunion at Joliet.

Lloyd N. Carter, 41, a salesman for the United States Gypsum company, was killed Monday when his car was struck by a train at the Milwaukee road crossing in Wooddale, Du Page county. Carter lived at 1430 Lake avenue, Wilmette.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 471 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 354 died in Chicago, where 12,608 were injured during the same period.

DIES BESIDE PUSH CART.

An unidentified rag picker about 45 years old died beside his push cart in front of 2101 Kendall avenue yesterday. Police said he suffered a heart attack, possibly aggravated by the heat.

IF EVERYTHING SEEMS TO GO WRONG

Answer this question . . .

Are you sure that you may not be a victim of too much acid in your bladder!—a condition which can be brought on if your kidneys fail to eliminate at least two quarts a day. Here's what can happen if that occurs—

The acids and by-products of metabolism (which are expelled thru the bladder) are insufficiently diluted. They reach the bladder in such a highly concentrated acid condition that they irritate the sphincter muscle and the sensitive bladder linings. Such irritations can cause those "overwhelming" urges that wake you up; pains in back, lower abdomen and the legs; burning passages, itching. Under such conditions, you can't be blamed if you feel blue. But you can be blamed if you take no steps to relieve such a situation.

Take FOLEY PILLS. They act on your kidneys and bladder in three ways. They stir those sluggish kidneys, and dilute and neutralize the over-acid contents of your bladder. Furthermore, FOLEY PILLS transform those over-acid contents into a bland solution which actually helps soothe those tortured tissues and quiet those irritations which may be responsible for those "overwhelming" urges, backaches, getting up nights, burning, itching, etc.

Don't let too much acid in your bladder make you feel worse. Start taking Foley Pills today. Quick results, quick relief, quick satisfaction or your money back. At all druggists.

STOP Itching GET RELIEF This Fast Way —or Money Back

For quick relief from itching of insect bites, heat rash, athlete's foot, eczema and other externally caused skin troubles, use world-famous cooling, antiseptic, liquid D. D. D. Prescription. Greaseless, stainless. Soothes irritation and quickly stops intense itching. 35c trial bottle proves it, or money back. Don't suffer. Ask your druggist today for D. D. D. PRESCRIPTION.

DAY BY DAY a new menace—the gaunt specter of impending Famine—creeps into the news from Europe. It is an ugly threat, freighted with misery, disease and death. Famine strikes blindly and cruelly, ravaging all alike, the soldier and the civilian, the strong and the weak, the very old and the very young. It hits at the taproots of life, for the first necessity of Mankind is food.

In the world of today Americans may well take comfort—humbly and thankfully—from the fact that Famine will not reach this land. America alone of the Great Powers can feed all her people adequately and unfailingly from the produce of her own soil, and help to provide food for others. On this basic question of food, which underlies all preparedness, America is prepared beyond the dreams of other nations.

America's farmers excel because they are the most alert, the most scientific, and the best-equipped of the world's farmers. They have made their wonderful production records because of those qualities, and because they use the most efficient production methods in the world.

Preparedness in nations which are farmed with crude tools by the muscle power of men and animals, inevitably means loss of vital crops and decline of food production as men are taken from the land. In our land, that is not true.

America will continue to produce her stocks of food, for the efficiency and strength of the American farmer are multiplied by his untiring aids, the tractor and the combine, the seeding machines, the mower, the corn picker and the motor truck. The American farmer, with their help, can do whatever task the nation sets him.

We take pride in that, because we have helped to make it true. For more than 100 years the industry of which this Company is a part has designed and built the farm machines that have made American farming one of the productive wonders of the world.

CONSCRIPTION WILL HAMPER DEFENSE.

The senate military affairs committee has approved a bill to register for military conscription all men between 18 and 64 years of age. The bill has the indorsement of the war department, which means that of the President.

The President has already talked of an army of two million men. This has served to increase the nation's suspicion, already fanned by his frequent bellicose utterances, that it is his purpose to send an American expeditionary force to Europe. In getting behind the conscription drive he is already further toward an A. E. F. than was Woodrow Wilson when this nation declared war in 1917. The nation was given to understand then, by responsible leaders in congress, that we would not send troops to France. The call for the token division to aid the allies, and the adoption of the draft, both came after we had entered the war, not before.

Deep distrust of Mr. Roosevelt's motives will furnish to many a compelling reason for opposition to conscription. As a matter of fact, this is not a particularly good reason. Lack of the means of fighting will not, if history is any guide, deter the President from embroiling us in war if he can. Lack of preparedness has never been a deterrent in the past. We were not prepared to fight in 1812 against Great Britain. We were not prepared to fight Mexico in 1846. Neither the south nor the north was prepared for the civil war. We were not prepared in 1898, and we were not prepared in 1917. Yet in each instance we went to war.

If conscription would help this country get ready to defend itself the nation might be justified in adopting it despite its distrust of the intentions of the President in regard to the drafted troops. But the real objection to conscription is that at this time, and for many months to come, it will hamper and not help our preparations for defense.

Nothing could be worse than to concentrate millions of young men in training camps now. They would lack arms. They would lack even uniforms. Their time would be wasted and they would not unnaturally become disgruntled at the waste. Mr. Roosevelt says that when we get our arms we must have soldiers already trained to use them. That is silly. Without arms, what training does he propose to give a drafted army? Calisthenics? We need a highly trained army, it is true, but we cannot train soldiers to use modern weapons until we put the modern weapons in their hands.

Conscription would inflict a disastrous blow to the present program of providing those weapons. At a time when our national economy is being put to the most severe strain in history by the effects of the Roosevelt depression combined with the demands of the rearmament program, it is proposed to add to that strain by withdrawing some millions of workers from productive activities.

Such a course would help to build up the war hysteria that President Roosevelt has fostered so assiduously, and that is why the President is for conscription. It would not aid our defense. It would hamper it seriously and perhaps fatally.

WHY ARE THE MARINES IN SHANGHAI?

We do not place much faith in the Japanese charge that American marines mistreated the Jap plainclothes men they arrested in Shanghai. Neither, we suspect, does any one else in this country, which is exactly what makes the Shanghai situation so dangerous.

The Shanghai marine force is an isolated body of troops which it is impossible for this country to reinforce or relieve. It is composed of well disciplined professional soldiers commanded by officers of experience and discretion. Its officers appreciate their precarious situation, which they have met in the past with firm tact. It is not likely that they would permit any overt acts toward the Japanese or that their men, disciplined as they are, would violate instructions which they doubtless have to avoid trouble.

If the Japanese have grievances against the United States, they are grievances bred by the rabid utterances of Senator Pittman and other New Dealers in Washington, not by the conduct of our forces in China. But it is only against the marines that the Japanese can take out their grievances. Senator Pittman is safe from their indignation.

The fact that the marines are probably in the right in Shanghai makes their situation there more difficult, not less so. We cannot, in self-respect, repudiate their actions and apologize for what they have done. What we can do, and what we should do, is remove them from the spot where they are subject to constant provocation at the hands of the Japanese authorities in China.

Their military position is impossible. They are expected to maintain a show of force which they, we, the Japanese, and the whole world know is futile because this country is powerless to relieve them if they get into trouble. American interests in China are not worth a war with Japan, and if they were, our troops there could not protect them. The troops should be withdrawn. They can do us no good but can, thru no fault of their own, get us into trouble.

A HALF BILLION FOR GOOD NEIGHBORS.

From Washington comes the news that the administration intends to ask congress for half a billion dollars to be used for the relief of Latin American economic difficulties. The announcement was timed to impress the delegates to the Pan-American conference in Havana.

The White House announcement filled a space in Secretary Hull's address at Havana which had obviously been left blank. Mr. Hull spoke of the war's effect on Latin American economy. European purchases had been greatly reduced with the result that some Latin American countries were finding it difficult to pay for necessary imports and at the same time immense stores of export commodities were accumulating with no means in sight for disposing of them.

Mr. Roosevelt's proposal is that the United States treasury turn over half a billion dollars to another government agency, the Export-Import bank, and that the money be used to finance the sale and more especially the storage of Latin America's surpluses.

Not even the New Dealers, we imagine, can regard this proposal as a sound one by even their standards of soundness. The half billion dollars will almost certainly be lost irretrievably, and the longer the war lasts the more certain it becomes not only that this money will fail to solve the problem but that other and larger appropriations will have to be made for the same purpose.

Perhaps the loans can be used in some fashion to increase the exchange of commodities between nations in this hemisphere, but these benefits are likely to be pretty narrowly limited. Domestic politics will prevent any considerable importation of agricultural products such as meat and grain from the temperate zone in South America and there are limits to the amount of coffee and other noncompetitive products which we can take from Latin America.

It is true that we can take rubber, tin, and other products in almost unlimited quantity but the trouble here is that years will be required before these commodities can be produced in South America in amounts sufficient to make much difference; years in which great capital investments must be made for exploration, development, and transportation services. The problem, as Mr. Hull indicated, is an immediate one and requires an immediate solution.

What Mr. Hull fears—and with reason—is that economic distress in Latin America will result in political unrest which will be exploited to the full by the Germans and the Italians. What he and Mr. Roosevelt hope is that the half billion will keep Latin America quiet for the time being, at least, accustom the neighboring nations to closer economic relations with America rather than Europe, and keep them out of the European orbit.

The objections to the proposal are so obvious that they scarcely need be stated. Our own experience points the folly of subsidizing production of surplus commodities. It merely aggravates the burden and at the same time accustoms the producers to expect more and larger subsidies as time goes on. Our treasury is staggering under the weight of the subsidies it has granted to domestic producers and is now asked to pauperize the whole hemisphere over an indefinite period of time. Ours is the richest country in the world, but no country is rich enough to carry that kind of a load.

One alternative is to do nothing by way of relieving present and future distress in Latin America and to meet the consequences as they may arise. If that policy is adopted, we may find it necessary to employ force in defense of the Monroe Doctrine and our intervention may not be welcome. It is also possible that in our present state of unpreparedness we may not be able to bring an adequate force to bear, particularly to the south of the bulge in South America.

The question is a difficult one and no solution has been proposed which is both easy and painless. Certainly the moment has not come to give unqualified endorsement to the half billion dollar subsidy. Judgment of its merits can certainly be postponed at least until the delegates to the Havana conference and their home governments have indicated to what extent they will coöperate to limit the losses. We cannot be expected to place so large a sum on the line—and inferentially still larger ones in the future—without very substantial commitments of money by our good neighbors and other evidences of a willingness to accept sacrifices and adhere to the plan and its purposes in good faith.

LITTER IN THE PARKS.

Chicago's parks and beaches on Monday mornings in summer present a distressing sight. The lawns are strewn with papers and scraps of picnic lunches. It takes a large force of men the better part of a day to remove the debris.

It is all unnecessary. The rule requiring citizens to show a decent regard for the appearance of public property is a reasonable one and its enforcement would be generally approved. A few arrests for failure to pick up papers would have a salutary effect. For the most part, there is an adequate supply of waste baskets within easy distance of the picnickers, and when these baskets are filled papers can be carried home and destroyed there. That is surely a small sacrifice to ask in return for the use of the parks.

A year or so ago the suggestion was made in these columns that small incinerators be placed in the parks. Children would take pleasure in gathering papers to keep the fire going and the problem of the overflowing waste basket would be solved. The park officials could afford to offer a substantial prize for the design of an incinerator which would be foolproof. Meanwhile it would be a good idea to place more baskets, and preferably covered ones, about the lawns. With any kind of a breeze the papers are likely to blow out of the baskets now provided.

Most people are considerate of the appearance of the parks. The Monday morning litter is the work of a few slobs and slatterns. The arrest of a dozen of them and the imposition of $10 fines would do a lot of good. Among other things it would teach these people that citizens in a republic have responsibilities as well as rights and that a free government is not obliged to tolerate dirty habits.

From the Times of last Oct. 27: Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—The White House indicated displeasure today with the statement made yesterday at San Francisco by Secretary Wallace that wartime conditions and considerations of national safety made it necessary for President Roosevelt to succeed himself in 1940.

Conversation on the Collecting Mania.

Mrs. O'Toole was holding forth on her favorite subject. She had been asked by her club to give a talk on collecting, and she was going over it with O'Toole for his criticism and help.

"There's one particular point I want to bring out," she said, "and that is this. The things in which collectors interest themselves; they are so unexpected."

"You're telling me," O'Toole inserted.

"What I mean is, they rarely collect the thing associated with their profession or what would seem to be their natural interest."

"Crazy is as crazy does, I sez," put in O'T.

"Take, for instance, the famous financier," she pursued, "what was his great hobby?" "Coins," answered O'Toole promptly.

"It was mosque lamps," replied Mrs. O'Toole, "and that Republican politician. What did he collect?" "Bronze and ivory elephants!" O'T. suggested. "No," said she, "it was walking sticks."

"Then there was the great general. A fierce fellow, all wrapped up in war business. Would you believe what he was noted for? Well, it was Chinese blue and white porcelain."

"Finally," said Mrs. O'Toole, raising her voice to a fitting climax, "there's the case of the well known columnist and former drama critic. What do you suppose he collects?" . . . . "First folio Shakespeares," hazarded O'Toole. "No! Wine labels."

O'Toole pondered deeply upon this, then said at length, "I don't wonder at it. Running a column is enough to drive any one to that."

FREEDOM'S POSTMORTEM.

Who knows exactly where it all began?—
The taking much and giving little back,
The creeping guilt that left no able man
With power enough to stand against the pack;
The persecution of constructive minds
That strove to function 'mid confusion's roar;
The costly and experimental plans
That failed, and sapped the morale of the poor.

What traitors, screened by liberty for all,
Conspired to weaken and destroy the State?
What frightfulness accompanied the fall?
O God! Who knows not these; too well, too late!
Betrayed and loyal dead, kind is the dust

Answers to a Barnyard Riddle.

Cows are milked from their right side [July 18] because of their anatomy and physiology. The first stomach [cows have four] or paunch lies on the left side of the abdominal cavity. It has a capacity of 60 gallons, and when distended with food causes the left side of the abdomen to bulge to such an extent that a milker at the left could not get conveniently close to his or her work.

Doc Vetter.

* * *

There is no scientific reason for milking on the right-hand side, other than the fact that most persons are right handed and probably find it easier to work on that side of the cow.

CLEAR AND PERFECT VOICE CONTROL.

A WELL modulated voice—whether employed in social or business converse—is a striking asset. This is even more essential when one is obliged to engage in a certain amount of public speaking. Radio listeners are conscious of the fact that some announcers are irritating, while others are pleasing—and we may not stop to define just why.

There are tricks in all trades. While pronunciation is a factor, we subconsciously yield to the influence of tones that possess an esthetic quality. This type of discourse carries far more conviction. One may not be able to warble a note, but the sort of training given to singers is required for resonant, clear enunciation. All too often we leave this whole matter to chance. As a result some of us have a nasal twang or utter harsh, rasping sounds that are likely to set our hearers on edge. The remedy lies in proper reeducation.

But what is speech? How is it produced? First, we must be endowed with a good breathing apparatus, as currents of air from the lungs must bring about vibration of the vocal cords. It is the control of this latter machinery [the larynx] that governs the tones—which may be easy to listen to or quite the reverse. Then comes articulation—which depends upon the shape and the size of the cavities within the mouth and the nasal passages. It is these areas that give the bell-like character to the spoken word.

Why is breathing important? Because the stream of air directed against the cords must set them into even, well regulated vibration. This means that the individual must demand good behavior on the part of certain groups of muscles which compress the abdomen and hence maintain a steady push on the diaphragm. In other words, a good lecturer is one who can prolong the act of inspiration and expiration. Those who have lax abdominal walls will need to strengthen these structures before proper habits can be acquired.

Few realize that they cannot hold forth on an empty chest. Those who attempt to do so may be obliged to take a breath in the middle of a sentence. But one should not fill the lungs forcibly so that they will be on a tension. The most successful are those whose respiration is natural and easy and who appear to have plenty of "wind"—carrying power—for what they wish to say.

When it comes to the vocal cords we must regard them as they have been aptly termed, "the lips of the trumpeter." The muscles that direct their movements do not supply the tone. They merely adjust the cords and hold them on a certain key.

A weak, squeaky voice means that the resonating spaces are inadequate. Sometimes one can alter the position of the tongue, lips, cheeks, and jaws in such a fashion that the sound will be modified. But in the presence of some deformity—a misshapen oral cavity, for example—a high pitched, strident delivery may be characteristic.

The time, of course, to get the right start is in childhood. A whining utterance is usually the result of poor discipline or of temper. But every youngster should be at ease—not afraid to talk in the presence of other members of the family.

It is safe to say that since the coming of the "talkies" and the radio all of us pay more attention to this phase of personal development.

LAUGHING FEET.

J. D. K. writes: My feet never perspire—summer or winter. I would like to know what to do to make them sweat.

REPLY.

You don't know how fortunate you are. Excess perspiration is a most annoying and common symptom. Would that you could average up with one so afflicted. The skin of the entire body is breathing constantly. We see only the beads of moisture that are visible. Perhaps your feet are so delighted that they are not surfeited with dampness that they smile rather than weep.

EAR DISORDER.

F. A. writes: If I sleep on my right side I seem to be deaf in the right ear for several hours after getting up. I have never been hard of hearing. What is the explanation?

REPLY.

Possibly a plug of wax which becomes squeezed against the drum. Sometime after you assume an erect posture this may loosen enough so that the membrane will be able to vibrate. The same reasoning applies to a clogged eustachian tube.

FEARS INSANITY.

A. F. writes: I have a fear of becoming insane. How can this be overcome?

REPLY.

This is largely a matter of self-training. If you cannot reason yourself out of your delusion, you may need some friendly help. A physician or an adviser in whom you have confidence can aid you. We have a list of books on mental hygiene. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this leaflet.

RANKIN AND THE NEGRO GUESTS.

Chicago, July 18.—The test of democracy, like the test of prosperity, is best measured by the circumstances of its humblest citizens. In this country the restricted freedom, civil and economic, of the lives of the nearly 14 million Negro citizens has cast an ugly shadow on America's broadly heralded democracy. It is illogical that members of the national Democratic party so often persist in blindness on this score. A case in mind is an incident at the Democratic convention now in session here.

It occurred Monday morning. Congressman Rankin of Mississippi, brilliant advocate of democratic distribution of public utilities [particularly electricity], had just delivered a telling brief in behalf of the electrification of rural America. He had concluded his address, amid warm applause, and smilingly acknowledged the congratulations, among others, of the several Negro delegates in the committee room.

An hour later in the modest lunchroom of the Hotel Harrison, just a block from the smart Blackstone where the congressman had spoken, the congressman from Mississippi waited for an order of broiled fish and sipped a bottle of cool beer. As he waited his thin face turned ashen gray as thru the door entered a Negro woman, one whose congratulations he had so smilingly acknowledged in the committee room a half hour earlier. When the woman and her party were seated and he saw that they were going to be served he called his waitress, asking to have his check immediately.

"But you have ordered fish," the waitress reminded him.

"I can't eat it here. Impossible! I can't eat with that!"—indicating the Negro woman. And he stalked to the manager, his face still tense, paid his check and, pointing out the Negro woman to the manager, insisted that he could not eat under such conditions. After several moments of this wrathful complaint the irate Democratic congressman left unfed.

Democracy is in real danger here at home when its loudest proponents in high government office insist that the elementary rights of free use of public services and conveniences be denied to 10 per cent of its population. Why not look to the factors of internal democracy?

MRS. JAMES M. GARNETT.

[Two days later the Democratic platform was professing all manner of "equality" in its special Negro plank.]

NEW DEAL'S FARM RECORD.

Chicago, July 22.—The New Deal platform points to the reduction of the farm debt as one of the New Deal achievements; but it does not inform the public that this reduction was accomplished not by lifting farm mortgages but by foreclosing them. During the last seven years more than 1,000,000 American farmers have been ejected from their farms by foreclosing procedure; there is no other such record in American history.

During the last seven years there has been also an unprecedented and alarming increase in farm tenancy. If the New Deal farm policies are to continue, it will not be long until practically all our small farmers, the backbone of historic American agriculture, will be reduced to a state of permanent and abject peonage. Moreover, in 1933 about one-third of our people were ill fed, ill clad, and ill housed; in 1940 more than one-half of our people are ill fed, ill clad, and ill housed. Yet President Roosevelt wants a third term.

THE FLAG WAVES.

Aurora, Ill., July 20.—May I express my appreciation of the fact that you display our flag every day from Tribune Tower and also for using the flag in all issues of your newspaper at the top of the news summary?

It is a good example to less thoughtful patriots than you; it gives courage to us who have striven for years to stress patriotism; it should cause fear in the hearts of un-Americans and I can safely speak for the [more than 2,600 members in this area] Daughters of the American Revolution in thanking you for this fine patriotic gesture, which we know is quite sincere.

MRS. THOMAS E. MAURY.

HIS UNION FEES.

Chicago, July 22.—For two years I've been without a job, but finally I succeeded in finding one in a machine shop. But in order to start to work I'd have to pay $25 as an initiation fee to the A. F. of L., so I could earn an existence for me and mine.

I can't see why a man who went on struggling to learn a trade has to share his earnings with a bunch of racketeers from those unions.

COUNTRY LIFE FOR WIDOWS.

Chicago, July 19.—Cook county gives a pension to widowed mothers of small children. These mothers ought to live in small communities, in our county, where living is simple.

A little cottage, vegetable garden, and country life would insure them a wholesome existence without added burdens on us taxpayers.

JUSTICE FOR ALL.

NOT FIFTH COLUMNISTS.

Chicago, July 17.—People have a tendency to confuse Socialists with communists. Some refuse to sign petitions to get the Socialist party on the ballot, giving reasons such as fear of being investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as "fifth columnists." Socialists believe in and practice democracy. Communists believe in and practice dictatorship. That Socialists are not fifth columnists is made clear by Attorney General Jackson in a letter to Norman Thomas, presidential candidate of the Socialist party. Mr. Jackson said:

"It is regrettable that such a story should gain the slightest credence in this country. The Socialist party, under your leadership, has not been regarded as representing or as being under the influence of foreign governments. It is a lawful political party and an American citizen is not subject to harassment because he exercises his rights as a citizen in signing your nominating petitions."

LEO JOHNSON.

WHAT ABOUT HIS THREE KIDS?

Chicago, July 20.—If the Democratic party is to win in November it must adopt [and then live up to it] a resolution to care for our American children first.

As the father of three, a disabled world war veteran, with no regular job, what about the future of these three American kids of mine? I am fortunate in having an honest to God American wife, but what is her outlook? As for mine I care not. I gave all I had in 1917 and 1918. Nothing matters except my splendid wife and family. Then why care for the foreigners or their children? Sure, I love children, but we here have thousands that are hungry and without proper food or sleeping quarters. Do not forget that charity begins at home. Only with this as a plank will the Democrats or any other party win in November.

EX-RAINBOW.

ABOUT HAPPY EMPLOYES.

Chicago, July 20.—The letter in your July 16 issue by Mrs. Ferdinand W. Peck, pleading the cause of Good Humor salesman, who must stay standing all day, whether customers stop or not, finds a responsive chord in the thinking of every considerate person.

Smart employers know that a happy employé is a booster wherever and whenever the opportunity permits.

A GAG FOR PEPPER?

Chicago, July 21.—I am in favor of silencing such war mongers as Senator Claude Pepper, by force if necessary. This particular individual should be corraled and isolated along with all others preaching war for this country. Why must we have hysterics ruling this country?

CARL W.

EIGHTY-FOUR "I'S" AND "MY'S."

Chicago, July 22.—In his radio address to the Democratic convention last week President Roosevelt used "I," "my," and "myself" 84 times. 'Nuf said.

FIRST PERSON SINGULAR.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problems a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

PROPERTY FORECLOSURE.

Chicago, July 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Two old people of 79 years of age have their homestead taken from them. Instead of being paid out they received a life lease. Now the receivers may get a tax foreclosure which we are told wipes out lease and all. One of their children is interested in buying the place so that the old folks won't be put out of their home.

1. Are the old folks supposed to get any amount for their rights or not?
2. Is any one owning a car allowed to park so close to the curb that when opening the auto door they break off posts around the lawn?
3. Has the property owner a right to stop them from doing so?
4. When a windstorm breaks off large branches from a tree and strikes any one, can they sue the property owner?
5. Is the owner supposed to take care of the trees?
6. Is it up to the city?

M. O.

1. Depends on what you mean by their rights. If on the foreclosure sale the bidding is spirited enough to produce a surplus above the taxes due, then the previous owner will get such surplus after paying costs.
2. Yes, in the sense that the adjoining property owner does not ordinarily own the parkway and hence would have no right to maintain the posts and no right to object to their being damaged.
3. No, see 2.
4. Of course they can sue but he would not be liable on the bare facts stated. It would be necessary to prove that he was in some way to blame.
5 and 6. Depends on the location.

TODAY IN HISTORY

July 24, 1929

The Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war proclaimed in effect by President Hoover, ratification having been completed by 45 signatory nations. Among those agreeing to maintain peace were Germany, Italy, Japan, Great Britain, and France. The movement originated as an agreement between France and the United States, but other nations were invited to join the denunciation of war, agreeing to solve their problems by peaceful means.

TROUBLE STARTS

[Western Mail and South Wales News.]

DR. BENES HEADS CZECH ASSEMBLY SET UP IN BRITAIN

Has Legislative Chamber and Cabinet of 40.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 23.—Dr. Eduard Benes, former president of Czecho-Slovakia, today called a meeting of American newspapermen to announce the recognition of his "provisional Czecho-Slovakian government "by the British government.

Dr. Eduard Benes.

He said that a cabinet of 40 members already had been formed, that there was a legislative chamber and that he himself would continue as president of the republic. Five Slovaks are included in the new cabinet and Jan Masaryk is foreign minister. Marsaryk, a son of former President Thomas G. Marsaryk, formerly was Czecho-Slovak ambassador to London.

Similar to Previous Rôle.

Dr. Benes pictured his rôle in the present war as extraordinarily similar to that in the last war 25 years ago when he spent his time working for the recognition of the Czechs as a nation. He said that yesterday he discussed the subject of recognition of the Czecho-Slovak government with Lord Halifax, British foreign minister, in the same room in which he had a similar discussion with Lord Balfour during the world war.

"We are in a similar position as the Dutch, Norwegian, Polish, and other invaded nations," said Benes. "We are organizing army and air force units under the British high command as quickly as possible. We cannot do much in a military way immediately but the moral effect of the recognition of our government will be great among all the peoples now dominated by Hitler."

Still on Chicago Faculty.

Dr. Benes spoke appreciatively of American aid and sympathy for his country and said he had not given up his professorship at the University of Chicago.

As for the present war, the former Czech president said:

"I believe the war will return to the continent and that the eventual collapse of Germany is inevitable. I have no doubt that Czecho-Slovakia will be free again. The future borders of Czecho-Slovakia must be approximately the same as the old, which naturally is the best for geographical and obvious reasons."

Dr. Benes aligned himself definitely on the side of democracy and declared, "This is a war to the death. Either dictatorship or democracy must perish."

He made no guess about what steps the United States would take in connection with his government, but observed that the United States never recognized the Nazi invasion and that the Czech legation was still functioning in Washington, D. C. The new government has launched a national campaign abroad which is "fully supported by the 1,500,000 American Czecho-Slovaks," the committee said.

COURT AID FACES REMOVAL TO JAIL IN AN AMBULANCE

Attorney Victor P. Frank, who is accused in four complaints of being $5,579 short in his accounts as a special Superior court commissioner, faced removal in an ambulance today to either the county jail or the Bridewell hospital.

Announcement that he would be taken out of St. Luke's hospital, where he was found in a coma last Friday, was made by Anton Cichowicz, chief deputy bailiff, after two new complaints had been filed against him with Judge John J. Lupe. They added $3,114 to the previously charged shortage of $2,465.

Four separate court orders have now been issued against Frank. He is 45 years old and maintains offices at 33 North La Salle street. Last week Judge Donald S. McKinlay issued an order of commitment to the county jail, with the direction that Frank be held there until such time as he pays up $2,465 in rent and proceeds from the foreclosure sale of an apartment building. In ignorance of this action, Judge Lupe last Friday issued a writ of attachment for Frank.

On Monday Judge Lupe issued a ruling directing that Frank show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court. Yesterday he issued another contempt citation.

Frank was taken to St. Luke's hospital from the Roosevelt hotel, 1152 South Wabash avenue, where he registered last week despite the fact that his home is at 5200 Sheridan road.

There Are Two Ways to Get at Constipation

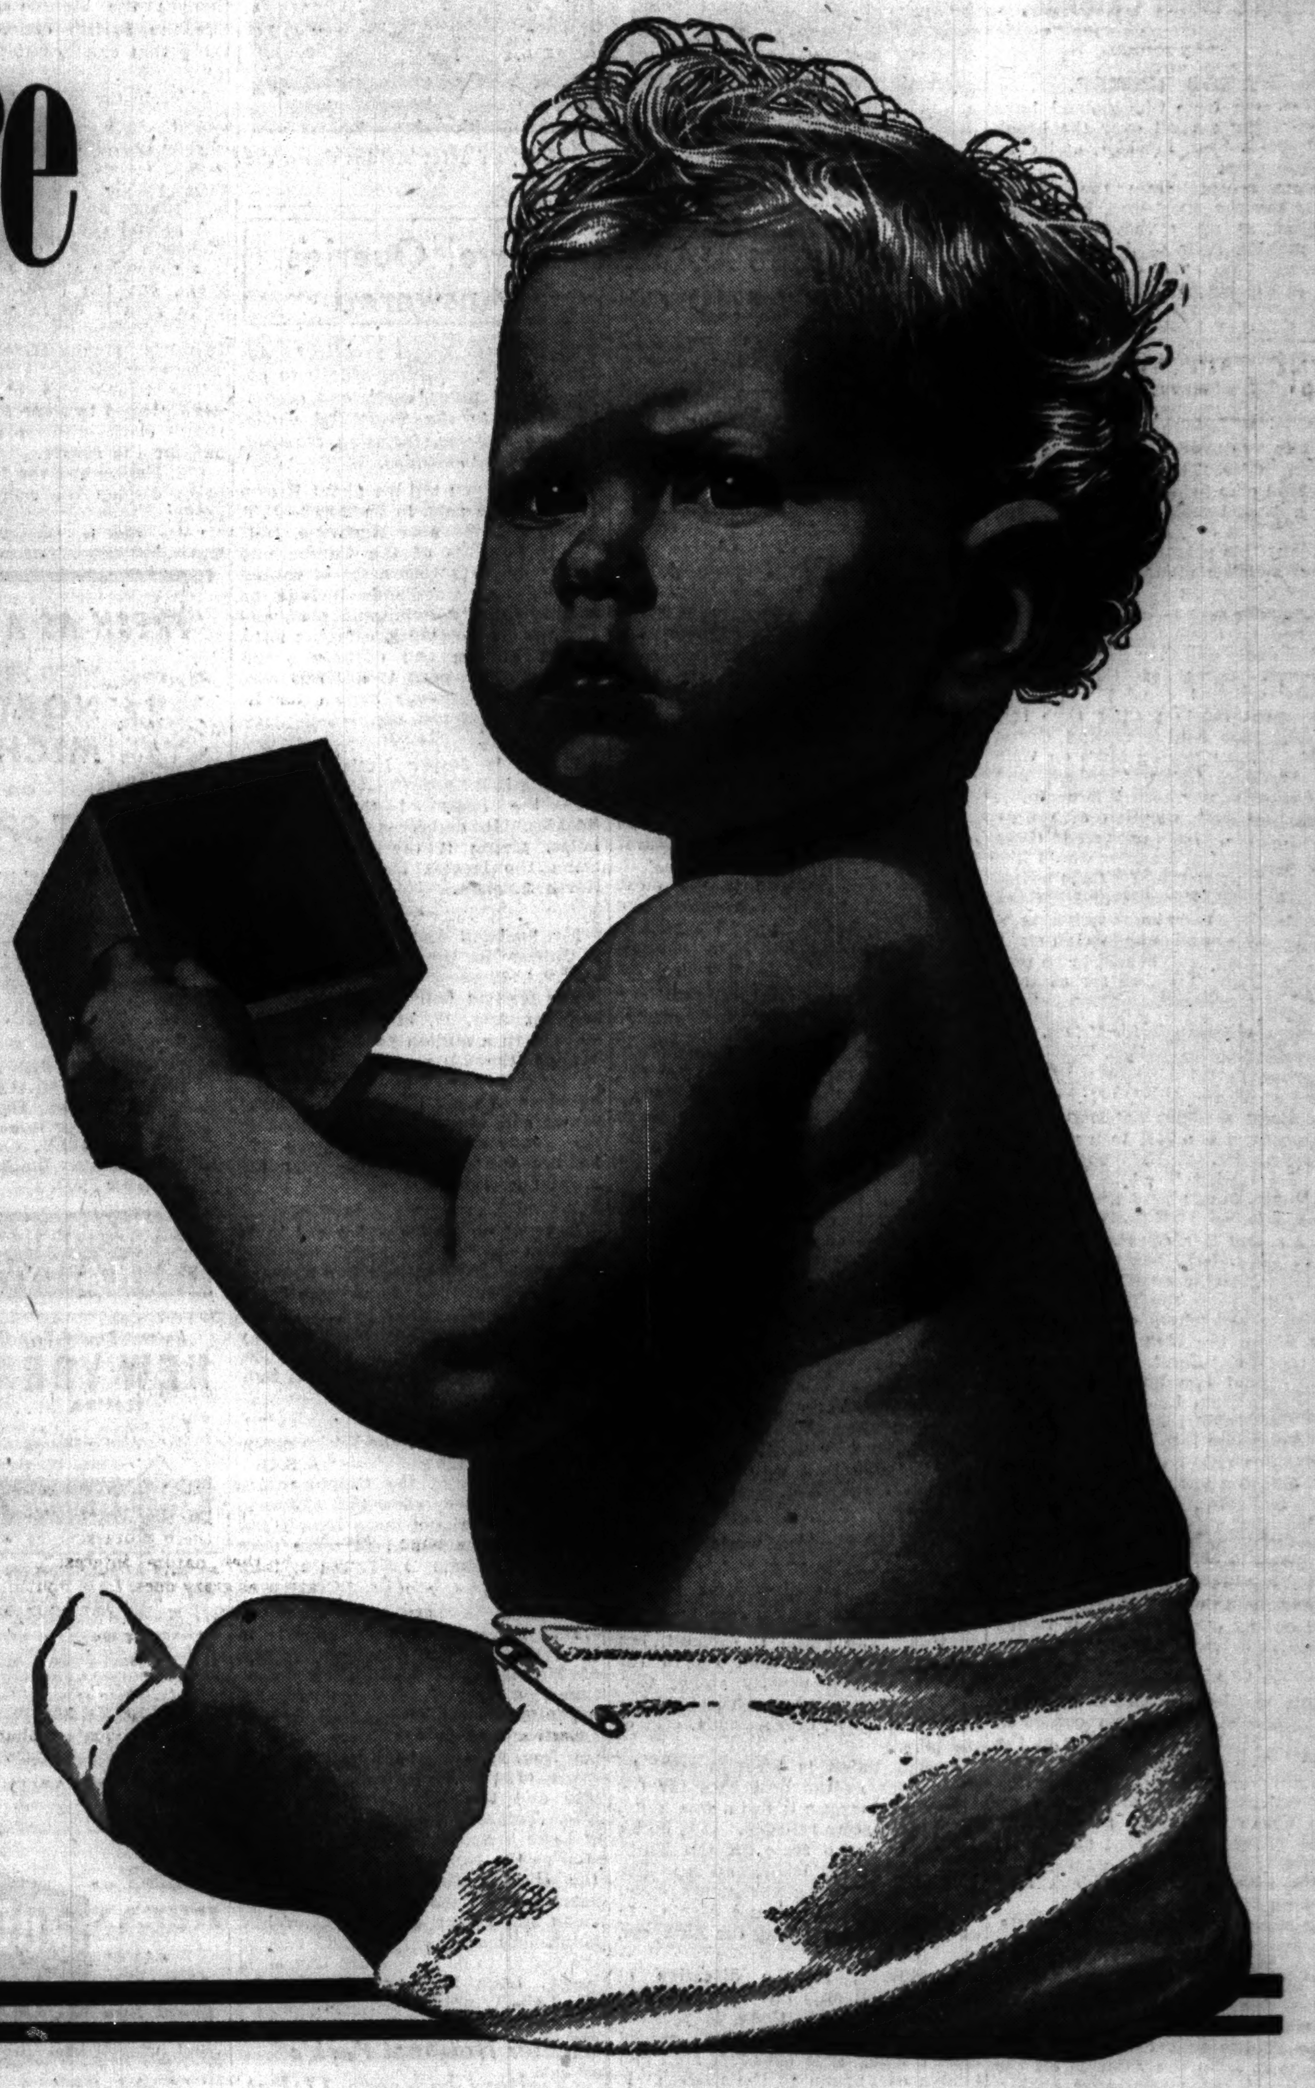
Yes, and only two ways—before and after it happens! Instead of enduring those dull, tired, headachy days and then having to take an emergency cathartic—why not KEEP regular with Kellogg's All-Bran? You can, if your constipation is the kind millions have—due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. For All-Bran goes right to the cause of this trouble by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this toasted, nutritious cereal regularly—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if your life isn't a whole lot brighter! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

★ TODAY IS POST DAY

Americans are born curious

(THANK HEAVEN!)



A CLOSED DOOR is as irresistible to an adult American as a closed box is to a baby.

Americans just have to see what's inside. They hate secret sessions. Mystery. Diplomacy in whispers.

And it's a good thing.

The more they dig into the dark corners, turning the flood of their curiosity on political figures, crimes, injustices, heroes and villains alike—the better for America.

For when their curiosity is satisfied, somehow the soft spots have disappeared. America is tougher, and stronger.

Find the men and women thirsty to know the facts, neat, and you'll find the Americans who are helping to push the country ahead.

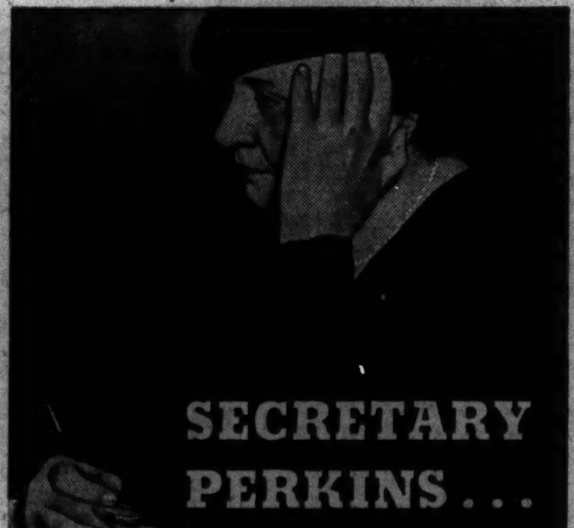
Take the issue out today, for example—

You find what kind of person America's Secretary of Labor really is. And—by way of contrast—you see how a Nazi labor chief operates. You meet Major Angas, the fellow who has his rival stock-market prophets hot and bothered. You find out how a bunch of truckers in Oklahoma turned a depression-beaten business into a paying proposition. And you learn, from a former Under Secretary of State, the dangers threatening our Monroe Doctrine.

Each week the Post satisfies the curiosity of millions of Americans who like their stories whole, deliberate, not fragmentary. Perhaps that's one reason why more people read the Post now than at any other time in the magazine's history.

IN THE POST ★ OUT TODAY



...a study in bewilderment

Chicagoland Fishermen Report Good Catches.

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishermen from Chicagoland have been casting a spell over the brook trout, black bass, muskies, and even Atlantic tuna.

Latest reports from the various fronts say the sportsmen have been invading so many vacation regions and making such good catches that apparently no species, from sailfish around Florida to brook trout in little known Ontario lakes, seems safe from a barbed hook these days.

Schommers Get Full Cargo.

John J. Schommer, football official, and Mrs. Schommer returned from northern Wisconsin lakes the other day with a full cargo of wall-eyed pike packed in ice. They report the best wall-eyed pike fishing that many Wisconsin lakes have seen in years. The wall-eyes not only have been hitting well, but this year seems to be turning up a large number of big specimens.

Schommer says he and Mrs. Schommer had no trouble in getting limit catches every day they went after the wall-eyes. Some of their better catches weighed around 4 pounds. They spent most of their time [except for bass fishing around Grand Rapids, Minn.] tossing lures on Wild Cat, Boulder, Clear, Crooked, and Wolf lakes in northern Wisconsin.

The Lost lake vacation area near Sayner, Wis., has produced three black bass that any angler would like to have on his string. Ed Gabe writes that Walter F. Hammel of Highland Park landed two bass weighing 4 pounds each and one weighing 5 pounds. This string is said to be tops for the Sayner area, as far as total weight is concerned.

Several Compete for Prizes.

Several Chicagoans are competing for prizes in the contest being conducted at Eagle River, Wis. One of the longest muskies entered in this year's contest is a 54½ inch specimen caught by Dr. A. H. Wood of this city. He landed it while fishing at Lac Vieux Desert lake near Land o' Lakes, Wis.

To Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Dickenson of Gary, Ind., has fallen one of the unforgettable thrills of the season. They were the first to cast a lure on a new chain of brook trout lakes above the town of Thessalon, east of the "Soo," Ontario. This group [about two hours by portage and paddle from Lake Jobam, which is on the gravel road running north from Thessalon into the valley of the Mississauga river] was discovered by C. R. Hodge a few weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickenson camped on one of the lakes for three days. When they packed out from their wilderness camp they had one brook trout weighing 6 pounds, and one of 4 pounds, and their limit catches were filled out by other trout that tipped the scales between 2½ and 3 pounds.

Nabs 25 Lb. Northern Pike.

Some excellent catches of bass and northern pike have been recorded in northern Minnesota and Lake of the Woods. Dave Cunningham of Chicago apparently has a prize winning great northern in a 25 pound specimen which he caught in the Lake of the Woods. It is being entered in national contests. Cunningham also landed a small mouthed black bass weighing 5½ pounds.

But not all the Chicagoland sportsmen are worrying the fresh water fish in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Canada. Some are keeping their tackle busy on the east coast and around Miami.

One of the best catches of tuna brought in from the Atlantic off the New Jersey shore was made by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Simmons. They landed 24 tuna in one day. Their salt water catch also included two broadbill swordfish. Mrs. Simmons is the former Dorothy Marshall, daughter of Benjamin H. Marshall of Chicago.

Two Points Are Added to Lake Cruise Itinerary

Sault Ste. Marie and Harbor Springs, Mich., have been added to the itinerary of the Georgian Bay Line's seven day cruises out of Chicago.

Alpinists Delight in Its Lofty Peaks.

BY NORMAN INGREY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile [By Mail].—Chile has two special lines of travel and vacation appeal—its volcanoes and and spring water resorts. It is doing well with its mountain scenery as a result of the increased inter-American security tourist traffic.

This country has by far the largest South American share of the high summits of the Andean Cordillera. Many of these are crowned with the tall and well shaped figures of volcanoes, whose eternal snows add a magnificent note to the panoramas that adorn the southern agricultural belt of the republic.

The Osorno volcano is the most symmetrical and best known. The writer, who has lived and traveled in the far east, considers it more beautiful in itself and its surroundings than Fujiyama. This opinion is shared by others who can make the comparison.

Perfect Pyramid in Shape.

Osorno is called Codhueco by the old natives. It has a perfect pyramidal figure, except for a slight prominence on the southern slope. It is generally covered with snow from half its height of 8,000 feet. The foundations are submerged in the waters of Lakes Todos los Santos and Llanquihue, roughly 1,000 miles south of Santiago. It is not active at present.

Another of the volcanoes that make up a snow crowned amphitheater encompassing Lake Todos los Santos is Calbuco, with a wide, arid, and completely bare crater. It is covered with snow as far as the edge of the crater at 5,000 feet, but one of the peaks is 200 feet higher. Its slopes are dotted with woods thru which wide streams glide before falling into a river south of Lake Llanquihue.

Near Tourist Junction.

Calbuco provides alpinists with opportunities of practising their sport. It is situated only a few miles from Puerto Varas, the tourist junction for the lake route between Chile and Argentina. The climb is difficult, but it can be accomplished up to the crater. Guides, usually young German-Chileans, can be contracted either at Puerto Varas or Ensenada, east of the lake.

Puerto Varas is recommended by the writer as the best base for the excursion, because it has a fine hotel, run by the state railroad. It is on an unusually grand scale for the South American tourist trade, and is indicative of the way governments down here are waking up and cashing in on their scenery during the European war.

Northward, in the direction of Santiago and only one night's travel from the capital, there is another shapely volcano, Villarrica, named after a lake. It is 7,500 feet high and known as Pucanu to the natives. It has been active in the last decade.

Make Landscape Majestic.

Farther in the interior, in this same region, rises the Lanin volcano, 11,200 feet, of perfect symmetry, because Herr von Ecket, a former German minister in Chile and a great alpinist, met his death on its slopes.

There are many other volcanoes—among them Llaima, Tornador, Puntiagudo, Techado, Tolhuaca, Lonquimay, and Corcovado. Llaima was the principal gun in that Andean battery which eight years ago sent its ashes all over the continent.

Travel Queries Answered

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What can you tell me about Brown County State park in Indiana?—F. T.

It is situated near Nashville, Ind., in the foothills of the Cumberland mountains. Its 3,800 acres of rolling country and woodlands include an amphitheater, a swimming pool, and many lodges, cottages, camping sites, shelter houses, and outdoor ovens. Adjoining the park is a 11,000 acre state game preserve known for its lakes and streams.

In the heart of the Canadian Rockies. It embraces 4,200 square miles, giving it the distinction of being the largest national park in North America.

My husband and I wish to come to Chicago for the Chicagoland Music Festival. Please give details.—W. R. T.

The festival will be held Saturday evening, Aug. 17, at Soldiers' field. More than a million persons have attended the 10 previous spectacles. It is expected that 8,000 persons, gathered from all over the United States and Canada, will take part in this year's show. The program will be broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Four of us are planning a trip to Mexico. One of the places we hope to visit is Xochimilco, with its floating gardens. How do we get there from Mexico City? D. V.

Xochimilco is only a short ride, by auto or bus, from the capital. The best time to see the gardens is Sunday morning.

The records of the United States Geological survey show that Colorado has 49 peaks rising more than 14,000 feet above sea level, 624 more than 12,000 feet, and 1,051 more than 10,000 feet.

I have been told that there is to be a cruise from Winnipeg, capital of Manitoba, to Hudson bay some time this summer. Have you any information on the subject?—E. H. M.

Such an excursion will leave Winnipeg Aug. 9. It will follow the water trails of the Danish expedition of 1619 and the English explorers of 1670. Traversing the 300 mile length of Lake Winnipeg, the steamer is to stop at the Norway house, known as the Hudson Bay trading post 200 years ago. From there the route is down the Hayes river to Churchill, Manitoba's northern seaport. Among the places to be visited are Laurentia beach, Lake Killarney, Shoal lake, and Lake Winnipegosis.

Glacier National Park's Visitors Increase 11 Pct.

Belton, Mont., July 23 [Special].—Visitors to Glacier National park up to July 15 of this year totaled 73,839—a gain of 11 per cent over a like period of 1939, and more than 30 per cent over either 1938 or 1937.

LEARN MONROE DOCTRINE IS A REAL DOCUMENT

Washington, July 23 (AP).—An amazed man who guides tourists thru the capitol has added a new attraction to his repertoire—the Monroe Doctrine.

The other day he found the historic document on public display just off the hall where he passes a dozen times a day marshaling sightseers past the senate chamber.

"I'm amazed!" he exclaimed. "I thought the Monroe Doctrine was like the British constitution—something that exists, but you can't find it."

Aides in the office of Col. Edwin A. Halsey said most capitol visitors seemed to share this disbelief. Almost nobody comes in to look at the message which laid down America's hemisphere policy.

A second copy of President James Monroe's famous edict is exhibited in a showcase at the Library of Congress, but the thousands who visit there pass it up in search of three other documents—the constitution, Britain's Magna Charta, and the Gutenberg Bible.

The two copies of the message were penned by some forgotten White House clerk—one for the house and one for the senate.

Col. Halsey and the Library of Congress display the same page, which reads:

"We owe it, therefore, to candor and to amicable relations existing between the United States and those [European] powers to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety."

KINGS OF THE CRAGS TO RISE ANEW IF TEN GOATS DO THEIR PART

Helena, Mont., July 23 [Special].—Ten mountain goats are to be turned loose in the Crazy mountains of Montana this summer. The plan is to start a new herd in that lofty wilderness.

If the plan succeeds, it will restore "the kings of the crags" to a region where they roamed in large numbers half a century ago.

It is proposed to catch the animals in the Flathead National forest, in northwestern Montana, and to take them by airplane to their new home.

Barney Brannin, a dude rancher in the Crazy mountains, has been elected to do the capturing.

2 INTERCOASTAL CRUISES TO BOTH FAIRS PLANNED

San Francisco, Cal., July 23 [Special].—Two intercoastal cruises, combining visits to the New York and San Francisco Fairs with stops at Havana, Cuba; Cristobal and Balboa in the Canal Zone, and Los Angeles, were announced today by the American President Lines.

Each cruise will last 30 days. Departures from New York are to be made on the President Polk Aug. 9 and on the President Garfield Aug. 27.

Quebec Tourist Business Decreases Only Slightly

QUEBEC, July 23 [Special].—Tourist business in the province of Quebec in the first six months of 1940 showed only a slight decrease from the figures for the first half of 1939, despite the fact that the dominion is now at war. Nearly 69,000 autos have entered the province since the beginning of the year, compared with the 70,000 registered in the corresponding period of last year.

ILLINOIS.

Have You Seen BOB UPTON'S CAVE?
High in the cliff on the Illinois bank of the Mississippi River is the cave where, in 1830, Bob Upton hid for three days to escape the Indians who had wiped out the settlement in which he lived. Today stone steps lead up to it and visitors to Mississippi Palisades State Park consider it one of the most intriguing spots in the park.

The Golden Hours

The clock swings 'round to the afternoon,

and the golden leisure hours begin in hundreds of thousands of Philadelphia homes

. . . a golden opportunity for the advertiser.

For The Evening Bulletin is in most Philadelphia homes, right at hand—being read—when there's more time to read.

Start with the afternoon. The Bulletin is delivered just about the time housewives put aside, for a while, the duties of home-making. It's their regular recess, when they can read The Bulletin leisurely, carefully.

A little later the younger members of the family will be up to their ears in this same newspaper . . . During the evening, the head of the household pores over its pages with an interest that comes from long acquaintance and thorough confidence.

These are the "Golden Hours" of reading leisure, enjoyed nearly everywhere in Philadelphia — the City of Homes.

That's why, when Philadelphians get together in the evening, much that they talk about comes from The Bulletin. News, features—current offerings, newest products.

But more than the lively interest so many of these people have in everything this newspaper prints—it is their solid confidence in The Bulletin that makes this newspaper so fortunate a choice as an advertising medium.

Readers Spend Over 43% More Time on The Bulletin

In a recent impartial survey by Publication Research Service of Chicago, when Philadelphians answered the question, "How much time did you spend reading these Philadelphia newspapers yesterday," the results were:

	Men Average Reading Time	Women Average Reading Time
Evening Bulletin readers	54.5 min.	52.8 min.
Newspaper No. 2 readers	37.9	33.7
Newspaper No. 3 readers	28.7	36.9
Newspaper No. 4 readers	35.0	32.4

Women spend at least 43.1% more time reading The Bulletin than any other Philadelphia newspaper.

Men spend at least 43.8% more time reading The Bulletin than any other Philadelphia newspaper.

Your advertising in The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin will reach this great home market during the "Golden Hours"—to be received with interest, read with belief and acted upon with confidence.

That the interest of Bulletin readers is genuine, their confidence real, is shown by The Evening Bulletin's leadership in daily circulation for thirty-five consecutive years. Leadership attained without the use of subscriber premiums or any other artificial subscriber inducement.

Your advertising agency or an Evening Bulletin representative will tell you the interesting facts about Philadelphia and The Evening Bulletin.

Ask about its long leadership in daily circulation entirely on merit . . . its concentration of circulation within the retail trading area (95% ABC) . . . its exceptionally low advertising cost per reader.

In Philadelphia - City of Homes - nearly everybody reads The Evening Bulletin

STRANGE BERWYN EMBEZZLE TRIAL IS PROBED BY BAR

Conduct of Case Under Secret Scrutiny.

The curious conduct and conclusion of the embezzlement trial of Matthew Berg and Ernest W. Mau, former city treasurers of Berwyn, who were acquitted by a directed verdict in Criminal court last Feb. 14, are under investigation by the Chicago Bar association, it was disclosed yesterday.

The grievance committee of the association, in hearings extending over several weeks, already has heard testimony from the trial judge, William J. Lindsay; the prosecutors, Assistant State's Attorneys Robert Wright and C. Vernon Thompson, and Attorney James M. Burke, who defended Mau.

State Witnesses Quizzed.

Attorney Harry H. Hitzeman, 6030 North Oakley avenue, and his wife, Rosalyn Nye Hitzeman, Mau's former secretary, also have testified, Hitzeman admitted. The investigation is expected to be completed when the committee hears Berg's lawyer, Joseph Harrington, who is now in Arizona.

Hitzeman and his wife were the state's star witnesses against Mau, who at the time of the trial was treasurer of Berwyn, and Berg, who was Mau's predecessor. Mau and Berg were accused of embezzling $3,726 from the Berwyn special assessment fund.

The trial came to an unprecedented conclusion when Judge Lindsay, asserting that their testimony was "obstructive," ordered contempt proceedings against Mrs. Hitzeman and her husband and disbarment proceedings against Attorney Hitzeman.

Case Abandoned by State.

This demand was voiced out of the presence of the jury, but before final arguments had been made. Prosecutors Wright and Thompson thereupon staged what the judge called a "sitdown strike" and abandoned the prosecution.

After a prolonged quarrel between Judge Lindsay and the prosecutors, the court instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty. Assistant Public Defender Frank Ferlic, who was summoned to court and ordered by the judge to draw up the contempt and disbarment proceedings within five days, has failed to do so to date, five months later.

Spokesmen for the bar association refused to disclose who are the objects of the present investigation. Elbridge B. Pierce, chairman of the grievance committee, explained that nothing can be mentioned publicly in a case of this nature until an information is filed with the Illinois Supreme court.

ELMER MAYTAG SERVICES TODAY IN SIX CHURCHES

Newton, Ia., July 23 (AP).—Funeral services for Elmer H. Maytag, 56 years old, will be held tomorrow in the First Methodist church and will be heard in five other churches thru public address systems. Mr. Maytag, president of the Maytag Washing Machine company, died Saturday.

Virtually all business activity in the community will cease during the funeral. The public address system will enable more persons to hear the services than would be possible if it were confined to a single church.

OBITUARIES

Bertha Muzzy Bower.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 23 (AP).—Bertha Muzzy Bower, 68 years old, who, as B. M. Bower, wrote "Chip of the Flying U" and half a hundred other western novels, died today. As the young mother of three children, she began writing western fiction in 1904. Two years later "Chip" was published, to be followed by a flood of novels that met instant popularity. Surviving are a son, Harold Clayton Bower, and two daughters, Dele Frances Newman and Grace Wingarten. Funeral will be Friday.

Dr. W. O. Dicus.

The body of Dr. W. O. Dicus, retired Oak Park dentist, was sent to Chicago last night from Fond du Lac, Wis. He died of a heart attack late Monday while swimming in Lake Deneveau near there. Services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 720 Lake street, Oak Park. Surviving are his widow, Emma S., a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Melin; a son, Henry, and three brothers, Dr. G. A. Dicus of Streator, and A. G. and J. B. Dicus of Oak Park.

Emmett Lawrence Snyder.

Emmett Lawrence Snyder, former Chicago lawyer, died yesterday in the home of his brother, Dr. J. S. Snyder, in Kansas City, Mo., where he had been living for the last nine months. He was 69 years old. In addition to his brother he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Inez Shanklin of Sandoval and Mrs. Margaret Seibel of Centralia, both in Marion county. Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Kansas City.

C. S. Battle.

Services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in a chapel at 332 Downer place, Aurora, for C. S. Battle, 84 years old, a pioneer resident who died yesterday. Mr. Battle retired 20 years ago as head of a brokerage concern which he joined after many years of railroading. He is author of a history of Aurora and of the Burlington railroad. His widow, Estella, survives. Burial will be in Spring Hill cemetery.

Leopold Schwing.

Leopold Schwing, concert violinist and head of the department of instrumental music at Frances Shimer college, Mount Carroll, died here yesterday at St. Luke's hospital after a long illness. He was 41 years old. Before going to Frances Shimer college in 1933 Mr. Schwing studied in Paris and Berlin.

Ravinia Gives Barbirolli Its Warm Acclaim

Overture to "La Gazza Ladra" ["The Thievish Magpie"]..Rossini
Symphony No. 2, D major.......Sibelius
Symphony No. 5, B-flat major..Schubert
Overture to "Tannhäuser"........Wagner

BY CECIL SMITH.

To a welcome that was both literally and figuratively a warm one John Barbirolli, conductor of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra, last evening made his debut as guest conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Ravinia. From the beginning of the concert he established an effective contact with his new audience. At the end of Rossini's overture to "The Thievish Magpie" he was roundly applauded, and he was even awarded a few whistles at the end of the second symphony of Sibelius.

In his first Ravinia appearance Mr. Barbirolli seemed an uneven conductor. At his best he projects a musical insight of considerable scope and a gift for seeing structures in the large. At other times, however, this insight evidently deserts him, and his musical style becomes, for the time, loose and disorganized.

The Sibelius symphony was, therefore, a curious bundle of contradictions. The opening movement was splendid, both in plan and in execution. From the repeated chords at the beginning to their last return at the end, the whole movement was revealed in a single impressive span, with details well related to a controlling feeling for direction, and with admirable tonal balance in the orchestra.

But the middle of the slow movement began to become chaotic, partly because the conductor no longer seemed to control the tonal balance properly, and partly because the whole movement was less understandingly unified, the first part of the scherzo did not mean much, and the expressive trio tried to mean too much.

It was the finale, however, which was most completely contradictory. Just when he had settled into an effective tempo Mr. Barbirolli was likely to change to one less effective.

The fifth symphony of Franz Schubert, seldom heard in Chicago, is an exceptionally lovely work, quite Mozartean much of the time, but tinged with personal touches of harmonic color. Mr. Barbirolli presented the first movement with apt tempi and attractive nuance, and then proceeded to undo his good work by choosing for the second movement a slow pace that amounted to sheer affectation.

After his first concert Mr. Barbirolli still remains a problem, and it will be impossible to assess the full extent of his ability until we have heard a much wider range of music than a single program can contain.

Shawl for a Summer Night

One of the most alluring fashions launched this spring is the romantic shoulder shawl. Here is one for a summer night. It's made of clinging silk jersey in a clear saffron shade appliqued with flowers and leaves in vermillion. The deep gather-ruffle is the same yellow as the shawl.

New Shoulder Shawls Taking Town by Storm

BY REA SEEGER.

Hardly a pair of shoulders that are not draped with summer shawls, the rage of the season. Lovely silk affairs dripping with deep silk fringe come in snow white, grass green, crimson, azure blue, all solid colors with which to accent filmy summer evening gowns. Flowered silks are also effective to dramatize all navy, brown, dull green or dull black gowns. It's the way you swirl these provocative shoulder shawls that causes the furor. Tied or twisted, double knotted, or just swung low over the elbow they are devastating trifles.

Slinky affairs of silk jersey have a decided Spanish dash, especially the yellow numbers with applique patterns of vermilion. These are a bit larger than the silk shawls with silk fringes and differ in another way, too, in the deep ruffle around the two edges. Coquettish shawls of black with white silk fringe have a romantic touch to coppertops as well as blondes. New arrivals are going fast!

If you like the flattery of feathers see the brand new spellbinders . . . the cool looking shoulder accents made of thin silk crêpe hung with deep fringe of ostrich fronds. There's an emerald green beauty with speckled ostrich flues, a black and white effect that adds much snap to the finished triangle. It also comes in red with the same feather trim. This shawl flattery will get your last penny eventually.

It's a Sailor's Life This Week at Lake Geneva

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALL of Lake Geneva's feminine sailors who have brothers or husbands who are sailing enthusiasts will keep a sharp eye on their sailing accessories this coming week-end. Sunday afternoon will bring the annual Ladies' C boat race for the William J. Bruce trophy, 'n which all yachts must be skippered and crewed by members of the fair sex. This is generally a hilarious event as a number of young men invariably tog themselves out in elaborate female finery and try to pass themselves off as girls to enter the race.

Barbara Wakeley, the Arthur W. Wakeley's subdeb daughter, won the race last year. Other young skippers who will take part in the race next Sunday are Subdeb Gail Gartz and her sister, Mrs. Jack Vilas Jr.; Miss Sara Peace, Miss Jane Zimmerman, Subdeb Margaret Carry Nicholson, and Priscilla and Jean White, the Sanford B. Whites' daughters.

Tennis Tournament Gets Started on Saturday.

The annual invitation tennis tournament will get under way Saturday at the Lake Geneva Country club, and will last thru next week. After the usual round robin doubles' tournament on Thursday there will be an outdoor barbecue party at the club.

The annual Pottawatomie powwow at the Big Foot Country club will start on Friday. From the seven sacred springs where more than a century ago, tradition has it, Chief Big Foot and his braves executed their war dances and religious rites, President Arthur R. Colwell and golfing members will don feathered headdresses and with bags of clubs instead of bows and arrows will go forth to the chase, seeking the wild and elusive golf ball in its native lair.

Wigwams have sprung up all over the club grounds. War painted caddies will add color to the scene, as will Caddie Master Louis Sullivan, who will ride the course on an Indian pony in full chieftain regalia. War whoops will be permitted the gallery for holes made in par or better. Further redskin motifs and decorations will highlight a dinner-dance at the club on Saturday night.

Peter Dewey Back Home After Ambulance Service.

Those of Peter Dewey's friends still in town who had been at a farewell party for him last November welcomed him home yesterday at a tea and cocktail party his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, got up hastily after he arrived Monday evening. Mr. Dewey, who plans to take up the study of law at the University of Virginia this fall, arrived in New York last Friday by Clipper ship from Lisbon. He spent the week-end with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., in Far Hills, N. J.

Lake Shore Club Dance.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, July 22.—It's pretty hard to steal a picture from Flora Robson, let alone Errol Flynn, but a monkey darn near does it in "The Sea Hawk." He's so good he is already working on another picture at the Hal Roach studio.

It's just a case of the monk getting kicked upstairs by New York's Mayor LaGuardia. Remember when the mayor banned organ grinders and their monkeys? Well, this ruined Tony Campanero, a Hamilton avenue, Brooklyn, street musician, leaving him with no job and a monkey to support. When a friend in San Diego invited him to come out for a visit Tony came.

Mike Curtiz issued a call for monkeys in "The Sea Hawk" and, as the message spread from treetop to treetop, Tony heard about it and took his pet. With his slick big city ways the monk won hands down over all the native applicants, landing what is practically the only comedy rôle in the picture.

Darryl Zanuck has been keeping his executives up until 3 a. m. cutting and uncutting "Brigham Young" . . . You couldn't keep me awake until 3 in this town with a polo mallet. . . . More new material coming for the Hollywood playhouse long-run hit, "Meet the People." It's a smart revue, as everybody knows by now. Better, I thought, than "Pins and Needles," and it's good to see Henry Myers writing sound stuff again. Highlights are the Myers-Jay Gorney number, "Let's Steal a Tune from Offenbach," and Milt Cross, wonderful monologue, "How Movies Are Made."

It's hard to decide what Jane Withers has more of—energy or good humor. Now 14, the lady is a veteran of twenty pictures, is making one now called "Youth Will Be Served." Scene is a girls' camp, and in it there is some backstage stuff when the youngsters put on the camp show. The backstage sequences will reveal a recent Hollywood discovery—a young colored tenor named Charles Holland. Picture people heard him on a recent all-colored Red Cross broadcast and immediately slapped him into the movies. He'll do a fish vender's song, then Jane will swing it.

No less interesting than Miss Withers is her mother, who is on hand at the studio every moment her child is working—and who lives in terror of being regarded as a movie mother. She stays in the background, doesn't go near the camera, doesn't tell Jane what to do. Jane is on her own and has to speak for herself; in fact, her mother doesn't want her to take any outside lessons in singing or acting, for fear these may spoil natural gifts.

Jane makes four pictures a year, would rather do eight because movie business is fun. She does all right in the studio school, too, being a year ahead of the average public school youngster. She has one unhappy day a year—the day she has to go to the board of education and take an exam.

Young Miss Withers' enthusiasms are numerous and high powered. She's a little hurt because her parents decided she was too big a girl now to live in a tree, and took down her tree-house. She has a collection of 1,600 dolls, but she would rather leap from limb to limb. She's daffy about cooking, runs up a mean set of cakes and cookies. Likes swimming, recently wore out her father making him throw her into the pool at home. This was because there is a scene in her picture in which she is tossed into a pool, and she found out it was fun.

A particular pleasure to Jane—and to the neighborhood—is her completely equipped soda fountain. She invents numbers, including a coa-cola ice cream soda, and will make any combination that's ordered. I asked her if she'd poisoned anybody yet and she said, "Not yet. The kids seem to like it—and gosh, they don't just have one. They have two or three sodas and then a couple of cokes."

Charles MacArthur and Nunnally Johnson have completed their comedy for Gilbert Miller and are doing a bit of casting out here. The play, says MacArthur, is about a gentle and blameless man and is in defense of drinking and helling around. . . . They're telling of the autograph hound who thought he recognized a woman as a movie star and asked for a signature. The woman, a nonpro, pranksomely signed the book "Rin Tin Tin." "Aw," said the fiend, "you can't be. She's been dead for 10 years."

Ice Fund Gets Donations, but Need Is Great

Contributions amounting to $34 were received yesterday at the office of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., for the free ice fund. The donors were:

Ivan and Margot Strauss	$10.00
William and Mildred Lawson	5.00
Mrs. Abraham W. Meyer	5.00
Gertrude Clyde Stewart	5.00
Anonymous	2.00
Margaret Birney	2.00
A. S.	2.00
Clara C. Tampsett	1.00
Harriett S. Gray	1.00
Anonymous	1.00

The ice fund for the poor is administered by the United Charities. Joel Hunter, general superintendent of the agency, yesterday made this statement:

"Our workers report that in most of the homes they visit the children are lying about listlessly in rooms with windows tightly closed and with shades drawn—almost stupefied by the hot, stale air. There is intense suffering, particularly among families living near the loop and in the stockyards and steel mill districts."

The United Charities yesterday sent a party of 100 mothers and children for a two week vacation to Camp Algonquin on the Fox river. Mrs. Clarence E. Carlson yesterday sent $10 to THE TRIBUNE for the Camp Algonquin fund.

August Bride

[Stefany Studio.]

Miss Kathryn May Schneibel will become the bride of Lieut. Joseph Charles Kunel, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kunel of Cicero, on Aug. 3. The ceremony will take place in the Grace Episcopal church in Oak Park. Miss Schneibel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Schneibel of 2319 South Clinton avenue.

This Is Final Day to Win Bid to Sally's Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Tomorrow's the deadline, boys and girls!

If all you boys and girls who want to come to our baseball party don't mail your letters today you're going to be out of luck. I know that you baseball fans won't want to miss this chance to see the Chicago White Sox play the Philadelphia Athletics on Aug. 1.

Bright and early tomorrow morning I'm going to read all the requests that have been pouring in and decide on 50 boys and 50 girls who will be my guests. If you think you'd like to see this game and can write a good letter telling me all about it, maybe you'll see your name in the lists of winners which will be printed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE. It won't be included in the lucky 50s, however, if you don't write it all by yourself.

Those are the only rules we have and if you're an enthusiastic Sox fan it shouldn't be hard for you to convince me that you just must have an invitation.

Of course, even if you write the best letter in the world and remember to include the information I request—that letter must be on my desk tomorrow morning or it can't possibly be a winner. If you want to be sure that your request for an invitation will be in the running, better not waste a minute in mailing it to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

July 24, 1940.

Universal Day—Keep your temper—especially at home. Emotions are likely to be very near the surface.

Month Ahead—If this is your birthday, or you are in a 9-year, August might turn out to be the most active month of the year for you. If you are planning a vacation, connect it up with contacts that will prove advantageous in your business or help you in your particular job. Don't just make your vacation a pleasure jaunt or a retreat from work because your numbers suggest that you stay on the job 24 hours of the day. It would be better to stay with whatever you are doing than to leave it flat this month.

Year Ahead—This will be proving a difficult year for some of you who have birthdays on this day. Events bringing the breaking up of old conditions may come thick and fast from now until the end of the year.

Would you like to know what kind of a year 1940 will be for you? Send for your personal yearly, monthly, and daily guide.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

This is the weather for foot troubles, as you undoubtedly know from your own experience. Just watch the faces of the women on the street and then take a quick look at their feet. The frowning face and the gingerly process of putting the feet down are dead giveaways of the discomfort most of them suffer.

It's the heat, mostly, that's responsible for this. But badly fitting shoes play a part.

For the swelling and burning there are some very smart tricks of alleviation. When they're acting up try bathing them in warm water, using a granulated soap which is the pride and joy of one of the foot specialists. It makes an elegant lather. In the course of the 10 minute foot bath sprinkle some of the soap directly on the wet feet, giving them a rousing massage. Then rinse alternately in warm and cold water.

The same foot specialist has a cooling, soothing balm that should be used after the foot bath. This is applied with massage, too. It takes the burning sting right out and leaves the skin soft and cool.

In the morning, before you slip on your hose [which should be exquisitely clean, by the way], dust the footsies with an antiseptic powder that helps keep perspiration—the root of most hot weather foot troubles—under control and neutralizes the odor. Sprinkle some into the hose and shoes, too.

Bishop Moore Named Head of Methodist Board of Missions

Bishop Arthur J. Moore of the Atlanta area yesterday was elected head of the newly formed board of missions and church extension of the Methodist church at the jurisdictional delegates' meeting in the Hotel La Salle. Bishop Charles G. Selecman of Oklahoma City, Okla., presided.

Bishop Moore, who is 52 years old, was ordained in 1914 and 16 years later appointed bishop of the Pacific coast area. Since 1934 as bishop of Europe, the orient, and the Belgian Congo he has been in charge of the foreign missionary work of the former Methodist Episcopal Church South.

The board of missions as organized yesterday combines the activities of nine different boards and societies which existed in the three branches of Methodism prior to the uniting conference held last year in Kansas City, Mo.

Consular Corps Members Guests at Movie Party

Eighty members of the consular corps in Chicago, their aides and families were guests of Dr. A. E. Alexandre, executive director of the World Tolerance movement, at a theater party at the Studebaker theater last night. D. W. Griffith's picture, "Intolerance," which was made in 1916 with Miss Lillian Gish as star, was shown. Among those who attended were the consuls general of Luxembourg, Yugoslavia, France, Czecho Slovakia, and Poland, and the consuls of Finland, Turkey, Norway, Ireland, Germany, Sweden, and Portugal.

Post and Paddock Sale to Aid British War Relief

Lake Forest members of the organization known as the Bundles for Britain will sponsor a sale of pins, cigaret cases, and compacts at the Post and Paddock club on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. James Cook is chairman of the group; Mrs. Clifford Rodman, secretary, and Mrs. King Mitchell, treasurer. The committee is composed of Mrs. Dexter Cummings, Mrs. Kimball Salisbury, Mrs. Kent S. Clow, Mrs. Joseph N. Field, Mrs. John Simpson, Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, and Mrs. John P. Kellogg. Proceeds of the sale will be turned over to the British War Relief society for surgical supplies.

The Housewife

There is a definite place on the market for a dry cleaner that can be used on varied types of upholstery, not just on wools or just on brocades. Such a cleaner is one that we came across the other day. It can be applied to damask, silk, brocatelle, velvets, rayons, glazed chintz, cretonnes and printed linens and to fabrics other than upholsteries. It removes dirt, grime, perspiration and hair grease as well as a number of other spots and stains. It will not remove the sizing from a material nor shrink it in the process. Try it on twist weave carpets, too.

EDITH WEIGLE.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

The ability to put one's self in the "place of the other fellow" and thus to visualize the difficulties that must beset him is an indispensable quality of an expert. In today's hand the declarer recognized a defender's problem and did not gallantly solve it for him, as so many players habitually do.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

South's extraordinary opening bid was not really as bad as it appears, when one considers his reason. He was paired with a very weak player and thruout the evening had been making very unorthodox bids. He remembered that North had commented on these bids, and now felt that if he were to open properly with a two heart bid on a 40 score North would be likely to smile wisely and pass, on the theory that he [South] was trying another "phoney." Thus with his powerhouse South determined to give North no option, and indeed he was justified in thinking that if he picked up any honor in hearts, diamonds, or clubs, he would have an excellent play for the contract.

West was faced with a horrible problem on the opening lead. Holding honors in every suit, it was a sheer guess on his part as to which to jeopardize. His choice of a diamond, while unfortunate, cannot be justly criticized. Declarer won the opening lead with the jack, and laid down three top hearts, on the second and third of which East discarded diamonds.

Declarer now had a certain way of throwing West on lead [with the jack of hearts], but before doing so took the precaution of extracting West's exit cards in diamonds. He laid down the ace and king, and then, not even bothering to cash his last diamond, threw West in with a trump. Now West was really up against it; his spade and club holdings were equal, and so were dummy's, and thus it was a sheer guess as to whether he should lead from the spade or club king. Obviously the spade would have been safe, since declarer's ace was blank, but with no way to tell, West made an unfortunate guess and returned a club, thus clinching the contract.

Had declarer failed to take out West's diamonds before throwing him on lead, obviously West would have chosen the safe exit of a diamond.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Fresh peaches are getting better all the time, but the biggest and most voluptuous, the "peachiest" peaches, haven't arrived yet. Smaller ones, especially if slightly on the underripe side, are often better in pies than with cream and sugar.

At any rate, a fresh peach pie now and then is relished by the best of men. [Or something like that.]

Fresh Peach Pie

4 cups sliced fresh peaches
1 cup sugar [less if peaches are fully ripe]
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
Pastry for double crust

Fill pastry lined pie pan with sliced peaches and cover with mixture of sugar, salt, and flour. Dot with butter. Top with gashed upper crust or lattice strips, and bake in a 450 degree oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate, 350 degrees, and bake about 30 minutes longer.

Peach and other fruit pies are especially good in orange crust. Add a teaspoon of grated orange rind to the pastry and use orange juice instead of water in making it.

Peach Alaska pie is wonderfully good, but more elaborate. And it must be served as soon as it is made, for the sake of the ice cream that goes into it.

Peach Alaska Pie

[Baked and cooled pie shell]
3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
½ cup sugar
6 fresh, ripe peaches, sliced
1 pint brick ice cream, frozen hard

Add cream of tartar to egg whites, and beat stiff. Add the ½ cup sugar gradually, beating until it is dissolved. Line pie shell with sliced peaches and sprinkle with sugar. Cover with slices of the stiffly frozen ice cream and cover the entire pie thickly with meringue. Pop into a hot oven, or under a broiler, for not more than 5 minutes, long enough to brown the meringue and serve at once.

Four egg whites may be used instead of the three. No extra sugar need be added. The four whites will make an even thicker meringue to protect the cream in the oven.

PORK TENDERLOIN FILLETS.

Tenderloin fillets are cooked like pork chops, by braising, after first browning. No liquid need be added, but orange sauce gives an unusual flavor to the meat and, with the pork drippings, makes the sweet potatoes which are cooked in the same skillet really delicious.

First brown the pieces of tenderloin on both sides. Add ½ cup orange juice mixed with 1 teaspoon grated orange rind and ¼ cup brown sugar. At the same time add split, peeled, sweet potatoes [Puerto Rican yams preferably] which have been boiled in the skins until about half done. Cover the skillet and cook on top of the stove or in the oven at fairly low heat for 45 minutes, or until meat and potatoes both are tender. More orange juice may be added if the liquid cooks off. A cup altogether is not too much.

BAKED SCALLOPED SQUASH.

If you have four persons to serve buy a scalloped [sometimes called Patty-pan] squash which will quarter into good sized servings. Or buy two small squashes and cut them in half. Remove seeds and boil the quarters or halves in salted water until almost tender to the fork Drain and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Brush with butter and pop into the oven to finish cooking and brown slightly.

Attractive House Dress

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOUSE FROCK.

Designed for both slimsters and mature figures, this attractive house dress suits many types of silhouette outlines. The lines are long and flattering, and there's a party air about this utilitarian frock that will make the wearer feel festive no matter how dull her chores. The sleeves may be long or short on this wrap-around model, and the fabric choice is up to you. All colors, prints, and cottons will make up well. Trimming may be a pretty collar, as shown in the top sketch, or merely rickrack braid or other ready-made edging.

Style No. 3347 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 2 yards of edging for short-sleeved model; 4⅞ yards for long-sleeved version, ⅜ yard of contrasting for collar.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the summer Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Successful Garden Party.

There are more formalities attendant upon a successful garden party than you might think. The hostess at a recent party for a lovely debutante daughter, with an illuminated garden and a dancing platform on the south terrace, planned not only the lighting, the food, the music, the seating, the decorations, and checked on the number of extra men. She also called in the mosquito abatement men and took out weather insurance. The mosquito abatement men arrived at 7 o'clock (the guests were asked for 8 and were expected about 8:30) and busily sprayed the lawns, gardens, and shrubbery. As a result not a single mosquito bite was reported.

Shortly before the first guest arrived a man presented himself at the doo. carrying a large metal instrument. He was from the weather insurance agency, he said, and he took up his position in a wooded portion of the estate, rain gauge in hand, on the alert for pattering rain drops. As it happens, the evening was a gift from heaven, moonlit and balmy. Had it rained two-tenths of an inch the hostess would have received $500. Toward the end of the party she undoubtedly found herself hoping there might be a tenth of an inch of rain.

American ambassador to the Polish government in exile, were with the Polish army as it retreated thru France. The young Americans were driving an ambulance. Mr. Schultz has gone to England with the Polish government, but Mr. Dewey decided to return to Chicago. He had gone abroad in November.

The Dewey's elder daughter, Mrs. Frederick M. Alger Jr., and Mr. Alger are coming from their home in Detroit on Monday to see Peter and to hear at first hand his exciting adventures. The Algers will visit the other Dewey daughter, Louise, and her husband, Edward Byron Smith, in Lake Forest.

Miss JoAnn Williamson to Be Wed Saturday.

The marriage of Miss JoAnn Williamson and James A. Newman Jr. will take place Saturday evening at the home of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Brashears of Winnetka. Miss Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Williamson of Evanston, will be attended by her cousin, Miss Patience Chance of Bryan, Tex., Miss Barbara Leffingwell, and Miss Agnes Quicsenberry.

Philips Newman will serve his brother as best man. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Newman of Boston, Mass., Philip LeRoy of Boston and Loring Farwell will usher.

The marriage of Miss Patricia Caveney and Paul Lathrop Poole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Poole of Barrington, will take place at 11:30 o'clock this morning in St. Clement's rectory. The bride's father, William J. Caveney, will give a breakfast at the Ambassador East hotel after the ceremony. After a wedding trip Mr. Poole and his bride will be at home on the north side.

Mrs. Gordon L. Pirie and her children have gone to Glenwood Springs, Colo., for the summer.

The junior Samuel Carson Piries and their daughters, Margaret and Jean, are leaving Saturday to spend the month of August near Glen Cove, on Long Island.

Giving Luncheon Today for Mr. and Mrs. Kostalanetz.

Carleton Smith, who is in town for a brief stay, is giving a luncheon at the Pump room today for Lily Pons and her husband, Andre Kostalanetz. This afternoon Mr. Smith will take his guests to the circus.

Mr. Smith is going shortly to Monticello, Ill., to see Robert Allerton and then on to the Berkshires for the Berkshire Musical festival, which opens on Aug. 1. He will visit Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, president of the Berkshire Symphonic Festival association and a cousin of the late Miss Kate Buckingham of Chicago, for the first week. He then will move to Miss Buckingham's house, which now is the home of the Serge Koussevitzkys, to stay for the remaining two weeks of the festival.

Norman Sallee Parker Wed in San Francisco.

Announcements were received yesterday by Chicago friends of Norman Sallee Parker of his marriage to Mrs. Marion Stuart Scott of San Francisco. The wedding took place last Saturday in Chattanooga, where the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Winchester Stuart, reside. Mr. and Mrs. Parker have departed to motor to California and upon their return to Chicago on Sept. 1 will be at home at 1327 Hinman avenue, Evanston.

Mrs. Robert H. Ripley Gives Up Alaska Trip.

Mrs. Robert H. Ripley, who has been spending several weeks at the Homestead hotel, has given up plans for visiting Alaska this summer. Instead, she will depart at the end of the week for a holiday in Banff, stopping en route in Calgary to see her son and daughter-in-law, the Wilder Ripleys, and their little son, Stephen Bradway Ripley.

The Henry Fields have an interesting visitor in the person of Mrs. Field's brother, Robb White. He has been living for three years at Marina Cay, Tortola, near the British Virgin Islands.

The Paget Cadys also have an attractive guest, Mrs. McLean Hoggson of New York, formerly of Chicago. Mr. Hoggson was here for the week-end. Mrs. Hoggson returns to her home tomorrow. Numerous small parties have been given for her during her visit, including a luncheon Miss Sarah Hinde gave yesterday at the Saddle and Cycle.

Two Crocheted Pot Holders

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Two of our fanciest and most unusual crocheted pot holders are those illustrated today. If red and white is your favorite color scheme, you may make these two toned holders, the backs of which are done in single crochet. The spiral holder is a quick and easy job, while the quilt block design requires a little more time. Both of them will take prizes as unusual and practical kitchen items of beauty.

Mental Vitality Awakens the Real Beauty in Every Woman

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

They were discussing that quality that surpasses all others in a woman's appeal, that something in an individual that makes people sit up and take notice. A perfect stranger entering a room may illustrate it. The atmosphere is suddenly "charged" with whatever it is. She may not be a beautiful person, a stunning one, but she has something that does something almost electrifying.

It's vitality, of course, first and foremost, a vitality that radiates warmth above everything else, feeling, character, a strong personality. Yet the individual may not be a robust being. She may be slight, delicately molded, but she has IT, and having IT radiates it so that it becomes an infectious thing in a gathering. So, it must be more a thing of vitality of spirit than vitality of body. That, indeed, is what we think it is, vitality of spirit.

So many of us women go our daily, and evening, rounds sodden with our own weight, so to speak. Not physical weight, but the weight that accrues with "I-me-mine" dominating all else: My troubles, my worries, my woes, my likes, my dislikes, My, me, and mine, weighting us down. Whereas that other, the electrifying personality, sheds all this with the help of an enormous enthusiasm about life, living and people. She's on the dispensing end of the line, so to speak, which explains that all-embracing warmth of hers.

It's odd, too, how this enviable state of mind electrifies the body into a striking carriage, altho an easy one. It's an aliveness emanating from the mind that reflects itself in the bodily movements.

Pre-School Health Exam a Good Idea

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

School probably is farthest from your thoughts at this minute. Or, perhaps, it isn't, if last year wasn't a very successful one for your son or daughter. Or your thoughts may turn schoolward if, in September, your little boy or girl is to make the first sortie into the new world of classroom and teachers and lessons.

In some communities there are what are called summer round-ups. Children are given thoro physical examinations. If there is any physical difficulty, advice is offered as to how to correct it before school begins. It is an excellent idea.

But it can be carried out by each mother, individually, if her community has no round-up.

We are anxious for the children to get as much as possible out of the school year. They, too, like the feeling of being able to do their work competently. They like the feeling of excelling in it. [And, incidentally, this ability often spells the difference between liking school and not liking school.] And altho no disgrace should be attached to it, they do mind having to repeat a grade.

The child who is listless, anemic, nervous, or weary cannot do his best work. He may be short on sleep, working too hard at home, or be improperly fed. There may be any of a number of simple physical reasons to account for his low standard of work. Inability to see well or hear well will affect his school work to such a degree that he often is considered subnormal when he really is not.

Plenty of outdoors, plenty of rest, plenty of simple, varied, nourishing food, and a harmonious home will be our contribution. And thru a physical examination, yearly or oftener, your doctor can do his part. Most often he will find nothing wrong, maybe a little more rest, a slight change in diet, or some easily arranged detail of care.

Grant Park Crowd Stirred to Cheers by Rico Marcelli

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Rico Marcelli, a conductor with a great gift for the brilliant and the dramatic in music, made his 1940 Grant park debut last night. He directed a program whose principal item was the Tschaikowsky Fourth symphony. Reinhold Schmidt, bass-baritone, was the soloist.

Mr. Marcelli's rhythms had such bite, his colors such splendor, and his general execution such a bravura quality that the performance of the Tschaikowsky symphony roused the audience to applause and cheers. And Mr. Marcelli achieved this success without any resort to out and out exaggeration. No matter how arresting his effects might be, they were always implicit in the music—always in accord with what we may conceive the composer's intentions to have been.

Mr. Schmidt sang the "Infelice" from Verdi's "Ernani" in a beautifully textured but virile voice quality and with a fine feeling for the aria's general style.

Tea Time Players to Give Two Plays in Fox Lake

The Tea Time Players, newly organized summer theater troupe from Chicago, will present two one-act plays tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. in their playhouse in the Mineola hotel at Fox lake, in Lake county. They are "A Matter of Husbands" and "Frank and Erna." Gilbert Ferguson is the director. The troupe presents short plays and readings every Thursday night.

DAIRIES PIN WAGE CASE ON DROP IN DOORSTEP SALES

Cite Records Since 1930 Before Arbitrators.

The case for the Associated Milk Dealers in their wage dispute with the 4,500 members of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union neared a close yesterday at the arbitration hearing in the Palmer House. Dr. Raleigh W. Stone, University of Chicago economist, and H. J. Winchester, an accountant, were on the stand explaining their statistical studies of the milk industry.

Thru the maze of figures and charts which have been offered in evidence since the hearing began July 15 emerges the salient point in the dealers' case—their assertion that the decrease in home deliveries of milk in the last ten years has made it impossible for them to maintain the old pay level of $48 a week for drivers. Many of the drivers earned $50 to $52 a week under this agreement which ended April 30.

Dealers' Offer Rejected.

Therefore the dealers proposed a base pay of $30 a week and commissions on all collections exceeding $100 a week—10 per cent for doorstep delivery and 5 per cent for store delivery—offering a guarantee of $36 a week.

The drivers turned this down, the dealers remained adamant, and there were two strikes, tying up the city's milk deliveries. The last strike ended May 27, after eight days. Since then the dealers have offered a base pay of $32 a week, with commissions added to reach a guarantee of $40.

The drivers refused this, too, and the matter went to arbitration. The drivers have been receiving their old pay of $48 a week with the understanding they will refund the difference if they ultimately lose their fight.

Pastor Has Last Word.

The arbitrators are Paul Potter, secretary of the dealers' organization; Thomas Haggerty, secretary-treasurer of the drivers' union, and Msgr. Dennis J. Dunne, pastor of Holy Cross church. Msgr. Dunne, who was appointed by Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch of the Chicago archdiocese, will have the final word and his decision will be binding.

Dr. Stone, the economist, was questioned yesterday by Ernest Ballard, counsel for the dealers.

"The salvation of the milk business in Chicago," Dr. Stone said, "depends on the preservation of home deliveries. If milk is to become only a store item, the salesmanship and personal service will be lost, and milk will become only a product competing with other merchandise as a sale commodity."

Much Cheaper in Stores.

Milk now sells for 8½ cents a quart in stores [cheaper in cut rate establishments] and at 13 cents when delivered at home by the union men. The dealers want to reduce this differential—that is, cut the price of home delivery to regain lost customers—and declare it can be done only by reducing the drivers' wages.

One set of statistics prepared by Dr. Stone to show how home deliveries have decreased, was based on reports of the Bowman and Borden-Wieland dairies which operate 59.6 per cent of all the routes in the city. In this table the year 1930 is taken to represent 100 per cent, and comparative percentages for ensuing years are then computed as follows:

Year.	Total Customers	Per cent.
1931	579,611	97.2
1932	553,649	92.8
1933	527,446	88.4
1934	494,357	82.9
1935	466,845	78.3
1936	427,188	71.6
1937	411,314	68.9
1938	378,911	63.5
1939	327,982	55.0
1940 [3 months]	307,968	51.6

The milk dealers' association contends that much of this lost business has gone to cut rate stores and independent dairies which do not employ union help.

His Different Explanation.

Attorney David Riskind, counsel for the union, had a different interpretation to place on some of these figures. Cross-examining Dr. Stone and Winchester, the accountant, Riskind tried to show that some of the business lost by Bowman and Borden-Wieland might have gone to other members of the association and not to outsiders.

The hearing adjourned last evening till tomorrow. Attorney Ballard said that he expects to finish the dealers' case by the end of the week. The union will begin presenting its evidence next week.

Milk Routes Lose

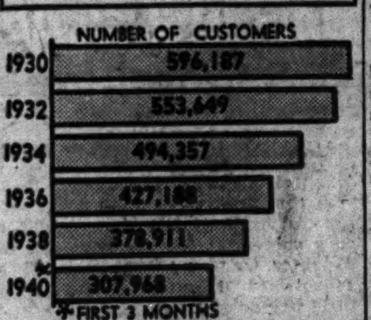

Diagram of statistics offered at milk hearings yesterday, based on reports of two large Chicago dairies, to show the decline in number of customers they serve by home delivery routes.

CASE OF THOSE VACANT PANTS IS PATCHED UP

Kenosha, Wis., July 23 [Special].—Illicit romance took a beating in Municipal court here today where four men and women—married, but not to each other—were arraigned in two cases of violated marriage vows.

An evening spent together in a cottage at Cross lake and the mishap of being caught drew a fine of $400 and costs or six months in jail for one errant couple—Mrs. Marie Lukenbill, 44 years old, and George Rentschler, 49, an auto salesman, both of Antioch, Ill.

"My hubsand and I were never happy together," Mrs. Lukenbill sobbed to Judge E. J. Ruetz as she told of 25 years of married life with Edgar Lukenbill, superintendent of the Logan county [Illinois] schools and a well known Democrat of Lincoln, Ill.

Only Man She Ever Loved.

"My husband always thought more of his schools than of his home. I wouldn't seek a divorce because I had not met any one for whom I was willing to give up my home and position. Then I met Mr. Rentschler about a year ago, after I had left my husband. I realized I had met the only man I ever loved."

Rentschler said he had asked for a divorce, but his wife, to whom he had been married 27 years, refused. Both he and Mrs. Lukenbill pleaded guilty to charges of adultery last Friday, the day after deputy sheriffs raided the Cross lake cotage at the instigation of Mrs. Rentschler, who said an anonymous telephone caller told her she would find her husband there with a woman.

The couple had been in jail since the raid and were returned there after being sentenced. Lukenbill, who filed suit for divorce on a charge of desertion at Lincoln last Saturday, offered his wife no help. Rentschler said he would try to raise the money for their fines.

The mates of the other two transgressors were more forgiving. They took back their errant spouses "for the sake of the children" despite guilty pleas of attempted adultery and the admission they had been intimate on other occasions.

The defendants were Mrs. Clara Ballweg, 32 years old, and Carl Stuebe, 33, former best friend and coworker with the woman's husband, Andrew Ballweg, in a factory at Racine. They were placed on probation for two years and ordered never to see each other again.

Trapped by Husband.

Mrs. Ballweg and Stuebe were caught a week ago by the outraged Mr. Ballweg. Suspicious for some time that his pal was too friendly with his wife, Ballweg hid in the trunk of his automobile when the two went for a ride.

After they had stopped out in the country, the husband leaped from his hiding place and grabbed Stuebe's pants, which were off. Then he drove the couple to the police station where they spent the night. Each family has two children.

DEATH PLUNGE CALLED SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Mrs. Olga Seesholtz who leaped to her death Monday from the 11th floor of the Boston store.

ALL-STAR FOOTBALL COACHES POLL OPENS TODAY

THE GUMPS—MUTUAL ADMIRATION

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.: Copyright, 1940, by The Chicago Tribune.

FANS VOTE TILL AUG. 4 TO ELECT STAFF OF FIVE

Player Selection Ends.

BY ARCH WARD.

The football fans of the United States who for the last twelve days have been picking an All-America team to meet the Green Bay Packers in Chicago's seventh annual All-Star game, Aug. 29, are half thru with their job. The players have been chosen in a coast to coast poll that brought millions of ballots from 47 states, the District of Columbia and the Hawaiian islands. Today these same fans and any others who care to join begin the task of naming a staff of coaches to lead the All-Stars.

Frank Thomas.

The coaches poll will continue until midnight on Sunday, Aug. 4. Each voter is permitted to name three coaches in the order of his preference. First place will count three points, second place two points and third one. Total points will determine the winner.

Five Man Staff.

The staff will consist of the coach from the Western conference who receives the greatest number of points, one from the middle west outside the conference, one from the east, one from the south and one from the far west. There are no restrictions on candidates except those who previously have served as chief of staff. These include Frank Thomas of Alabama, Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, Charles Dorais of Detroit, Bo McMillin of Indiana, and Elmer Layden of Notre Dame. They are not eligible.

The 1939 board was made up of Layden, who was elected head coach; Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, Western conference representative; Carl Snavely of Cornell, eastern representative; Maj. Robert Neyland of Tennessee, southern representative, and Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, Pacific coast representative.

The starting lineup for this year's All-Star team will be announced tomorrow morning. The voting ended last night at midnight and all reports from outlying centers must reach THE TRIBUNE sports department by noon today.

Hawaii Takes a Hand.

The total vote this morning exceeds 4,170,000. Final tabulations undoubtedly will go over the 5,000,000 mark. The interest this year has been more widespread than ever before. Organized effort in support of several candidates has set a new record. Included in today's standings are 186,743 votes from Hawaii, almost half the population of the islands.

The Herald-Post of El Paso, Tex., yesterday reported 72,530 votes for Ken Heineman, Texas Mines quarter back, and 44,932 for Clyde Turner, Hardin-Simmons center. The managing editor of the paper says almost everybody in that section of the country has cast a vote in the player poll.

Radio station KCMO of Kansas City yesterday collected 115,000 for Dom Carney, Rockhurst college half back. The Indianapolis News sent 148,966 for Jim Logan, Indiana guard. The Davenport Times turned in 35,981 for Nile Kinnick and almost that many

PAUL KELL 39TH PACKER TO SIGN 1940 CONTRACT

Green Bay, Wis., July 23 [Special].—Paul Kell, former Notre Dame tackle, today signed his 1940 contract with the Green Bay Packers, bringing to 39 the number of players who have come to terms. Kell, a member of last year's world's championship squad, is the sixth tackle signed.

Among those who have not returned signed contracts are Bill Lee of Alabama, and Buford Ray of Vanderbilt, the regular tackles last year; Don Hutson, the receiving end of the Arnie Herber to Don Hutson passing combination; and Cecil Isbell of Purdue, who has been a star in the Green Bay backfield for two seasons.

The Packers have under contract four players who are among leaders in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S All-Star poll and may not be available for the champions' assignment in the Chicago game on Aug. 29. They are Dick Evans, Iowa end; Hal Van Every, Minnesota half back; Lou Brock, Purdue half back, and Frank Bykowski, Purdue guard.

Coach Curley Lambeau announced today that practice for the All-Star game will open on Aug. 12.

LIVELY LADY AND BANGALORE WIN MACKINAC RACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 23.—Lively Lady, Otto Dreher's South Shore [Milwaukee] Yacht club Q class sloop, defeated 15 other entrants in the Universal [racing] division, and Ed Lumbard's Bangalore of the Chicago Yacht club won in the cruising division as the 33d annual Mackinac closed tonight. The victories in their respective divisions gave Lively Lady the Chicago-Mackinac trophy and Bangalore the Mackinac cup.

Lively Lady was the second to reach the finish line this morning, ghosting across before a northerly zephyr two and one-half hours behind Revenge, Blair Walliser and Ken Griffin's scratch boat, which finished at 8:35:24. Revenge's elapsed and corrected time was 65 hours, 35 minutes, 24 seconds, while Lively Lady's elapsed time was 68:05:30 and its corrected time 62:58:27.

Two Threaten Bangalore.

Bangalore finished the race in 69 hours, 53 minutes, 40 seconds, but its corrected time of 62:42:56 gave it a clear lead in the cruising division competition for the historic Mackinac cup and the best corrected time of all yachts entered in the race. Bangalore is defending champion.

Lively Lady won the title in the new B class of Q boats and Bangalore in the B class of the cruising division, each in addition to its division title. Other class winners were Warrior in the A class of mixed racers and Batavia in A class, Belle Aurore in C class and Mnemoosha in D class of the cruising section. Mnemoosha, as well as Bangalore repeated its 1939 class victory. It sailed under the name Seiglinde in its maiden race a year ago.

Tahuna Performs Well.

Tahuna, sailing its maiden race, had the second best corrected time among the cruising craft, the figures showing it less than an hour behind Bangalore.

Gloriant, defending champion in the Universal division, was the fifth to cross the line today, its elapsed time being 68:25:57 and its corrected time 63:22:28.

Revenge finished first despite a mishap just after the start Saturday. The cutter's 4,500 square foot parachute spinnaker tore and developed a 25 foot rip before sail could be lowered. A smaller spinnaker was carried during three hours required to repair the big sail. Summaries:

A Certain Look.

Today a load of calves went thru the streets—
Some were black, some shiny white and brown,
Wrenched from the peaceful farms where they had grown,
Bound for the slaughter house just past the town;
And peering thru the bars were great sad eyes
Which haunted me thruout the live-long day,
You'd almost think those poor dumb things could sense
The fate to which they then were on their way.

Once on a wartime transport years ago
I saw young soldiers peering o'er a bar
As down the harbor steamed the mighty ship,
Bound for a slaughter field in lands afar;
And in the eyes of some was that same look—
Bewildered, puzzled, just a little sad;
I hope to never live to see again
That look on any young American lad!

I must keep my figure trim
'Cause my boy friend likes me slim;
I sacrifice potatoes, sweets, and such;
To tell the truth, I don't eat very much.

The sight of whipped cream desserts
Is enough to drive me nerts;
My scale I watch with microscopic care—
The slightest movement up gives me a scare.

I shall not try to falter
Till I am led to the altar;
But after my darling and I are wed
I'm gonna be one gal who is well fed!

Raffensberger Stumps Bees; Cubs Win, 6-1

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 23.—The Cubs, who at the start of today's business had beaten the Boston Bees more times than any major league team had beaten any adversary this year, found the going soft for the twelfth time in 16 matches. Ken Raffensberger presided thruout in acquiring his fourth victory, 6 to 1.

To all intents and purposes the game was over at the end of the first inning, at which juncture the count was 3 to 1. But it isn't very warm here so the boys played out the string, which gave the Cubs a chance to look over their new teammate, Zeke Bonura. Zeke, by the way, worked faultlessly at first base and at bat supplied a single, a walk and two infield outs in four trips to the plate.

Cubs Collect 11 Hits.

The Cubs virtually suspended all offensive operations from the time they knocked out Joe Sullivan with one out in the second inning until the eighth, when they tallied two useless runs. Even so they had a total of 11 hits, of which Stan Hack contributed singles his first three times up. There was only one extra base hit on each side, that for the Cubs' being an eighth inning double by Hank Leiber.

Raffensberger yielded hits in bunches. There were three singles on which the Bees produced their only run in the first inning, three with which they futilely loaded bases with one out in the fourth and a double and a single wasted in the sixth. The young lefty walked only one. He struck out four in the first three innings, then switched to a technique less arduous.

The Cubs, a little shocked, perhaps,

MILNAR BLANKS A'S ON 6 HITS AS INDIANS WIN, 1-0

Weatherly's Single in 5th Scores Winning Run.

Cleveland, O., July 23 (AP).—Al Milnar pitched his 13th victory of the season tonight as the Indians beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 1 to 0, to draw within half a game of the league leading Detroit Tigers.

The winning run came in the fifth inning when Roy Weatherly singled after Rollie Hemsley had singled and advanced to second on Milnar's sacrifice. Weatherly's hit was one of his three singles during the game.

Milnar and Johnny Babich each gave up six hits in a pitching duel. Each struck out four, but Milnar got in some tight spots through issuing five walks.

The Athletics threatened in the fourth as Ben Chapman misjudged Al Brancato's drive, allowing it to go for a triple. The shortstop was caught attempting to steal home.

Dick Siebert singled to start the ninth and after Milnar retired two men, he walked Brancato. However, Pinch-Hitter Earl Brucker fouled out to end the game. Score:

DRIVES IN 5 RUNS AS CHICAGOANS TAKE 5TH IN ROW

Appleton Is Credited with Victory.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Those gay White Sox, who have been ripping the American league apart for the last two weeks, did a little more ripping yesterday in Comiskey park against their erstwhile cousins, Boston's gilded Red Sox. However, Jimmy Dykes' boys almost repeated their cousin act, trailing at one time by 7 to 3. But they climbed back into a tie with a four run blast in the seventh and then fastened down an 8 to 7 decision on a single by Mike Tresh in the ninth. It was the Chicagoans' 10th victory in 15 games and their fifth straight. It had the additional value of lifting their rating to .500, a mark long their goal.

Julius Solters.

It is probable that the cousin act would have gone thru if it hadn't been for objections filed by Julius Solters after Thornton Lee had made a flying start toward a beating. By singling in the fourth, Solters drove in the first Chicago run. With his season's seventh homer he accounted for two runs in the sixth and at the same time assisted in the ousting of Herb Hash. Then Julius doubled home two of the tying runs in the seventh and for a nightcap accepted a pass which eventually carried him to the plate with the decisive run in the ninth.

Appleton Gets Victory.

Lee's troubles were so numerous that he finally had to surrender. He was shocked by a homer off Jim Tabor's bat in the second inning and apparently never recovered. The southpaw was slapped for three runs in the third, due to passes and hits. He also was cuffed in the sixth and seventh, Boston's last three runs resulting. Having suffered to this extent, Lee was mercifully removed and Pete Appleton stepped in to pitch two hitless innings for the winning verdict.

After Hash was hacked in the sixth a lad named Alex Mustaikis, fresh from Scranton, Pa., appeared and while he finished the inning successfully the bats of Mike Kreevich, Joe Kuhel, and Solters got him in the seventh. Joe Heving took charge and a single by Taft Wright tied the score. Then in the ninth, Jack Wilson became Boston's fourth pitcher. He walked Solters, who went to second on Wright's infield out. Luke Appling was purposely passed, and Tresh, after stretching the count to 3 and 2, singled over first base to end the game.

Lee Has His Troubles.

Dom DiMaggio opened the game with a single over short and after retiring two men, Lee figured it would be a slick maneuver to hand Jimmy Foxx a pass. The move proved a success when Ted Williams flied to Solters. In the second inning, Lee met up with Tabor after one was gone and the latter knocked the first pitch into the left field seats.

Manager Joe Cronin singled to left with one out in the third and this started Lee down the chute. He again took out intentional pass insurance against Foxx's home run power. After reaching first Foxx yielded to Marv Owen, to give his recently injured knee a rest. Williams bounced a single past Appling, who was playing close to second, Cronin scoring and Owen taking third. Bobby Doerr walked to fill the bases and Tabor dropped a single into left, Owen and Williams scoring. A single by Desautels reloaded the bases, but Hash hit into a double play.

Kuhel Scores First Chicago Run.

Hash's pitching was so mystifying for the home Sox at the start that eight of them went out in a row. Lee was the first to reach base when he singled to center with two out in the third. Jimmy Webb got into Lee's exclusive class by following with a single to the same spot, but Kreevich flied to DiMaggio. There also were two hits in the third and the first run was produced. Kuhel doubled to right and scored on a single by Solters, but the latter was cut down trying for second on the throw in.

Desautels opened the sixth with a two bagger to left, but while on his way to second pulled a leg muscle and retired in favor of John Peacock. Hash bunted and Tresh threw to Bob Kennedy at third, but Peacock got there before the ball. He scored while DiMaggio was grounding into a double play. Then Doc Cramer doubled to left for the second time, but Cronin couldn't devise any way for getting his man home.

The Chicago Sox crowded three hits into the sixth, but only two of them were important. Kreevich opened with a single to deep short and after Kuhel had popped out, Solters Lyttleton-Rogers and Van Horn Beaten.

Seabright, N. J., July 23 (AP).—Two seeded performers—Welby Van Horn of Los Angeles and George Lyttleton-Rogers of Ireland — were driven to the sidelines today in upset conquests as the annual Seabright Lawn Tennis club tourney went into the round before the quarter-finals.

Welby Van Horn.

Isadore Bellis of Philadelphia outlasted Van Horn, 8-6, 6-8, 6-2, and Frederick [Ted] Schroeder Jr., 19 year old from Glendale, Cal., eliminated the former Irish Davis cupper, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Runnerup for the national championship to Bobby Riggs last September, Van Horn was seeded third in the tourney's favored list of home players. Lyttleton-Rogers was in the second preferred position in the foreign group.

Van Horn's Drives Erratic.

Bellis, who missed several opportunities to run out the match in the second set, stood up remarkably against Van Horn's devastating but erratic power and won out by tireless retrieving.

Defending Champion Frankie Parker of Pasadena led the way into the third round with an impressive 6-1, 6-2 triumph over Edward C. Alloo of San Francisco.

The second day was a good one for veterans all along the line. Former national titlist, Wilmer Allison, Houston, Tex.; Ladislav Hecht, erstwhile Czecho-Slovakia Davis cup ace; Bryan M. Grant, Atlanta, and Henry P. Prusoff, Seattle, survived extended tests.

Allison Beats Talbert.

Allison played the longest match in ousting young William Talbert, Cincinnati, 11-9, 4-6, 7-5.

Keeping pace with the advance were Gilbert A. Hunt, Washington, D. C.; Owen Anderson, Los Angeles; Jack Kramer, Montebello, Cal.; Gardner Mulloy, Coral Gables, Fla.; Elwood T. Cooke, Portland, Ore.; Jack Kovacs, Oakland, Cal., and George A. Toley, Los Angeles. Riggs won his way into the third round yesterday.

Of Thee I Sing.

I read the other day about a woman who 10 years ago became interested in dolls and now has a collection of 400. I became interested in them about 10 years ago, too, but I've never been able to collect more than three at one time.

Alphabetical All-Stars.

I'd like to pit this alphabetical all-time Chicago "B" team against the team of "A's" picked by Old Timer recently in the Wake. In that event, I'll bet the "A's" wouldn't have it. Here's my "B" squad:

Catchers—Roger BRESNAHAN, Cubs; Moe BERG, White Sox; Jim BLOCK, White Sox.

Pitchers—Mordecai BROWN, Guy BUSH, Clay BRYANT of the Cubs; Joe BENZ, Clint BROWN, and Ted BLANKENSHIP of the White Sox.

Outfield—Ping BODIE, White Sox; Bill BARRETT, White Sox; George BLACKERBY, White Sox.

A Wedding Prayer.

Our Father, do bless them, this couple
Who knelt at Thy altar today;
Let angels keep vigil before them
And guide them along the way.

Implant in their thinking the knowledge
That love which is true is of Thee,
And love to be life-long and lasting
Must selfless and holy be.

God, teach them that marriage is sharing
And going thru life hand in hand,
In sickness, or health, or in sorrow,
And help them to understand

That love is a language of action
Expressing what tongues cannot tell;
That marriage is using the language,
And teach them to speak it well.

Reunion at the Pool.

I tossed a pebble clean and white
Into the quarry's depth,
Into the murky, greenish night,
Where countless pebbles slept.

Who knows? It may have hoped some day
To meet those long lost friends
Whom man had rudely torn away
To suit his selfish ends.

Perhaps that piece of pallid clod
Had prayed to pierce the foam,
And I, commissioned by its god,
Had seen it safely home!

BOROTRA ORDERS GYM CLASSES FOR FRENCH SCHOOLS

GRENOBLE, France, July 23 (AP).—Jean Borotra, former Davis cup star and now France's director of sports, has announced physical education henceforth will occupy a place of importance equal to that of intellectual education in French schools.

The newspaper Le Petit Dauphinois, in a dispatch from Vichy, quoted Borotra as saying his job in the revolutionized educational scheme will be difficult because of the nation's "softness and previous indifference."

Sonja Henie and Dan Topping Pick All-Star Eleven

Sonja Henie, Olympic games ice skating champion star of her annual revues, who recently became the bride of Dan Topping, owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers professional football team, is greatly interested in the All-Star game to be played Aug. 29 in Soldiers' field. Yesterday she collaborated with her husband in picking the eleven they hope will start for the College All-Star Americans against the Green Bay Packers in the seventh annual contest sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. The Henie-Toping eleven:

ENDS—Bob Winslow, Southern California; Bud Kerr, Notre Dame.

TACKLES—Harry Stella, Army; Nick Cutlich, Northwestern.

CENTER—Jack Schiechl, Santa Clara.

FULL BACK—Banks McFadden, Clemson.

FOOTBALL FANS, COACHES' POLL OPENS TODAY!

Fair Crowd Votes.

University of Chattanooga alumni gathered 46,362 on the grounds of the New York World fair. Votes for Jim Molnar of Bradley and Ben Sheridan of Notre Dame poured into the offices of the Peoria Journal Transcript from every county in central Illinois. The Evanston News Index reported 82,280 for Hal Method, Nick Cutlich, John Haman and Bob Daly, Northwestern linemen, and 64,780 for George McGurn, Wildcat full back.

Supporters of Joe Thesing, Notre Dame full back, and Paul Sheetz, Xavier guard, expressed 93,126 votes to The Tribune contest department. Abilene, Tex., turned in 33,764 for Turner of Hardin-Simmons and 21,459 for Heineman.

The swift rise of Ambrose Schindler, Southern California quarter back, has been the most decisive development of the late days of the poll. Recognized as one of the greatest running backs in intercollegiate football, Schindler has been scoring heavily in all centers which have no local favorites. The Trojan star this morning has passed Ted Hennis of Purdue and Steve Sitko of Notre Dame to hold the lead as the All-Stars' field general.

Trojans Lead Parade.

Southern California has made the best showing of any university or college in the land in the player poll. Three Trojans this morning are among the starting eleven. Bill Fisk, end, and Harry Smith, guard, are Schindler's running mates on the select group. Bob Winslow, end, and Grenville Lansdell, quarter back, also are well up in the standings and they apparently have clinched places on the squad.

The eleven players who are on top in the final standings tomorrow will be obliged to start the game, provided they join the squad and survive the practice sessions without injury. Coaches are not allowed under the rules of the contest to deviate from the fans' selections until after the opening kickoff.

CO-MEDALISTS WIN 1ST MATCHES IN MIDWEST GOLF

Fred E. Hawkins of Chain O'Lakes, hurdled his first obstacle by defeating Andy Brown of Hickory Hills, 1 up, in 20 holes, while the other medalist, William Grib Jr., of Ridge, beat P. A. Delo of Diversey, 1 up. Chuck Boywid of Mid-City, 1937 midwest winner, eliminated Bob Switalla of Ridgemoor, 3 and 2.

Handy Rissman of Bryn Mawr, finalist in the C. D. G. A. closed tourney at Park Ridge, won 6 to 5 over Bud Waldman of Waveland.

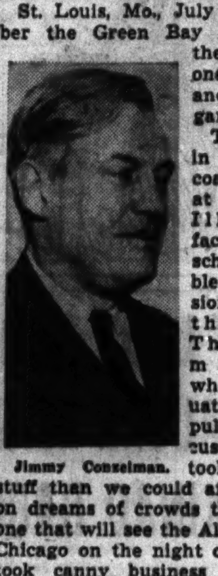
Conzelman Recalls Packers of Pro Football's Baby Days

BY JIMMY CONZELMAN.

[Former professional football star and coach at Washington university, and newly appointed coach of Chicago Cardinals.]

St. Louis, Mo., July 23.—I remember the Green Bay Packers when they had only one All-American and no All-Star game ambitions.



Jimmy Conzelman.

That was back in 1921. I was coaching down at Rock Island, Ill., and we faced the usual schedule troubles of professional teams in those days. There weren't many spots where postgraduate football pulled out cash customers and it took stronger stuff than we could afford to bring on dreams of crowds the size of the one that will see the All-Star game in Chicago on the night of Aug. 29. It took canny business judgment to place a team on the road. Occasionally some of the hinterland football organizations paid off in paper as lively as a rubber band.

A Soft Touch—At First.

There were only three recognized teams in the Illinois area. The Staleys [now the Chicago Bears] were in their second season of operation at Decatur, Ill. Chris O'Brien's Cardinals were a topnotch eleven on Chicago's south side. Rock Island completed the picture. Of course, there were sketchy aggregations in Hammond, Ind., Dixon, Ill., and Beloit, Wis., but they drew crowds neither away nor at home.

Among the letters we received asking for a game was one from Green Bay and the writer pointed out that the team had been undefeated the previous year. There was much mention of Cub Buck, former All-American tackle at Wisconsin, who seemed to be the mainstay of the line. The terms were right, so we went to Green Bay. We beat them.

Green Bay Arrives.

Now Curley Lambeau, the coach, decided that losing games up in his home town wasn't what the fans wanted. The team had been made up in the main of local talent, but Curley saw he had to step out if he wanted to meet competition.

The next season there were new faces on the Green Bay football field. We still were strong enough to beat them in one of the earlier games that year, but later, at the Packer field, Lambeau's outfit tied Rock Island. From there on thru the ensuing years it was shambles. Green Bay had arrived.

Now I've been out of professional football for 10 years. Coming back into it carries one bit of comfort. Don Hutson and Arnie Herber can't go on forever. It would be melancholy indeed if Hutson and Herber had just stepped out of college. At least now I won't have to look at them for, say, 10 years more. They should be thru before that time.

They Keep Coming.

But Green Bay has a habit of coming up with new stars who step into the shoes of departed heroes. In 1921 it was Cub Buck. After Cub, Curley Lambeau himself proved the thorn in the pink hide of opponents. Then Verne Lewellen and Red Dunne came along. Now it's Herber and Hutson.

Well, the All-Stars get a break at that. They only have to look at Green Bay for one game. Think of the rest of us. We get them twice a year.

ANGOTT BOXES CASTIGLIONE IN MILLS STADIUM

Meet in Ten Round Bout on Veterans' Card.

Nick Castiglione, Italo-American Youth organization boxer, who started up to the big time when he upset Kid Yucatan Paloma in the Coliseum a few weeks ago, will try to complete the journey tonight in Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, at the expense of Sammy Angott, the National Boxing association's lightweight champion. The bout is set for 10 rounds over the championship weight.

Angott will be making his first Chicago appearance since winning the title by beating Davey Day in Louisville Derby eve. It also will be his first Chicago appearance since losing a split decision to Day in an earlier meeting on Dec. 8.

Veterans Sponsor Show.

The show is the first of two to be held under the auspices of Austin post, No. 2955, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Jack Marshall, young Irish heavyweight from Riley, Tex., will meet Henry Wacker, local slugger, in a 10 round semi-final. Wacker has defeated Eddie Simms and Willie Muldune in recent weeks, but he may have trouble adding Marshall to his string. Marshall gained a measure of fame when he spoiled the United States debut of Valentine Campolo by beating the South American in the east.

Wagner Meets Washington.

Edwin Wagner, giant colored protége of West Side Jack O'Keefe, and Fred Washington will be opponents in a four round event. Other matches at this distance will bring together Joe Johnston, Dallas welterweight, and Marty Callura of Milwaukee, and Johnny Balmer, Peoria junior welterweight, and Ralph Guajardo of Chicago. A six round encounter will involve Kelly Kohn, 145 pounder, also of Peoria, and Billy Sherman of South Chicago.

Ralph [Ruffy] Silverstein, west side heavyweight wrestler, will encounter Bert Rubi this evening in Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Supporting matches:

John Swenski vs. Farmer Mack.
Fritz von Schacht vs. Chief Sanooke.
Paul Bozzell vs. Rudy Kay.
Billy Goelz vs. Jim Landis.

Robert Ascher Shoots 72 to Win in Mercantile Golf

Robert S. Ascher posted a 72 to win low gross honors for the second successive year in the Chicago Mercantile Exchange annual golf tournament at the Medinah Country club yesterday. Ascher competed in a field of more than 200. M. T. Sodetz and Howard Edson, each with 81, tied for second low gross. N. C. Hanson won the president's trophy in the blind bogey event. Other blind bogey prize winners were F. Stockard, J. P. McKenzie, Frank Priebe, William H. Donnelly, and O. H. Anse.

PLAYERS BATTLE AS REDS WIN TWO FROM DODGERS

Coscarart, Frey Banned; Thompson Injured.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 23 (AP).—Pete Coscarart, Brooklyn second baseman, and Linus Frey, Cincinnati second sacker, were banished, and Gene Thompson, Cincinnati hurler, was forced out with injuries in a fight during the eighth inning of the first game between the Dodgers and Reds at Ebbets field today.

The Reds won both games, taking the first, 4 to 3, in the 11th inning on a home run by Ernie Lombardi, and battering four Brooklyn pitchers to triumph in the second game, 9 to 2. The victories increased Cincinnati's lead in the National league to seven games.

40,583 in Record Crowd.

A record crowd of 40,583 crammed the field. It was knothole day and 4,980 boys were admitted free to the outfield bleachers. The park has seats for only about 34,000, but 35,603 pay-

The trouble started when Frey slid into second base and broke up a double play, permitting Bill Werber to go home from third with the run that tied the score at 3 all. Thompson, rushing to the scene, apparently was spiked in a general mixup that saw Whitlow Wyatt strike Frey several times with his mitt while the latter was still on the ground.

When play finally was resumed Joe Beggs went to the mound for the Reds and Eddie Joost replaced Frey at second.

CARDINALS BEAT PHILLIES.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 23 (AP)— St. Louis shelled Cy Blanton for 10 hits in the first five innings today to open its eastern invasion with a 7 to 3 victory over the Phillies. In the fifth, the Cardinals bunched four hits with Catcher Bill Atwood's error to score four runs. Merrill May, the Phillies' third baseman, was sidelined by a foot injury suffered in Chicago on Sunday. He will be out of action for several days. Score:

that the two games the Bees won in Wrigley field at the start of their last western trip formed two-thirds of the Boston total for the entire Bees' jaunt thru Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, and Pittsburgh, lost little time in grabbing a lead from the Bostonians today.

Hack opened the game with the first of his series of hits, a single to center, and went to third on Herman's single to left. Augie Galan bounced to Sibby Sisti and Hack was out at the plate. Bill Nicholson then walked, loading the bases, whereupon Leiber singled to left, scoring Bill Herman and Galan. Bonura was thrown out, but Todd beat out an infield bouncer, Nicholson scoring. Bob Mattick popped to Al Glossop.

The Bees also scored in the first inning. Singles by Johnny Cooney, Sisti, and Eddie Miller accounted for the tabulation.

Cubs Collect Another.

Raffensberger opened the second with a single to left, whereupon Hack's single and a pass to Herman loaded the bases with none out. Alva Javery replaced Sullivan and Galan forced Herman, Raffensberger scoring. Nicholson then hit into a double play.

From his appearance with one out in the second inning until the eighth, Javery held the Cubs to two hits, Hack's third single, in the fourth and Herman's second, at the start of the seventh.

Then Leiber opened the eighth with a double off the left field sign board and reached third on Bonura's high bouncing single. Al Todd sent a bouncer to Sisti, Leiber scoring and Bonura taking second. In an effort to get Leiber at the plate Sisti threw to the screen, Bonura reaching third. Mattick grounded to Miller and Bonura was run down, Todd reaching third and Mattick second. Todd scored and Mattick reached third on a wild pitch. Mattick, however, was out at the plate when Raffensberger failed to connect on a squeeze play. Raffensberger fanned and scoring was over for the day.

CHICAGO IS ZEKE'S LOVE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 23.—Zeke Bonura arrived from Washington shortly before 8 o'clock this morning. Zeke expressed elation at being back with a Chicago team.

"I told you Chicago fellows that Chicago is my first love after I left, so you ought to believe me when I say it again when I'm coming back," he said.

Zeke repudiated the oft quoted remark, supposed to have been made when he returned to Washington this spring: "I'm glad to be back in the major league."

Manager Gabby Hartnett today announced the Cubs had claimed Rabbit Warstler of the Bees at the waiver price of $7,500. Warstler will be used as a utility infielder.

Parichys and Mills Girls Teams to Play Tonight

The Parichy Bloomer Girls and Mills teams tonight will move into Rand stadium, 1900 East 75th street, to play a Girls' Major league contest, one of two scheduled tonight. The Raabs, with Anne Ploetz pitching, will invade Shewbridge stadium, 74th and Aberdeen streets, to meet the league-leading Hydrox team. In non-league contests the Jax of New Orleans will play the Rivals in Spencer Coals stadium, 4200 North Central avenue, and the Naborhood club will meet the Rock-Olas at Harlem and North avenues.

Ann Korkas' double with the bases loaded in the eighth inning gave the Mills a 5 to 2 victory over the Parichy Bloomer Girls on the latter's field last night. In a nonleague game, Hydrox defeated New Orleans, 7 to 5, to earn an even break in a two game set.

Lee fanned Owen to start the seventh, but folded almost immediately. Williams walked, Doerr singled and Tabor walked, jamming the bases. Peacock fouled to Kennedy and this brought up Mustaikis, who singled into center, sending Williams and Doerr home.

Kennedy was responsible for starting Mustaikis on his downfall in the seventh. Bob doubled to left and after two were out, Kreevich singled to left, Kennedy scoring. Kuhel singled to center and Solters then doubled to left, Kreevich and Kuhel counting. Solters continued to third on Williams' fumble of the hit. Mustaikis went away and his successor, Heving, was welcomed by Wright's single, which scored Solters with the tying run.

Bill Dietrich, who was beaten at Washington in his only start during the eastern trip, will try his skill for the White Sox against Boston in the second of the series today. The visitors will offer Denny Galehouse.

CHASE YIELDS 7 HITS; SENATORS BEAT TIGERS, 6-3

Detroit, Mich., July 23 (AP).—The league leading Detroit Tigers lost by 6 to 3 today to the Washington Senators, who were sparked by the seven hit pitching of Southpaw Kendall Chase. Although Dick Bartell and Rudy York both knicked Chase for homers, the big left hander kept the Tiger blows well scattered. Only in the ninth, when Detroit counted its third run, could the league leaders put together two hits in an inning. Score:

TOM BROWN AND MISS HOOVER WIN AT RIVER FOREST

Art Leighton Puts Out Tom Falkenberg.

Tom Brown of San Francisco and Patricia Hoover of Los Angeles, top seeded, won their matches in the junior division of the River Forest Tennis club open tournament yesterday, to advance further toward the finals.

Brown drew a bye in the first round and then swept aside two opponents. He disposed of Ted Lasicwicz of Chicago in 12 straight games, 6-0, 6-0. Then, in the third round, against Byron Gordon, also of Chicago, he won the first set, 6-0, but was forced to play 20 games before finishing in front in the second, 11-9.

Only one upset was registered in the seeded ranks. Art Leighton, son of Capt. Harry Leighton, tennis pro at the River Forest club, eliminated Tom Falkenberg of Los Angeles, Cal., eighth seeded player, in a third round match, 7-5, 0-6, 7-5.

Miss Hoover yielded only one game in four sets in reaching the third round of the junior division. She blanked Elizabeth Buddeke of Chicago, 6-0, 6-0, in the first round, then returned to beat Nancy Graff of Winnetka, 6-0, 6-1.

Bill Jurges May Be Lost to the Giants Indefinitely

SWELL CHANCE AT 38 TO 1 IS JUST THAT; HE WINS!

Beats Futurity Candidates by a Neck.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Swell Chance, a juvenile colt which Euall Wyatt snapped up for $2,500 when Ben Jones of Calumet farm entered him in a claiming race, yesterday broke up what was supposed to have been an exclusive trial of fashionable candidates for next Saturday's $50,000 Arlington Futurity.

Swell Chance, which isn't eligible for anything in the way of a stake event, went to the post at odds of 38 to 1 against some of the highly regarded juveniles of east and west. Forgetting all about his humble beginning he ran away from all of them and won by a neck despite the fact that the usually alert Johnny Adams let him slow down to a canter in the last 30 yards while Cleveland Putnam's Swain was charging up along the rail to take second place. The Woodvale stable's Our Boots was third.

Calumet Claims One.

Wyatt, who trains for Mrs. J. F. Waters of San Francisco, made the first move in a claiming duel with Calumet by taking Talked About. Calumet responded by making the first claim in its history, taking Torch Gleam away from Wyatt. When Wyatt saw Swell Chance entered at $2,500 in the first start of his career less than two weeks ago he decided that there was another bargain. Swell Chance won that race by a little more than a length. In his only other start previous to yesterday he finished fourth to the Futurity candidate, Valdina Groom.

'Twas Fancy Company.

Swell Chance and a $174.90 to 1 shot, John Thomas, were the only ones in the field of seven in yesterday's race which were not eligible for the Futurity. Arrayed against Swell Chance were horses which had acquired reputations for exceptional speed. Our Boots, the 6 to 5 favorite, had won his only previous start by four lengths in :59 4-5 for five furlongs at Aqueduct. Millsdale Stable's Kansas, the 3 to 1 second choice, had run away from his rivals at Arlington Park in his only other trip to the post. The Mill River Stable's War Result, the 7 to 2 third choice, had run second to Chicuelo, beaten only three-quarters of a length in the Tremont stakes at Aqueduct. So the betters practically ignored Swell Chance.

Soon after the break, however, Swell Chance went right out with excellent speed. He raced side by side with War Result down the back stretch and he took command on the turn, where Our Boots and Kansas moved into third and fourth position. It wasn't until midstretch that Swell Chance was able to shake off War Result.

Records Fall in Public Links Golf Tourney

Detroit, Mich., July 23 (AP).—All scoring records for United States Golf association amateur competition were obliterated today with a mighty conquest of par by the nation's crack public links players.

In breathless, sultry heat, two of the 190 contestants in the national tournament—Worth Stimits Jr. of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Edward J. Furgol of Utica, N. Y.—smashed the 19 year old qualifying record of 139 by a stroke, and the 64 players who survived the qualifying test shot 149 or better, the lowest qualifying mark in the history of this or any other U. S. G. A. event.

Worth Stimits Jr., Colorado Springs, Col.	69	69	138

MISS WILLIAMS GETS A BATTLE IN WOMEN'S GOLF

Wins on Eighteenth from Virginia Ingram.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Ellamae Williams of Medinah, seeking to win her second straight Chicago Women's District Golf association championship, is still in this week's battle at the Northmoor Country club, but was forced to take an 18 hole thriller yesterday in her first round match in order to continue. Of course, even before she teed off, Ellamae and the gallery anticipated a struggle, for her opponent was Virginia Ingram of Sunset Ridge, who has twice held this No. 1 title among local feminine swingers.

Redeems Her 11 Score.

Miss Ingram held a one up advantage, after the eighth, where she redeemed the 11 she was charged with on Monday's qualifying round by sinking a 15 foot putt for a birdie three. Miss Williams, who won the qualifying medal with a 79, took the first three holes yesterday, but Miss Ingram returned to square it by winning the next three. Miss Williams evened it at the turn with a par five, her opponent taking two to escape a trap on the ninth. Each was out in 42, five over par.

Miss Williams won the tenth with a par, but surrendered the 11th by missing the green. Another two-shot stay in a trap cost Miss Ingram the 12th, and she repeated the error at the 16th to be two down. She regained that when Miss Williams found a bunker at the 17th. She made a great try to square the match at the 18th, her second landing in a trap, her third catching a ledge of the trap, and her fourth nearly going into the cup. Miss Williams had a medal card of 83, eight over par, against 84.

Second Round This Morning.

The second round of match play will be played this morning in all flights. All flight finals will be decided Friday with the exception of the championship match, which will be held at 36 holes Saturday. Yesterday's results:

Upper Half.

SCHENLEY.

Did Schenley take over Oldetyme Distillers? What is the financial position of Schenley and how much money did it make in recent years? Does it pay dividends on its common stock?—W. H.

Answer: Schenley Distillers corporation last May purchased the Oldetyme Distillers corporation for about 4 million dollars. The acquired properties will be operated as a Schenley division.

Schenley is one of the leading domestic distillers of rye and bourbon whiskies, with an annual productive capacity of approximately 52½ million gallons. The company also produces gin and rum and sells imported liquors thru a subsidiary.

The corporation has outstanding 173,150 shares of 5½ per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value, and 1,260,000 shares of $5 par common stock. Regular dividends are paid on the preferred stock. No payment on the common stock has been made since March 31, 1938, when 50 cents a share was disbursed.

Increasing competition and lower prices resulting from the growing stocks of maturing whiskies have cut into the company's profits. Consolidated net income of the company and subsidiaries, earnings per common share and dividends per common share in recent years follow:

1936	8,228,000	7.05	$3.75
1937	7,321,000	5.04	3.00
1938	4,050,000	2.45	.50
1939	4,129,000	2.52	......

In the first quarter of 1940, net income rose to $1,233,011, equal after preferred dividends to 79 cents a common share. Net income in the corresponding period of 1939 was $1,061,542, equal to 65 cents a common share.

Total assets of the company at the end of 1939 were $84,559,211. Current assets amounted to $67,335,766 against current liabilities of $6,004,714.

AIRCRAFT EARNINGS.

Answer: A comparison of the earning power of several aircraft makers prepared by Moody's showed that in 1939 Curtiss-Wright corporation earned 14.89 per cent of its invested capital; Douglas Aircraft company, 20.87 per cent; Glenn L. Martin, 22.88 per cent, and United Aircraft corporation 28.73 per cent.

Reports on each of these and other aircraft makers may be obtained upon request.

LARGE EARNINGS GAIN REPORTED BY PEOPLES GAS

Net $3.69 Per Share for Six Months.

George A. Ranney.

Net income of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company for the six months ended June 30 was $2,417,928, equal to $3.69 a share, against $1,528,524, or $2.33 a share, in the 1939 period, George A. Ranney, chairman, reported yesterday to stockholders.

Profit for the second quarter was $954,083 equal to $1.45 a share, against $656,119 and 79 cents in the second three months of 1939.

The increased earnings were largely the result of weather conditions favoring the consumption of gas, company officials said. Because of the cold winter and cool spring the company was able to sell a large amount of its general service gas and a reduced amount of the interruptible service gas.

Rates Somewhat Lower.

The latter type service, used by industrial customers may be interrupted to fill demands of the general service. Because it is an interruptible service, the rates are somewhat below the general service.

Gas sales in the first half of 1940 totaled 386,948,583 therms, against 379,988,685 in the first half of 1939, and sales in the second quarter totaled 192,536,485 therms, against 190,396,568.

[A therm is a unit of heating value equivalent to 100,000 British thermal units. A British thermal unit is the amount of heat required to raise the heat of a pound of water one degree Fahrenheit.]

Provision for taxes totaled $2,507,128 in the first half of this year, against $2,335,748 in the first half of 1939. For the second quarter of 1940 the tax provision was $1,231,328, against $1,114,982 a year ago.

List Gas Purchases.

The company in the first six months paid $6,802,242 for gas purchased from the Natural Gas Pipe-line Company of America, against $6,691,346 a year ago. Other gas purchased cost $1,222,946, against $1,128,484. Gas produced cost $658,565, against $774,889.

Gross income derived from sources other than the sale of gas was $856,820, against $704,443 in the first half of 1939.

Ranney said in commenting on the income that "it should be borne in mind that due to prevailing higher temperatures during the third quarter of each year a net operating deficit usually results."

Sells Entire Interest.

Ranney commented that since the last quarterly statement the company has sold its entire interest in the Kokomo Gas and Fuel company, Kokomo, Ind. He also stated that during the first half of this year the company bought $2,266,000 principal amount of its funded debt, consisting of $2,151,000 of first consolidated mortgage 6 per cent gold bonds, due April 1, 1943, and $115,000 of Ogden Gas company first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, due May 1, 1945.

The retirement will bring the company's funded debt down to $70,137,000.

SCATTERED UNITS IN CITIES SERVICE MAY BE LINKED

Washington, D. C., July 23 [Special].—Possibility that Cities Service Power and Light company will propose construction of a single integrated utility system of its properties now scattered in Arizona, Missouri, Wyoming, Colorado, and New Mexico and still conform to the "death sentence" provisions of the holding company act of 1935, was indicated today at a hearing before the Securities and Exchange commission.

Perry M. Chadwick, of counsel for the $420,000,000 utility system, asserted Cities Service could meet the provisions of the act.

The integration would be attained thru the interconnection of the properties of Public Service Company of Colorado and those of Federal Light and Traction company. When this is accomplished, Cities Service will link its Rocky mountain utilities with those located in Missouri and extending into Kansas, Oklahoma, and Arkansas.

This is the first time a large holding company has advanced the theory that interconnection of scattered properties is feasible under the holding company act.

NATIONAL TEA'S FOUR WEEK SALES ABOVE YEAR AGO

Sales of the National Tea company, retail food chain, with offices in Chicago, in the four weeks ended July 13 amounted to $4,578,668, a gain of 10.6 per cent above the corresponding period last year when sales totaled $4,140,845. In the 28 weeks ended July 13, sales aggregated $32,884,116, against $29,280,125 in the 1939 period, a gain of 12.3 per cent.

Sales of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company, one of the largest of the food chains, rose 9½ per cent in the four weeks ended July 13 from the corresponding period last year, the company reported yesterday. Sales totaled $19,836,472, compared with $18,121,630 in the 1939 period.

SEC Refuses Utility 'Death Sentence' Plea

Washington, D. C., July 23.—Columbia Gas and Electric corporation's application for approval of a plan of corporate simplification was denied today by the Securities and Exchange commission.

The SEC in tentative findings approved some aspects of the plan and set hearing of further evidence for July 31. Thru the plan the corporation sought to meet the corporate simplification and geographical integration requirements of the utility holding company act.

Columbia raised a unique issue, however, in asking that the commission make an overall finding that upon consummation of the plan the portion of the system included in the plan would be fully in conformance with all requirements of the "death sentence" clause of the act.

Balks at Proposal.

The plan proposed dissolution of inactive subsidiaries which have no assets; transfer to Columbia of three wholly-owned subsidiaries of Atlantic Seaboard corporation, Columbia's registered holding company subsidiary; dissolution of Eastern Pipe Line company, a subsidiary, and transfer of its assets to Home Gas company, another subsidiary, and transfer to Columbia of a nonutility subsidiary company by United Fuel Gas company, a subsidiary.

The commission approved dissolving six subsidiary companies, which it called "mere corporate shells," and the proposed transfer of assets of Eastern Pipe Line.

Control "Inequitable."

The major grounds for rejecting the request for an overall approval were that voting power in Columbia and some of its subsidiaries still would be distributed inequitably; that the plan only embraced part of the Columbia system, and because of an antitrust suit against Columbia.

The commission said that "the charters of the companies under consideration were so drawn as to give their preferred share holders merely the illusion of protection."

The antitrust suit, started by the department of justice in 1935, involved Columbia's acquisition of control over Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company.

I. C. C. SLASHES NORTH WESTERN RAIL LAW FEES

Washington, D. C., July 23 [Special].—The interstate commerce commission has approved only $442,844 of the $822,082 fees sought by attorneys and others in connection with the reorganization of the Chicago and North Western railroad, it was learned today.

Sullivan & Cromwell of New York would be allowed $12,272 on a claim of $20,522. Other cuts from the amounts sought were United States Trust company, $25,576 asked, $11,576 allowed; Chemical Bank and Trust company, from $12,534 to $7,034; Polk, Wardwell, Gardiner & Reed, from $26,317 to $12,567, and City Bank Farmers Trust company, from $18,419 to $10,919.

International Paper Co. Increases Hourly Wages

Glens Falls, N. Y., July 23 [Special].—Employés of the International Paper company have been granted a general wage increase of 2 cents an hour and adjustments in several departments adding another 2 cents an hour, it was announced today. The agreement is retroactive to June 1.

NATIONAL CITY BANK APPOINTS RENTSCHLER TO POST OF CHAIRMAN

New York, July 23 (AP).—Gordon S. Rentschler, for the last 12 years president of the National City Bank of New York, today was elected chairman of the board. He succeeds the late James H. Perkins.

G. S. Rentschler.

Another promotion made by directors of the nation's second largest bank was the appointment of William G. Brady Jr., as president. He has been a vice president for 15 years.

Rentschler was brought to the bank in 1925 by its then president, Charles E. Mitchell, and assigned the task of handling the bank's investments in the Cuban sugar industry. Prior to his banking connection, Rentschler had been interested in machinery and manufacturing since his graduation from Princeton in 1907.

He is a native of Hamilton, O.

WRIGHT OFFERED 30 RFC MILLIONS FOR NEW PLANTS

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP).—The Reconstruction Finance corporation has offered to lend about $30,000,000 to the Wright Aeronautical corporation for plant expansion in connection with the national defense program, Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator said today.

Jones said the loan had been offered several weeks ago on a basis of 4 per cent interest for an eight year term, but that the company had not indicated whether it would take the money. He said he presumed the company would arrange for funds thru private sources if it did not take the RFC loan.

Eleven loans aggregating $181,965,590 have been made to private industry in connection with the defense program, Jones said.

NOTES OFFERED FOR COMMODITY CREDIT AGENCY

The secretary of the treasury will offer today for the Commodity Credit corporation $250,000,000 of ¾ per cent notes, maturing in 2 years 9 months. Due May 1, 1943, they will not be subject to call before that date.

Subscriptions for the notes, intended primarily to finance the purchase of $165,000,000 of cotton loans held by local banks, will be received at the federal reserve banks and branches and at the treasury department.

The notes will be issued only in denominations of $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000, and will be exempt from all federal, state, municipal, and local taxation, except surtaxes, estate, inheritance, and gift taxes.

Brewster, Plane Builder, Reports Sales Increase

Brewster Aeronautic corporation, manufacturer of airplanes and parts, reported yesterday that its sales rose to $4,804,202 in the first half of 1940 from $235,056 in the corresponding period last year. James Work, president, said earnings were "substantial." The United States navy is one of Brewster's customers. Work reported orders on hand June 30 amounted to $44,877,626, compared with $2,300,353 a year earlier.

Soda Fountain Concern Will Build Factory

BY AL CHASE.

Half a million dollars will be spent by the Bastian-Blessing company for a new manufacturing plant and office building on the northwest side, Lewis G. Blessing, president, disclosed yesterday. Several sites are under consideration, he said. One to contain about 300,000 square feet will be selected and on it a one story plant to contain about 165,000 square feet of floor space will be built. The rest of the site will be used for parking and for future expansion.

Makes Soda Fountains.

The Bastian-Blessing company is one of the world's largest manufacturers of soda fountains and equipment, oxygen and acetylene cutting and welding equipment, ice cream freezers, ice cream cabinets and frosted food cabinets, and liquified petroleum gas [butane and propane] equipment.

Organized 32 years ago as an offshoot from the Liquid Carbonic company, Bastian-Blessing now employs nearly a thousand men and women in its three plants at Chicago, Grand Haven, Mich., and Cleveland, O. About 450 are on the Chicago factory pay roll. The company has showrooms in New York City.

Will Lease Present Plant.

The Chicago plant, a four story building at the northwest corner of Fairbank court and Ontario street, containing about 85,000 square feet of floor space, will be leased to other companies when the new Bastian-Blessing plant is completed about the first of next year.

No architectural details about the new plant are available except that the office section will be completely air conditioned, Blessing said.

NEWPORT NEWS SHIPBUILDING CO. REGISTERS STOCK

Washington, D. C., July 23 [Special].—Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company, one of the major participants in the government's ship building program, today filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange commission covering 69,730 shares of $5 cumulative convertible preferred stock and 768,531 shares of $1 par common. Union Securities corporation of New York will be principal underwriter.

Newport News will offer 15,000 shares of preferred stock, and present shareholders will offer the remainder of the common stock being registered, 536,098 shares will be offered by stockholders, and the remainder reserved for conversion of the preferred.

Call Hearings Next Week on Soy Bean Standards

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP).—The department of agriculture today announced public hearings will be held to consider government grades for soy beans recently placed under the federal grain standards act by congress. The hearings will be held at Toledo, O.; Peoria, Ill., and Chicago on July 29, 30, and 31, respectively. C. W. Kitchen, chief of the agricultural marketing service, said the soy bean crop had attained such proportions that the industry recognized the need for official inspection, grading, and certification.

BRAZIL, LEADING COFFEE SOURCE, IS HURT BY WAR

Colombia Also Loses European Outlets.

[This is the second of a series of articles on the economic position and foreign trade of the South and Central American countries.]

The economic dependence of Brazil and Colombia on one commodity—coffee—adds to seriousness of the problems these countries face as a result of the European war. Each country is potentially rich and relatively undeveloped.

Brazil and Colombia are the largest and second largest, respectively, of the world's coffee producers. The war has wiped out, dislocated or blockaded their European markets, leaving decreasing prices and a surplus in a commodity which was produced excessively even before the war. The problems facing both countries are protection for coffee thru price regulation, or arrangement of enough credit and capital from the outside to develop other products and industries.

Larger than United States.

Brazil is unique in many respects among South American countries. Its 3,275,510 square miles make it territorially larger than the United States and fourth in size of all nations. Its 44,115,000 population—of which an estimated 70 per cent are illiterate—far exceeds that of any other Latin American country. Portuguese, not Spanish, is spoken. Brazil is said to have no unemployment.

Rio de Janeiro, the capital, and Sao Paulo, both in the coffee district, are the chief industrial centers. Bahia is the center of the cotton, cocoa and tobacco regions, and Para is the center of the rubber and meat industries.

Cotton production was increasing prior to the war and might have aided Brazil in lessening its dependence upon coffee, but by 1939 loss of European markets cut exports sharply.

Meat Business Gains.

Cocoa, meat and leather exports gained, however, and it is said that with enough capital the country could develop vast supplies of mineral wealth.

Colombia has an area of 448,794 square miles and a population of 8,721,000. It produces 10 per cent of the world's coffee to Brazil's 70 per cent. In 1939, the United States took 83.5 per cent of Colombia's coffee and for the last decade America's share has not fallen below 70 per cent.

Colombia is potentially wealthy in oil and precious minerals. Altho these industries have made progress in recent years, they have been handicapped by lack of transportation. It is said that American capital for roads and railroads may be important factors in the future national economy of the country.

Germany has long played an important part in Brazil's development. Italy has made definite overtures to gain favor, particularly in the direction of the wealthy industrial leaders.

Brazil's Loans in Default.

On the other hand, Brazil has United States dollar loans outstanding totaling more than $169,000,000 and these obligations are all in various degrees of default. In 1939, Brazil and the United States agreed upon economic coöperation. The United States promised credit for industrial expansion and extension of existing debts, and Brazil declared its intention of resuming payment on the dollar loans.

The United States has been both a customer and a source of imports for Brazil and Colombia. Of the $305,395,000 total of Brazilian exports—about 40 per cent coffee—in 1939, the United States received 36.2 per cent and, in turn, accounted for 33.5 per cent of the country's imports of machinery, iron and steel, fuel and wheat.

Germany's Share of Trade.

Germany took 12 per cent of the export total and supplied 19.2 per cent of the $261,012,000 in imports; Great Britain received 9.6 per cent in exports and slightly less in imports, while Italy's totals were 2.4 and 1.8 per cent, respectively.

The United States was far ahead of any other nation in 1939 in its share of Colombia's $101,169,000 in exports and $104,830,000 in imports, accounting for 57.6 and 56.4 per cent, respectively. Germany was second with 10 per cent of the export total and 14.8 per cent of the imports. Great Britain took only 1.3 per cent of Columbia's exports, but accounted for 10.1 per cent of the imports, while Italy received 1.5 per cent and shipped 2.2 per cent.

B. F. Goodrich Profit Drops in Half Year

Profit of B. F. Goodrich company, makers of tires and other products, fell to $1,362,691 in the first half of 1940 from $3,122,728 in the six months ended June 30, 1939, David M. Goodrich, chairman, reported yesterday. The 1939 half year earnings included $415,188 of nonrecurring profits.

David M. Goodrich.

Goodrich said consolidated net sales for the first half of 1940 totaled $67,502,026, a gain of 6.4 per cent over the net sales for the first half of 1939.

L. S. Rosentiel, chairman of the Schenley Distillers corporation, reported that his company had consolidated net income of $2,283,926 for the first half of the year, equal to $1.44 a common share. In the corresponding period a year earlier net income was $1,460,052, or 78 cents a share.

Includes Oldetyme's Operations.

Business of the Oldetyme Distillers corporation is reflected in the statement from May 22, the date that Schenley acquired Oldetyme's assets.

Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation and its subsidiaries had net income of $2,141,645 or $1.93 a common share in the quarter ended June 30, against a net loss of $471,287 in the corresponding period last year. The company had net income of $3,276,256 or $2.12 a share in the first half of 1940 compared with net loss of $847,812 in the first six months of 1939.

Remington Rand, Inc., manufacturer of typewriters and office supplies, had net profit of $1,765,998 or 85 cents a common share in the six months ended June 30. This compared with $473,260 or 3 cents a common share in the period last year.

Remington's domestic sales in the June quarter were 22 per cent ahead of the corresponding period last year, the company reported, and net profit for the quarter was $565,240, or 22 cents a share, against $150,332 in the comparable 1939 quarter.

Butler's Loss $419,180.

Butler Brothers, large Chicago wholesale and retail house, reported that expenses in connection with a revamping of its organization drained profits and increased the net operating loss of the first six months compared with last year.

Frank S. Cunningham, chairman of Butler Brothers, told stockholders the company had a net operating loss of $419,180 in the six months ended June 30, compared with a net loss of $314,675 in the first half of 1939.

"The heavy nonrecurring expense incident to the reorganization now under way," Cunningham said, "more than accounts for the decline in net profit in the spring. Many improvements in merchandising and personnel are being introduced which will both increase efficiency and reduce expense.

Expect Benefits Later.

"It was anticipated that during the adjustment period earnings would suffer temporarily, because the cost of changes is charged to current expense and the benefits will not be realized immediately."

Sales in the wholesale division gained 3 per cent in the first six months compared with last year, Cunningham reported, while in the retail division they increased 9 per cent.

National Gypsum company and subsidiary reported net profit of $607,636 in the first six months after provision of $165,000 for federal and Canadian income taxes. This was equal, after dividend requirements on the preferred stock to 37 cents a common share. In the first half of 1939 net income was $696,705, or 44 cents per share.

WANTED: TO BUY A MANUFACTURING BUSINESS
I am desirous of buying all or the majority interest of an established manufacturing business that is now earning profits of approximately $25,000.00 per year, and is capable of expansion in the hands of aggressive management. Must be in or near Chicago. I prefer a business manufacturing special machinery or equipment of a labor saving nature, as this has been my background, but will consider other fields if sound and promising. I am prepared to pay cash for the business that meets my requirements. References exchanged. All replies held in strict confidence. Address G C 291, Tribune.

CHICAGO USES 9 CARS OF LEMONS, LIMES DAILY; IT'S THE HEAT

The heat wave has sent Chicagoans scurrying for lemons and limes, the agricultural marketing service reported yesterday. The service estimated the city will consume approximately nine freight carloads of lemons a day as long as the hot weather continues.

Lemons come from California packed 400 boxes to each refrigerator car. Perry Stern, head of the Chicago Fruit auction, said the average box contained about 360 lemons. The lemons are auctioned in carload lots each morning. Sales totaled 10 cars Monday and nine cars Tuesday. Stern predicted sales will double or even triple sales of last week if the hot weather continues.

Prices have advanced about $2 a box since the heat wave started, but are still below prices in the corresponding period last year, Stern reported. He said oranges are plentiful. Orange sales at the auction totaled 21 cars Monday and 14 yesterday.

WAY IS CLEARED FOR FINANCING OF TVA EXPANSION

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP).—The house rules committee today granted legislative right of way to a $25,000,000 appropriation bill to expand the power output of the Tennessee Valley authority for production of aluminum for airplanes.

House leaders tentatively planned to call up the measures, with three hours of general debate, early next week.

The money would be used to start a three year program to cost $65,800,000 and was urgently requested by members of President Roosevelt's advisory defense commission.

Chairman Woodrum [D., Va.] of the appropriations deficiency subcommittee told the rules committee that he proposed to offer an amendment to the bill, urged by Commonwealth and Southern company, which would require the defense commission to define the extent and location of new transmission lines to carry the new power.

ILLINOIS OUTPUT OF OIL DIPS; U. S. AVERAGE HIGHER

Daily crude oil production in Illinois in the week ended July 20 declined for the third consecutive week, but the national average increased 12,888 barrels to 3,576,872 barrels a day, the Oil and Gas Journal reported yesterday.

The Illinois drop of 21,909 barrels a day to 464,116 was the largest recorded for any state. Three weeks ago the output for the state averaged 518,224 barrels a day. With drilling of the Devonian sand nearly completed at Centralia, "the cream seems to be off," the journal said.

The largest gain was in Texas, up 24,703 barrels to 1,168,036 a day.

UNION ASBESTOS DIVISION BUYS ROGERS FACTORY

BOOST CHICAGO AS IDEAL TANK MAKING CENTER

Freedom from Bomb Danger Stressed.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Chicago possesses many advantages which should make it a natural center for the building of military tanks of all types, Chicago industrial leaders said yesterday. Among these advantages are the following:

1. Central location away from the seaboards where factories might be subject to aerial attack.

2. Location at the producing center for many of the raw materials from which tanks are built.

3. There are already large manufacturing enterprises here which, it is said, could adapt themselves to tank manufacture. There are manufacturing facilities not now in use that could be adapted to tank assembly.

4. The city has a large labor supply upon which to draw.

Querl Cites Advantages.

E. P. Querl, special industrial representative of the Chicago Association of Commerce, who has been working to bring airplane and parts factories to the Chicago district, said that many of the advantages the city is stressing in its efforts to bring airplane works here may be equally applied to the tank industry.

"We are far inland from the sea and distant from Mexico thru which some foreign power might try to attack us," Querl said.

"This is one of the basic reasons why the Chicago district should be considered for the manufacture of army tanks. Cook county is a center for the production of many of the parts that would go into tanks. The county has the greatest diversity of metallic production of any in the nation."

Officials of Chicago companies that might be interested in building tanks said it was their opinion it would be better to build new factories or to take over those not now being used for such a purpose rather than to build these war instruments in plants already having a large production of peacetime products.

Harvester Firm Mentioned.

One of the companies mentioned as a possible tank builder was the International Harvester company, which has huge manufacturing operations in Chicago. The company builds crawler type tractors here. A spokesman for the company said, however, that the fact it builds crawler type tractors was no indication that it could convert its manufacturing facilities into a tank assembly line.

"There is as much difference between a tank and a crawler type tractor as there is between a race horse and a truck horse," the spokesman said. "The tank is built of heavy armor plate steel and is powered by a heavy engine much different from the engines that are used for tractors. But I suppose our engineers could adapt themselves to tank construction if the necessity should arise."

It is reported that several railroad car builders in the Chicago area have been considering tank construction, but no orders have been placed with them yet.

Advantage in Size.

The one big advantage possessed by certain large companies, it was said, is that their managements think in terms of mass production, their whole objective being the production of large quantities of goods in the shortest possible time.

Managements of other companies producing goods in limited numbers

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, July 23 (AP).—The stock market continued to operate under war blankets today and leaders generally followed diverse trails. A few aircrafts, motors, chemicals, and specialties managed to post modest recoveries, but small fractional declines were well distributed at the close.

For the second day in succession the Associated Press average of 60 issues was unchanged at 41.4. Activity in a handful of low priced stocks picked up near the finish and transfers amounted to 251,460 shares, against 227,120 on Monday.

Wall street, while mildly encouraged by an assortment of earnings statements disclosing sharp improvement over 1939, especially for the airplane makers, still leaned toward cash rather than securities pending the next move in the European conflict.

Gains of fractions to a point or so were retained by Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Sperry, Glenn Martin, General Motors, Chrysler, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, Bethlehem Steel, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Loft, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania, Alleghany corporation, and Texas corporation.

On the offside were United States Steel, Youngstown Sheet, American Telephone, Anaconda, Kennecott, Western Union, Johns-Manville, du Pont, Woolworth, Consolidated Edison, Eastman Kodak, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and General Electric.

Ahead slightly in a spotty curb were Brewster Aero, American Gas, Republic Aviation, Glen Alden Coal, and New Jersey Zinc. In arrears were Humble Oil, Pantepec, Aluminum of America, Creole Petroleum, and St. Regis Paper.

New York Bonds.

Trading was quiet and many issues ended unchanged. A few rails benefiting from special news developments made some progress in early dealings but profit taking blotted out most of the advantages.

Among the more active issues were those of the Alleghany corporation whose management won a court consent yesterday to utilize certain funds to purchase one of its bonds in the open market. The 5s of '49 and the stamped 5s of '50 were higher at one time but failed to hold all of the advantage. The convertible 5s of '44, object of the open market buying policy, started off under profit taking selling and ended down 2¾ at 86½.

Foreign dollar bonds closing lower by 1 to 4 points included Japanese 6½s at 81½, Milan 6½s at 31¾, and German 7s at 21¾. United States government bonds were 8-32 higher to that much lower.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading was light, prices were mixed on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Transactions totaled only 11,000 shares. Commonwealth Edison, the volume leader, moved up ⅛ point to 30½.

Bank Stocks.

Leading issues were unchanged yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The extreme heat was again the predominating factor in the lower market for hogs yesterday. Hot weather restricted buying, and with receipts slightly larger than a week ago, prices fell 15 to 25 cents.

A few loads of selected 208 to 227 pound fall pigs reached the early top of $6.60, but similar kinds sold later at $6.50, compared with $6.75 at Monday's high. Prices averaged 15 cents lower at $5.80, the lowest in three weeks.

Light receipts bolstered prices in the cattle trade. Advances of 10 to 15 cents were registered in best longfed steers and choice yearlings. Most other steers were bought at steady rates, with some weakness in common to medium grades. Calves dipped 25 cents.

Lambs ruled weak to 25 cents lower, with trading slowed down by sellers' resistance to lower bids.

Commodities

Futures prices on major commodities closed irregular yesterday with copper and cocoa extending their 1940 lows. Copper declined 0.12 to 0.15 cent a pound with metal quoted for delivery in September at 9.10 cents bid and 9.18 cents asked.

The refinery buying price for scrap copper was reduced ⅛ cent a pound, making No. 1 heavy copper wire scrap 9 cents, roughly equivalent to 10½ cents a pound on a refined basis. The domestic copper price declined to 10½ cents, delivered Connecticut valley base. Leading primary producers made no change in their price of 11½ cents.

Brazilian cocoa interests notified the New York Cocoa exchange that they had found it almost impossible to establish minimum prices but that if adverse war conditions continued, the trade apparently expects the Brazilian government to offer financial assistance. The assistance expected would consist of a cash advance on half of the cocoa crop, which would be retained in stock.

Chicago packers reported the sale of 3,500 hides at 10¾ cents a pound, a reduction of ¾ cent from the last reported sale. Hide futures advanced 0.11 to 0.17 cent a pound, with the turnover aggregating 6,200,000 pounds. The closing bid price on hides for September delivery was 8.65 cents.

Crude rubber futures closed ¼ cent lower to 1/10 cent higher with rubber for delivery in September quoted at 19.27 to 19.47 cents a pound. Smoked ribbed rubber declined to 22.10 cents in the cash market.

Straits tin futures advanced ½ to a full cent a pound, with the cash price ¼ cent a pound higher. Wool top futures sagged 0.3 to 0.4 cent, with Octobers quoted at 88 cents bid. Sugar prices finished irregular, while Santos coffee advanced moderately.

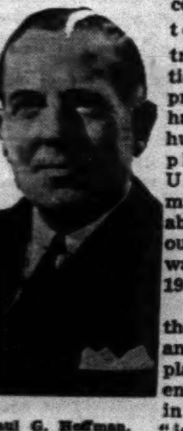
AUTO MACHINERY CAN'T TURN OUT GUNS: HOFFMAN

More Highly Specialized than in 1917, He Says.

New York, July 23 (AP).—Paul G. Hoffman, president of Studebaker corporation, said today the extreme specialization of this mass production era had made the huge automobile plants of the United States much less adaptable to turning out arms than was the case in 1917.



Paul G. Hoffman.

"Nearly all of the machinery in an automobile plant of the present day," he said in an interview, "is special purpose machinery, good only to do the thing it was made for. Twenty-three years ago a much larger proportion of automobile machinery was of a general purpose type."

Machinery Main Problem.

He said the automobile industry had little to offer for the arms program except management experience, trained personnel, and factory buildings. As far as buildings were concerned, he said, this availability was not so important as it might seem, as new buildings for arms manufacture could be put up more quickly than the machinery for them could be obtained.

The automatic processes of present day automobile production, he said, have reduced the proportion of highly skilled labor available in the motor industry.

Arms Work Highly Skilled.

He said this proportion is now about 10 per cent, while some arms manufacture jobs require as much as 40 per cent highly skilled labor.

"As a result of these changes since 1917," he continued, "the job of preparing for arms manufacture is much more involved than is popularly supposed." He added, however, that the industry was coöperating to the fullest extent, with a number of companies cutting thru red tape and making preparations in advance of actual orders.

Rock Island Arsenal Will Run at Capacity for Next 2 Years

Rock Island, Ill., July 23 [Special].—The Rock Island arsenal will be operated at capacity during the next two years and approximately $12,500,000 will be spent in filling war department orders during the current fiscal year, which will end June 30, 1941, Brig. Gen. C. T. Harris, assistant chief of ordnance and officer in charge of industrial service in Washington, D. C., declared on a visit here today. With Gen. Harris was Lieut. Col. H. C. Minton, ordnance department executive officer.

Gen. C. T. Harris.

Employment at the arsenal, the general said, can be expected to reach the 8,000 mark within the next six months, experienced machinists and machine operators being the principal requirement. The force is now nearing 6,000.

Work Piling Up.

"Work is piling up for all six of the nation's arsenals as fast as they can take it on," Gen. Harris said, "and the war department is confronted with a program beyond any peacetime plan ever before attempted."

Gen. Harris, in charge of the entire army procurement program, said that contracts have been released to at least 200 of the nation's strongest industrial firms, orders placed this month alone totaling $213,000,000. Col. Borman F. Ramsey, arsenal commandant here, said that orders placed thru the arsenal itself amount to $1,000,000 a day.

The war department has $550,000,000 for production during the current fiscal year, $50,000,000 of which is allocated to the six arsenals. Largest of the items in the current program is the construction of a $5,000,000 powder plant at Charlestown, Ind. Another $20,000,000 will be spent there for one year's production of smokeless powder, Gen. Harris said.

Rifle Output to Increase.

Asked about production of the new Garand semiautomatic rifle at the United States armory in Springfield, Mass., Gen. Harris said that production of the weapons will be stepped up to 400 a day within six months. The guns are now being turned out at the rate of between 200 and 240 a day.

"One must remember that 280,000 rifles will equip an army of 1,000,000 men, since many of the army units such as engineers, tank and machine gun corps do not use these weapons," the general said.

"The United States has on hand 800,000 of the old Springfields, which are considered the most powerful and most effective shoulder weapon ever developed, and 1,075,000 Enfields, 1917 model."

COURT UPHOLDS LABOR BOARD IN RULING FOR C. I. O.

St. Louis, Mo., July 23 (AP).—The National Labor Relations board has sole discretion in determining what constitutes an appropriate collective bargaining unit, the United States circuit court of appeals held today.

The court sustained a labor board order making the C. I. O. federation of flat glass workers the bargaining agent for all production and maintenance workers in six Pittsburgh Plate Glass company plants.

The company had contended the board exceeded its authority when it ruled the C. I. O. union, with a majority of workers in five of the factories, could represent employés at Crystal City, Mo., where the union was in the minority.

The court granted the board's request for an enforcement order. It required the company to bargain with the C. I. O. union and forbade it to deal with an independent group at Crystal City which claimed to represent 1,500 of the 1,800 plant employés there.

BOOST CHICAGO AS IDEAL TANK MAKING CENTER

of units may think only in terms of low unit volume. Chicago industrial leaders said that what is needed now for the national defense is the type of management able to concentrate on huge volume.

An example of a large Chicago mass production organization is the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, which is known to have sought orders for army tanks. Pullman-Standard has turned out box cars weighing nearly 50 tons at the rate of one every 10 minutes, with an even faster rate when the company was pushed.

Plants May be Converted.

These cars, built of steel and wood, are more complex in their structure than might appear. It is said that Pullman-Standard's Chicago district plants can be converted at once into tank factories.

The huge Diesel-electric locomotive building plant of the Electro-Motive corporation at La Grange has been mentioned as a possible center for the construction of super-tanks because of that company's experience in heavy construction and in handling high powered engines. However, it was said that this plant will probably continue to build locomotives that will be necessary to the railroads in handling military supplies.

One component of tank construction that is lacking in this region is heavy steel armor plate. This type of steel, which must be heat treated in electric furnaces, has been produced largely in eastern mills.

Could Be Made Here.

However, steel men said that the Chicago mills, if necessity demanded, could turn out armor plate.

B. C. Heacock, president of the Caterpillar Tractor company, Peoria, Ill., said recently that mass production could best be accomplished in factories devoted entirely to tank construction. With mass production, he said, the cost per unit could be substantially reduced. Light tanks recently have been selling at from $25,000 to $30,000, altho the army is reported to have obtained a bid for 400 tanks at a unit cost of $18,000.

FLEMING ALTERS REGULATIONS OF CANNING TRADE

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP).—The wages and hours administration today eliminated certain exemptions for canners of fresh fruits and vegetables, but made some concessions to the industry.

Officials said that a new order by Col. Philip B. Fleming, administrator, becoming effective October 1, would increase the number of plants coming under the Fair Labor Standards Act, raise from seven to ten the number of persons who may be employed in an exempt plant, and grant a partial exemption from the hour provisions for 14 weeks, in addition to the present full exemption for 14 weeks. The changes are expected to affect about 70,000 workers.

It was said that the changes would make more persons eligible for the 30 cents an hour minimum pay, but that some now receiving overtime probably would no longer get extra pay.

HEAT? SALESMEN COOK UP PLANS FOR MORE OF IT

More than 150 Chicago area dealers and salesmen of the Delco Appliance division of General Motors corporation yesterday heard sales plans outlined at a meeting at the Hotel Sherman. Frank L. Orcutt, manager of the Chicago Delso-Heat branch, presided.

Orcutt discussed details of a lowered retail price structure for various types of equipment for the automatic heating of homes by coal, oil, or gas. He asserted that new and improved production facilities and engineering advances, together with increased sales, made possible the price reductions.

E. A. Halbleib, general manager of the division, spoke to the group by telephone from Rochester, N. Y., the home office.

DAY by DAY on the FARM
By HOMER WEISZ

Big Crop of Thistles.

July 23, 1940.

THISTLEDOWN, the light fluffy substance that forms the parachutes by which Canada thistle seeds are carried long distances by the winds, is blowing about the countryside in the Chicago area, scattering over vacant lands and cultivated fields the seeds of this pernicious pest that has been outlawed in Illinois since 1872.

Thistles growing on both private and public property in the metropolitan area are shedding seeds. The seeds are blowing about the streets in Chicago and suburbs and along the highways in the country. They are spreading over farm lands, infesting clean fields. There is a heavy crop of them.

The Illinois noxious weed law requires that Canada thistles be destroyed before they reach a seed bearing stage. Landowners who violate the law are subject to a fine of not less than $10 or more than $300 for each offense.

Along Main Highways.

A trip along some of the main highways out of Chicago revealed patches of Canada thistles along roadsides and in fields, on streets, alleys, and vacant lots in the city and suburbs, and in forest preserves.

There are lots of Canada thistles close up to Roosevelt road where it runs thru the prairies just west of the Chicago city limits. Along McCormick road between Evanston and Niles Center the thistles are growing right up against the curb and leaning out over the pavement. There are patches of them on both sides of a bridle path just east of McCormick road.

Skokie boulevard has Canada thistles on both sides of it, scattered plants in some places, and good sized fields of them in others.

Some of Them Cut.

In the Skokie lagoons area of the Cook county forest preserve district, just east of Skokie boulevard, are numerous patches of Canada thistles, some in full bloom and others shedding seeds. Some of the thistles on this property have been cut. The Skokie lagoons project is being developed by the Civilian Conservation corps under the direction of the national park service, department of the interior.

Thistles and other weeds have been cut from the rights of way of many roads in the area, but not from all. Some also have been cut on private property.

In many places the thistles still could be cut before seeds form, since the plants are just now in full bloom. It is too late for some; the seeds already have blown away.

Thistles are so thick in some spots that they virtually have crowded out all other vegetation and taken possession of the ground.

ARGENTINE TRADE WITH AMERICAS EXPANDS IN 1940

Dealings with European Nations Decline.

BUENOS AIRES, July 23 (AP)—Argentina's trade with the western hemisphere increased in the first half of 1940 while its European trade decreased, the finance ministry reported today.

Imports from American nations were about 46 per cent of all imports, compared with 29.9 per cent for the first six months of 1939. European imports dropped 45 per cent of the total from 63.4 per cent in the 1939 period.

Export Excess 29 Millions.

An excess of exports over imports amounting to $29,147,700 for the first six months of the year was disclosed in the survey of the finance ministry.

The survey listed exports at about $278,334,400 and imports at about $249,176,700.

The total value of exports for the first six months of the year exceeded by about $102,990,000 the value for corresponding 1939 period despite the temporary loss of important European markets.

United States Main Supplier.

Great Britain was second with about $36,210,300 and Brazil third with about $9,504,300.

SEEK TO AVERT BOEING PLANE FACTORY STRIKE

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP).—Secretary of Labor Perkins today ordered John L. Connor, a labor department conciliator, to fly to Seattle, Wash., in an effort to avert a threatened strike of machinists in the Boeing Aircraft company factory.

The plant, employing about 7,000 men, is at work on military orders.

Labor department officials said that members of the machinists union [A. F. of L.] and employer representatives had been negotiating for about two months without reaching an agreement on wages, seniority, and grievance machinery. They said the union had voted to strike, but was deferring a walkout pending further efforts at settlement.

DEFENSE TRADES LURE MEN; GIRLS RUN ELEVATORS

Cleveland, O., July 23 (AP).—The Statler hotel, one of Cleveland's largest, announced today it was employing girl elevator operators for the first time because of the job pickup in defense-active industries.

Fifteen men had left elevator posts for jobs in the metal trades in the last few months, Manager Eugene Kelly explained. It was possible to fill the vacancies with other men, Kelly said, but the hotel did not consider this feasible since the new employés probably would be lured to defense jobs before they could be trained.

WHEAT AND OATS FUTURES LOWEST IN MANY MONTHS

Prices of July Soy Beans Tumble 7 Cents.

Evening up operations in July grain and soy bean contracts resulted in nervous markets yesterday. July oats and all deliveries of wheat sold at new seasonal lows. July wheat sold at 71⅝ cents, a decline of ⅞ cent from Monday's close, and July oats at 28¼ cents before the decline was checked. These prices were the lowest quoted since last August.

Closing trades on wheat futures were ⅝ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher. Corn finished ¾ cent higher to ⅝ cent lower, the former on July. Oats were ⅜ to 1½ cents lower, and rye unchanged to 2⅝ cents higher, July showing the strength.

July Soy Beans Weak.

Speculators who anticipated a squeeze of shorts in July soy beans found the market without support when they tried to sell, and the price declined 7¼ cents with the close at the bottom. The deferred deliveries finished ½ to ¾ cent lower.

Liquidation by holders of July wheat was absorbed by cash and milling interests which in turn sold September at a premium of 1¼ to 1½ cents a bushel. This is estimated to be about the cost of carrying the cash grain into September. The difference in price between July and September wheat at the close was said to have been the widest in about five years.

End Trading in July.

There were deliveries of 1,261,000 bushels of cash wheat on July contracts and 1,282,000 bushels were tendered and retendered late in the day. Trading in the July delivery ended at the market's close. Sellers have until July 31 to deliver the cash grain.

A downward revision in the estimated yield of spring wheat in North Dakota was forecast by Chicago crop experts, who asserted that despite recent showers, the hot wave which has swept that state has caused irreparable damage.

WARD WILL USE SPRAGUE PLANT FOR WAREHOUSE

Montgomery Ward & Co. will use the seven story warehouse at the northwest corner of Larrabee and Erie streets, bought from Sprague, Warner & Co. in April for $500,000, for warehouse purposes and for some general administrative departments now in the Ward administration building at 619 West Chicago avenue, it was learned yesterday. The company probably will take possession next May 1 when Sprague, Warner & Co. expects to move into its $2,000,000 plant now being built at the northeast corner of Sacramento square.

The present Sprague, Warner & Co. building fronts 126 feet on Erie street and approximately 420 feet along Larrabee street and also along the river. It has been used by the wholesale grocery firm for many years.

NET OF CENTRAL REPUBLIC CO. IS LOWER FOR YEAR

The Central Republic company, investment banking firm, reports net profit of $118,082, or 88 cents a share, for the year ended June 30, compared with $155,999, or $1.14 a share, the year before.

The company said its security inventory had a book value of $2,343,358 and an indicated market value of $2,013,407. Cash was $266,209, demand notes payable totaled $531,900, and reserves for depreciation of securities amounted to $492,763, against which the indicated depreciation at the close of the fiscal year was $329,950.

A year earlier, security inventory was carried at $2,552,263 and had indicated market value of $2,162,303.

RAILS RESTRICT WEST CANADIAN GRAIN SHIPMENT

WINNIPEG, Man., July 23 (AP).—Immediate restriction on shipment of wheat from prairie points to lakehead elevators was announced today by J. A. Brass, secretary of the Railway Association of Canada at Winnipeg.

The action was necessitated by wartime demands on rolling stock and light movement out of congested elevators at Fort William and in the east. Export demand is low and grain already in transit will more than tax available storage capacity.

The duration of the restriction will depend on future export movement.

BENEFIT STATUS OF COMMISSION SALESMEN TOLD

State Official Explains Compensation Rules.

Circumstances in which commission salesmen may collect benefits under the unemployment compensation act were explained yesterday by Martin P. Durkin, state director of labor.

Martin P. Durkin.

His statement recalled a recent case in which a commission salesman was reported to have quit his job in which he was making $13 a week. The salesman then received $15 a week in unemployment benefits.

The unemployment compensation division will not penalize a salesman who quits his job because he cannot make a living at it, provided he has made a sincere effort to succeed at the work, Durkin said.

Depends on the Reason.

"A worker who quits his job without good reason may be disqualified from receiving benefits for one to six weeks," the director said. "However, it has been decided by the division that inability to make a living on a job constitutes good reason for quiting it, and no penalty is imposed in such cases.

"These are, of course, the general principles covering such cases. Because of the many different circumstances which may surround each case, the decision in each case must be made according to the facts."

Discussing partial benefits, Durkin said these can be drawn only by employees who work less than full time because of lack of work. Commission salesmen are not entitled to such payments merely because of low earnings while they are employed, he said.

Other Terms Explained.

Workers, moreover, may receive partial benefits only for weeks in which they earn less than the amount they would get in unemployment compensation benefits if they were totally unemployed, he added.

"A commission salesman," Durkin said, "is considered a full time worker unless there is some agreement to the contrary between him and his employer, or unless he is restricted in some way, such as being permitted to call only on leads furnished by the employer.

"If he is permitted to find his own prospects and work as long as he likes, low earnings may be caused by lack of opportunity or lack of ability, but not by lack of work."

Unemployment compensation benefits totaling $44,224,417 have been paid to Illinois workers since the first check was issued one year ago today, Durkin said. He said 3,308,241 checks were written, averaging $13 for total unemployment.

WE CAN USE A MAN WHO HAS A DIPLOMA FROM THE SCHOOL OF HARD KNOCKS

This ad is addressed to a man who still has faith in himself and is looking for an immediate opportunity with possibilities of earnings that may far exceed your expectations.

Any man who is unemployed and does not try to get work is a disgrace and a liability to the community and the nation if he does not take advantage of an opportunity that is offered to him even tho it be out of his regular line of work. Some of our men who were unemployed a few years ago, heeded our call and connected with us, have earned during these years of so-called depression [unknown to us as our business increased] more money in percentage and bonus than they previously had in their entire life in salaries or commissions.

Many have had the pleasure of buying new homes, automobiles, have substantial bank accounts. Why not give yourself a chance? You may also be one of the men who could enjoy this unusual experience.

This message comes from one of the largest companies of its kind in the world, whose electrical units enjoy an enviable reputation and whose business is built on the soundest basis. We believe a man should receive all that he is worth and thus he is never handicapped by having to support a lot of "dead wood" as we are sorry to say many business firms thru their system have compelled a man to tolerate.

We are on an expansion program in the Chicago area and we are going to connect with a certain number of men, give them an opportunity to prove to themselves the sincerity of the above statement. If we do not find enough men to respond to this ad, we will place, from neighboring cities, men who answered a similar ad and have proved so sucgessful that they are willing to go anywhere to work. We prefer however, to get as many men locally as possible and if you are a man who is unemployed or employed in a position where you feel you are entitled to greater earnings and are willing to learn, adapt yourself to successful methods and can furnish good references as to your character and habits, we'll be very pleased to grant you an interview and we will frankly tell you whether or not you are fitted for this opportunity.

Read this message at least twice—then come to the

Outwitting Heat in Chicago Park
